Today

No More Jealous God.
They Won't Hurt Us.
Ask Mussolini.
Dead, for Progress.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE LONDON DAILY EXPRESS reports a change in the Bible text, ordered by the International Commission on the Revision of the Bible. The words "loving kindness and mercy" will replace the word "jealous," in the familiar passage:

"For I, the Lord Thy God, am a jealous God, visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation."

AN ADDITIONAL change would seem necessary, for a God of loving kindness and mercy would hardly visit the sins of wicked fathers on innocent children.

The description of God as a jealous God has puzzled many believers, unable to imagine jealousy in the character of a ruler omniscient and omnipotent.

THE CONCEPTION went with primitive ideas of God. It was believed by each people that theirs was the best, most powerful god, but other gods existed, for other peoples.

When lightning came down to start the fire that was proof that Jehovah was more powerful than his rivals, and jealousy was shown in the severe punishment inflicted on those that worshipped the calf of gold, a rival god. The high god was supposed to be close at hand, walking in the garden, in the cool of the evening, enjoying the smell of burnt offerings, animals' flesh roasted, arguing with Job, out of the whirlwind.

MAN'S IDEA of God is usually a being much like himself, cruel and jealous among jealous, cruel people, such as the ancient Bedouins, gentle among mild Asiatics, such as produced Buddha.

The Greek philosopher spoke truly:

"If the camels had a god, their god would have four legs and a hump."

AS MEN'S knowledge of the universe expands their conception of divine power changes. A universe that, in our corner of it, measures from side to side one hundred forty million light years, the distance that light travels in 140,000,000 years, going 186,000 miles a second, is a universe too big for a God of jealousy, or one anxious to prove his superiority to poor Job, all covered with boils.

OMISSION of one text in the Bible would have saved untold suffering. It gives men the dreadful, and deadly command, "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." There are no witches, there never were any, flying through the air on broomsticks. But King James, obeying the command, put to death helpless old women, accused of sailing out to sea through the air on broomsticks, and raising a storm to wreck the king's ship.

Thousands were burned, hanged, drowned, horribly tortured, by those that believed there must be witches, since the Bible said not to let them live. The late President White, of Cornell University, says those eight words, "thou shalt not suffer a witch to live," have caused more needless suffering than any other words ever written.

MONSIEUR HENRY, French charge d' affaires, assured our State Department that the proposed federation of twenty-six European nations is not directed against the United States.

That is a comfort. Europe should postpone any union against the United States at least until Europe has paid what it owes the United States. A change from the cry "Help, or we perish" to a threat of hostile combination would be rather sudden.

BESIDES, it will be time enough to decide what if anything the United States of Europe will do to the United States of America after the new combination gets started. Twenty-six Kilkenny cats, tied together by the tails and hung over a European clothes line, would not, at first, menace anything but Kilkenny cats.

HOWEVER, the suggestion that Europe MIGHT unite against us is enlightening. It should make our government think more about adequate defense, and waste less time on sloppy peace talk.

MUSSOLINI has no peace doves nesting in his thought. He knows that peace, in our state of barbarism, is safest when enemies fear to attack you. On Saturday, he told a crowd of 200,000 in Florence that he would build, ton for ton, as many warships as France built, and warned all enemies that Italy is ready for all comers.

THAT SOUNDS truculent, but it is better than saying "I know my enemies won't hurt me, if I love them hard enough."

Right is a vain word without might, says Mussolini. Pretty phrases are all very fine, but muskets, machine guns, ships and fighting airplanes are even better.

Mussolini says it, others in Europe think it.

IN THE WORLD in which we live, it is the Mussolinis that start things going and control the destinies of men and nations.

We should be able to control our own destiny, safe from surprise by any new Napoleon coming by air, land or water.

ONE OF BRIAND'S suggestions, in connection with his proposed United States of Europe, will seem strange, quite

ZEP MAKES FIRST STOP OF OCEAN FLIGHT

Reaches Spanish City After Cruising Mediterranean To Avoid Fitful Storms

International News Service.

SEVILLE, Spain, May 19.—Successfully completing the first leg of its latest distance-devastating flight, the Graf Zeppelin arrived here at 5 p. m. today (1 p. m., Pittsburgh time).

A huge crowd, most of which had been at the field since early morning, was on hand when the huge airship, bound on its sixth crossing of the Atlantic Ocean, arrived over the airport.

A great cry of welcome went up from the throats of the assembled throng, mingling with the drone of the airship's motors as Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, slowly maneuvered it into position for landing.

SOLDIERS AT FIELD

To facilitate the landing, 400 Spanish soldiers were stationed on the field.

According to present plans, the Graf will remain at Seville less than 12 hours, taking off tomorrow on the long ocean hop to Pernambuco, Brazil. From Pernambuco the airship's line of flight is to Rio de Janeiro and thence to Lakehurst, N. J., by way of Havana.

A number of passengers will board the air liner here, taking the place of others who had booked passage only from Friedrichshafen to Seville.

The Graf's arrival was a trifle behind schedule, but Dr. Eckener purposely had taken his passengers for a jaunt over the Mediterranean coast to avoid fitful storms in the vicinity of Seville.

PASSES OVER CADIZ

The Graf flew slowly over Cadiz at low altitude today at 2:15 p. m., (9:15 a. m., Pittsburgh time). Thousands of persons viewed it.

At 350 p. m. (10:50 a. m., Pittsburgh time), the Graf passed over the coastal city of Huelva.

VISITS NORTHERN AFRICA

At 12:25 p. m. (7:25 a. m., Pittsburgh time), the Graf was reported over Ceuta, Africa. Somewhat later she was over Tangier,

AN APOLOGY

An apology is due those who were unable to buy the Sun-Telegraph yesterday. Despite an increased press run, there was a complete sell-out of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Especially is the shortage regretted because the issue contained details of the $2,500 in prizes to be given for selection of your talking picture favorites.

In order to enable all Sun-Telegraph patrons to compete, the first contest picture will be reprinted this week.

FRAUD WARNING ISSUED BY PARK

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today issued a warning that vigorous prosecution would follow attempts at fraud in the primary election tomorrow.

Park's warning was issued after he had pledged his support in insuring a clean election to United States Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the Senate committee investigating campaign expenses incurred by Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Francis H. Bohlen, as candidates for Senator.

Park promised that the county detectives would co-operate with a dozen deputy sheriffs who have been assigned to investigate immediately any reports of election disorders.

The Allegheny County Elections Association will scan the returns carefully, Secretary Francis S. Guthrie said today, and will take action if indications of fraud are found, but it plans no action while the election is taking place and will have no representatives in court tomorrow to act on complaints.

CHAOS RULES FOR STATE PRIMARIES

G. O. P. Organization Bolters And Anti-Dry Vote Confuse Senate, Governor Fights

The state's most confusing campaign in a generation ends today without any convincing predictions of who will be the successful candidates.

Important factors that will determine the result, according to competent observers, are:

1—The ability of the powerful organizations of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties to retain a maximum of solidarity for Davis and Brown.

2—Size of the vote for the anti-dry ticket.

3—Grundy's resourcefulness.

RUMORS OF 'CUTTING'

The Davis-Brown combination was formed about six weeks ago with the backing of the Allegheny and Philadelphia County organizations and seemed unbeatable.

Since then there has been an almost constant repetition of rumors of "cutting" that have disturbed the managers of the slate. Judging from the rumors, Philadelphia would bend all its energy to nominate Francis Shunk Brown for governor and sacrifice any other aspirant to do so.

The rumors of "cutting" have been vigorously denied by chiefs of the Davis-Brown ticket, including Joseph G. Armstrong, Allegheny County chairman; Bernard J. Myers, state chairman, and J. Hampton Moore, Philadelphia chairman.

COYNE, MALONE BOLT

Factors in Allegheny County that baffle attempts at analysis are the bolting of the organization by State Senator James J. Coyne, who is supporting Grundy, and by former President James F. Malone, who is backing Pinchot.

Another vague factor is the struggle for supremacy in the local organization and its probable

BLUE LAWS HIT BY 8 OUT OF 10

The poll of registered voters of Pittsburgh by the Sun-Telegraph to ascertain definite public sentiment regarding the Sunday Blue Laws is meeting with an unusual response. Returns are coming in promptly from 40 per cent of the voters, estimates show. The total ballots cast to date is 14,692, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws...	1,790
For modification.....	971
For repeal.....	11,931

These totals represent 81 per cent for repeal, 12 per cent for continuance of the laws and 7 per cent for modification. The ratio of votes for repeal compared to votes for continuance is about 6.6 to 1.

BIG WOMAN VOTE

The totals are divided between men and women as follows:

For the Blue Laws, 1,034 men and 756 women; for modification,

Plaza, Nixon Padlocks Refused

Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court today refused to grant a preliminary padlock injunction against the Plaza Restaurant and the Nixon Cafe, asked by the government on the ground that patrons were permitted to drink liquor which they carried into the places.

Attorney E. Lowry Humes, representing proprietors of both places, opposed the motion. The court fixed June 23 for a final hearing when witnesses will be heard.

The bill of complaint set forth that dry agents had observed cracked ice and ginger ale being served patrons who had liquor at their tables.

New Survey Granted for Postoffice

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—After a two-hour conference today with representatives of the city, officials of the Treasury and Postoffice Departments agreed to make a new study of plans for the proposed Pittsburgh Federal building before final decision on the project.

Experts from the Postoffice Department will be sent to Pittsburgh at an early date to confer with local officials and representatives of civic organizations on traffic congestion in Seventh avenue at the site of the new building, and better arrangements for postal activities.

The Pittsburgh delegation which came to Washington this morning was headed by Arthur E. Braun, president of the Farmer's Deposit National Bank, and included Postmaster George W. Gosser, Frederick Bigger, engineer and member of the City Planning Commission, and Frank L. Duggan.

897,458 IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—(AP.)—Cleveland, one of the first of the country's leading cities to submit its census report to Washington, has a population of 897,458, census supervisors announced today. Greater Cleveland, which includes all of Cuyahoga County, caught a large overflow of growth from the city proper and grew to 1,197,818.

While Greater Cleveland was showing a percentage increase of 26.76 from the 1920 population of 943,495, the city itself found a growth hardly half as rapid from its previous total of 796,841, with 16.63 per cent. Actual growth was 100,617 and 254,323, respectively.

Census and civic leaders have expressed the opinion that out of the count of noses will grow a strong movement for annexation of all suburbs. It is pointed out that Cleveland has lost its place as fifth city of the country to Los Angeles, which, by annexation and natural growth, is estimated to have reached 1,400,000.

EDWARD BRASHEAR, 29, of 5801 Rural avenue, Pittsburgh, driver; fractured skull and internal injuries; recovery doubtful.

MRS. DELLA WELCH, 34, of St. Albans, Vt.; fractured skull and lacerations; recovery doubtful.

W. M. EMORY, 51, fractured skull and internal injuries; recovery doubtful.

MRS. CATHERINE URBAN, 28, Hollidays Cove, W. Va.; right knee crushed, back injured.

The crash occurred about 3:15 a. m. on the Canton-Akron highway, when the driver did not see the truck and trailer, which were stopped at the side of the road.

W. M. Emery and his wife were en route from Detroit to Bellevue where they planned to make their future home. Emery was to become chief mechanic for an East End automobile concern. They had planned to visit at the home of his brother-in-law, W. M. McGiffen, of 82 North Jackson avenue, Bellevue, until they could establish their residence.

Emery's mother, who resides at the McGiffen home, was suffering from shock today, members of the family said.

WINNING, YET WELCOMED 14 POINTS

Plight of Germany Never Realized Until Armistice Brought End of Combat

By GEN. ROBERT LEE BULLARD
Commander of the Third American Army Corps during the Meuse-Argonne offensive and subsequently Lieutenant General in command of the Second American Army in France.

AS TOLD TO EARL REEVES.

THE ALLIES WANTED PEACE as the campaigns of 1918 drew to a close.

Even in the hour of victory, as the tide turned and the counter-offensives smashed home, driving backward the German lines, Allied leaders, military and civil, welcomed the Wilsonian "Fourteen Points." They welcomed them whether they believed in them or not, because they were a means toward ending the war.

Only after the Armistice did the military leaders discover how badly Germany had been beaten. The German military genius had known how to mask its weakness, shielding the true state of disorganization from us by maintaining skilfully, by superior tactics, a front which yielded here, there and yonder as necessary, but which never broke.

Gen. Bullard

As we advanced after the Armistice, we saw the true facts. The signs were unmistakable. The Americans and the English accepted the situation ruefully, but in a sportsmanlike manner; we had not been astute enough to know how much we might have demanded. But the French and Italians then began to regret the Armistice; they then wished that they could have finished the enemy completely.

From that beginning grew resentfulness against President Wilson and the Americans for having brought about the Armistice.

This resentment Clemenceau reiterates in his book. Clemenceau forgets that as we came to Europe to fight at the urgent behest of leaders (especially at the behest of Joffre) who knew that if French morale were not stiffened a war-weary nation would quit

3 Princes See Bobby Jones Win British Trophy

SUNNINGDALE, England, May 19.—(AP.)—With an escort of three princes, Bobby Jones, American golfer, today won the Golf Magazine gold vase in a 36-hole medal play competition with leading amateurs of the United States and Great Britain.

Bobby was accompanied here by the royal trio, composed of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George. Among other Americans, Douglas Fairbanks, the film star, played in today's match.

Wales, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George all followed Bobby down the course, watching every stroke attentively.

The Duke and Prince George, while not so expert with their clubs as their brother, are deeply interested in the game. Jones, who had as his partner T. A. Bourn, the English champion, was followed by a large gallery.

He did not show any record-breaking style in the morning round, having a pronounced tendency to pull his second shots and finishing with a poor 75. In the afternoon, however, he did a brilliant 68, for a total of 143.

Wales called a greeting to Dr. O. F. Willing, another American golfer, and inspected his card. Finding several 7's, the prince remarked that this was "more like my game."

DRYS FEAR MORROW WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

THREAT SEEN IN SENATE VICTORY

Anti-Saloon League Leader Says Election Will Doom Prohibition in New Jersey

EAST ORANGE, N. J., May 19.—(AP.)—The Rev. James K. Shields, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, believes that if Dwight W. Morrow should be elected United States Senator from New Jersey "within a week after he received office he would be the anti-dry candidate for president."

In an address last night at the Swedish Methodist Church Mr. Shields said prohibition in New Jersey was doomed unless Representative Franklin W. Fort was elected. Fort is a candidate for the Republican senate nomination against Morrow and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, both anti-drys.

Miss Margaret A. Fort resigned today from the Morrow campaign committee to show her allegiance to her brother, and said she was only exercising the "natural woman's privilege" in changing her mind.

In the opening address of his campaign, Ambassador Morrow favored repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and return to the states of liquor control. Miss Fort espoused Morrow's cause long before her brother announced his candidacy.

Meanwhile Frank L. Kramer, idol of bicycle racing fans of years past, announced his candidacy today for Republican nomination as representative of the Ninth Congressional District, the post now held by Fort.

WILKINSBURG BANK IN GROUP

The First National Bank of Wilkinsburg is now a member of the group of Associated Banks, of which the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company downtown, is the parent member, A. K. King, president of the Wilkinsburg institution, has announced.

No change in personnel, directors or officers is anticipated. In bringing about the affiliation, King said, the purpose was to extend to Wilkinsburg banking patrons influence of the downtown institution and to permit a broader scope of service without interfering with present policies. Ten financial institutions are now members of Associated Banks.

Organized in 1892 with a capital of $50,000, the Wilkinsburg bank now has capital, surplus and undivided profits of more than $700,000, according to its published statement. Its resources are over $7,500,000. Total resources of the 10 banks are over $200,000,000.

PLUNGE OF AUTO KILLS ONE OF 5

A pleasure ride of five West End youths in a borrowed automobile ended tragically early today near Florence, Pa., on the Pennsylvania-West Virginia line, when their machine plunged over a 100-foot embankment, killing one and injuring the others, three seriously.

The machine skidded on the slippery roadway at the crest of a hill, crashed through a wire fence and hurtled down the hillside, turning over eight times and landing in a creek. All were thrown from the car.

John Haberman, 19, of 606 Mansfield avenue, was decapitated.

Three of his companions, Thomas Hershberger, 21, formerly of 820 Wallbridge street; Glenn Humbert, 19, of 927 Wallbridge street, and Ralph Perratu, 17, of 1033 Weaver street, were picked up by a bus driver and taken to Ohio Valley Hospital, Steubenville, O. Hershberger's condition was said to be critical.

Herbert Maurer, 21, of 133 Herschel street, dazed from shock, left the scene and was found wandering along the roadway. A Pittsburgh motorist took him home and later he told the story of the accident. He was bruised and cut.

SEEKING CAUSE OF FATAL HURT

Deputy coroners today were endeavoring to learn how T. J. Kane, 64, of 1185 Chislett street, suffered a fractured skull which caused his death yesterday in the West Penn Hospital.

Saturday night a policeman found Kane lying in Spring way, near Twenty-eighth street, and arrested him on a charge of drunkenness, deputy coroners reported. Following a hearing yesterday morning Kane became violently ill and was taken to the hospital where he died a short time later.

The feat was accomplished as part of a field day celebration of the Loyal Order of Moose.

CANNON ADMITS HE WAS DUPED BY BROKERS

Tells Conference of His Belief All Stock Transactions Were Strictly Legitimate

DALLAS, Tex., May 19.—(AP.)—The Dallas News today said Bishop James Cannon, Jr., had testified before the Episcopacy committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, he had traded on the New York Stock Exchange in the belief he was dealing with a legitimate concern, but that developments had proved the error of his judgments.

The troubles of the militant bishop have been an outstanding point of interest at the quadrennial general conference of the church, which entered today what probably will be its last week. A report by Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, now chairman of the committee on temperance and social welfare, also was awaited with much concern.

The News said Bishop Cannon had explained his Wall street activities to the committee prior to its report on a formal request he stand trial before a church court because of his alleged speculations. The committee's report on the trial petition is expected momentarily.

According to reliable information, the Daniels committee's recommendations will not include the re-election of Bishop Cannon to chairmanship of the board of temperance and social welfare.

Forty-Four Held as Tong War Rumored

CHICAGO, May 19.—(INS.)—Police held 44 Chinese for questioning today in connection with rumors of an impending tong war. Chinatown raids yesterday, besides netting the prisoners, resulted in seizure of two revolvers and 300 rounds of ammunition.

Questioning revealed that rival tongs have been importing members from St. Paul, Pittsburgh and New York, indicating, according to authorities, that the factions have been gathering gunmen for a test of strength.

Runs Over In-Law; Convicted by Jury

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 19.—(INS.)—Robert W. Humphreys was found guilty today of trying to murder his mother-in-law with an automobile. A jury found him guilty of assaulting Mrs. Orrie Lovejoy with a dangerous weapon—an automobile.

Mrs. Lovejoy, the mother-in-law, alleged Humphreys deliberately ran over her in his automobile when she attempted to stop him. Mrs. Lovejoy, crippled as a result, was carried to and from the courtroom on a stretcher during the trial.

Held for Mind Test Lavish Tip Donor

The police received a message that a newly arrived guest at the Hotel Henry had given $50 in tips to bellboys, and they had better investigate.

SENATE ARGUES TARIFF FATE

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP.)—The tariff chiefs of the Republican and Democratic parties tilted today in the Senate, preliminary to a vote in which the fate of the Smoot-Hawley Bill was involved.

Senator Smoot, for the majority, argued for his resolution to relieve the Senate conferees of their pledge not to recede from the debenture and revised flexible provision amendments. He contended that if the proposal were rejected and the House persisted in its opposition to the amendments, a deadlock would result and the bill's passage might be blocked.

He was answered for the minority by Senator Simmons, who expressed uncertainty whether the bill would fail if the Senate conferees were freed of their promise, and declared:

"If the House and the administration want this legislation, there is a prospect by the House yielding, and if the House does not yield, it will be because the White House does not want it to."

Two hundred police guarded the station to prevent demonstrations, but no trouble occurred.

Postal Clerk Gets Probation in Theft

Riley A. Medrow, 46, clerk in the Pitcairn postoffice, pleaded no defense in Federal Court today to stealing a parcel post package containing a pen and pencil, and was placed on probation for 18 months.

CENSUS GAINS IN TOWNSHIPS

Five townships in the northern section of the county show large increases of population in census figures announced today by George Metzger, supervisor of the Twelfth District.

Leet Township, adjoining the Beaver County line, reported an increase of more than 100 per cent, the population jumping from 627 in 1920 to 1,272 this year. Shaler Township increased from 6,306 to 9,374; Indiana from 2,298 to 3,131; Richland from 1,361 to 1,801, and West Deer from 5,290 to 6,461.

Mountain Mud Flow Fatal to 45 in Java

SAMARANG, Java, May 19.—(AP.)—A stream of mud flowing from the side of Mount Telemoio has wiped out the entire native village of Likasan in the center of Java. Forty-five inhabitants were killed, only five escaping from the avalanche.

The road near the mountain village of Slatiga was destroyed over a distance of seven miles and many bridges collapsed. Rescue parties hurried to the scene of the disaster.

Five Making Fight On Assembly Ticket

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 19.—But one local fight is attracting attention in Greene County, the contest for the Democratic nomination for State Assemblyman. Five are in the race. They are William P. Girard and William F. Blair, both of Waynesburg, former assemblymen; S. K. Stronider, of Franklin Township, former county commissioner; Morgan Hunnell, of Waynesburg, and Ollie Minton, of Graysville.

Fire at Ohio Pen Chapel Quickly Out

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—(AP.)—A small fire, possibly started by a carelessly-thrown cigaret, was discovered under a stairway in the Catholic chapel at the Ohio Penitentiary last night. It was quickly extinguished and did no damage. Warden Thomas denied reports that convicts had started the fire.

Woman, Bitten, Lives But Rattler Dies

OAKLAND, Cal., May 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Emil Schlichtman found a small reptile in her back yard yesterday and, thinking it was a harmless garter snake, picked it up. It bit her.

A passing policeman told her it was a rattlesnake and Mrs. Schlichtman fainted. The snake died. Mrs. Schlichtman will live.

BRITISH CURB UPON U. S. NAVY HIT

Admiral Jones Tells Senate Group England Has Always Schemed for Sea Control

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(INS.)—"The British have always insisted upon limiting us in naval vessels we have consistently considered most suitable to our needs," Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, told the Senate Naval Affairs Committee today. It is conducting a hearing on the technical phases of the London naval treaty.

Great Britain, he said, has from the very beginning sought to limit the essentially American type of fighting ships while at the same time she has been seeking a higher limit for herself. He reiterated his preference for 8-inch gun cruisers over the 6-inch gun ships allowed the United States in the treaty.

HAS GREATER SURVIVAL

"The 8-inch gun cruiser has a greater power of survival in ordinary weather," he said. "We have only stood for the Navy that from our studies we consider necessary to maintain ourselves on the seas—that is, a Navy second to none.

"We have steadily maintained our desire for limitations. We have received orders to do that and we have done it."

No one asked Jones who gave him the orders.

An argument between supporters and opponents of the treaty, over the propriety of making public secret dispatches sent to the State Department by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, marked the reappearance today of Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the Navy's general board, before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

DIFFER ON PUBLICATION

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, led in demanding publication of the reports. Senator Swanson (Dem.), of Virginia, ranking minority member of the committee, opposed such action on the ground "delicate matters" might be included which would "do no good and might do harm" if they were made public.

Johnson agreed, after a brief dispute, that the matter be taken up at a closed executive session of the committee.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, presented statistics showing the cruiser strength of the British and Japanese navies at the time the London conference opened.

"You don't suppose they would have quit building to let us catch up with them without this treaty, do you?" Reed asked.

"Well, I was taking into account the financial condition of those countries and I didn't think they could go on building," Bristol replied.

SENATE GROUP O. K.'S ROBERTS

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP.)—A favorable report on the nomination of Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court was unanimously ordered today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Republican leaders planned to call the nomination up in the Senate this afternoon or tomorrow and quick approval was expected.

The judiciary committee voted after a sub-committee, which considered the nomination, had unanimously favored confirmation.

Roberts was nominated by President Hoover after the Senate rejected Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina.

Eight Canadians To Be Canonized

VATICAN CITY, May 19.—(INS.)—The College of Cardinals at a secret consistory today voted favorably on the canonization of Cardinal Bellarmino, a distinguished theologian and writer, and eight Canadian martyrs killed by Indians in the first half of the seventeenth century.

A public consistory attended by all patriarchs and bishops now in Rome followed the secret meeting.

College Fires Youth Once Set for Rum Expose

HARTFORD, Conn., May 19.—(AP.)—Dean Thurman L. Hood, of Trinity College, last night announced the indefinite suspension of Arthur B. O'Keefe, of West Haven, Conn., a freshman, who was recently invited to appear before the House Judiciary Committee to testify on liquor conditions in colleges.

Violation of the rules regarding drinking was given by college authorities as the reason for the suspension but no announcement was made as to the circumstances which led to the disciplinary action.

In February O'Keefe, who is 17 years old, sent a letter to Congressman George S. Graham, of the House Judiciary Committee, in which he described liquor conditions in colleges. He was invited by the congressman to appear before the committee and testify.

The boy was prevented from testifying by his father, an attorney, who told his son that he was too young to entertain serious opinions on prohibition.

Dean Hood declared O'Keefe's letter had had no influence on the present action.

Trapped in Well, Girl's Ingenuity Saves Life

LAKELAND, Fla., May 19.—(AP.)—Imprisoned four hours at the bottom of a 35-foot abandoned well containing eight feet of water, Jean Gray Brown, 14, today probably owed her life to her own courage and ingenuity.

Falling into the well while wandering about blindfolded during a high school sorority initiation Saturday night, the girl built a make-shift platform out of a few boards found floating in the water. She said she kept herself above the surface with one arm and dug bricks out of the wall with the other hand. Then she inserted the ends of the planks in the holes and supported herself across them.

Meanwhile, members of the sorority, her parents and scores of friends were searching for her. When daylight came they found a trail made by a broom she had dragged with her. The girl was unconscious when taken from the well by firemen. She was recovering from exposure at her home today.

16 DIE, THOUSANDS HOMELESS, AS FLOOD, STORMS HIT SOUTH

CAMPS GIVE SHELTER TO REFUGEES

Arkansas and Texas Areas Suffer; Total Damage Estimated at $5,000,000

International News Service.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 19.—With 16 dead, thousands homeless and property damage estimated at $5,000,000, Red Cross workers and the Arkansas National Guard today struggled to bring order into the flood-stricken district of southwestern Arkansas.

All the dead were Negroes. Eleven were killed when a tornado dipped down on the Plantation of G. P. Lambert west of here, levelling a dozen negro homes.

Two were killed at Elaine, two on a rice farm west of Wabash and one on a farm near Elaine.

An area of from three to five miles wide was inundated between the Little Red and Ouachita Rivers where rescuers were using boats to save women and children.

LEVEES WEAKENING

Levees were reported weakening under the pounding of the Red River at Fulton and the highways of the lowlands were jammed with refugees and their household goods.

Hospitals in Helena were filled with injured Negroes from the tornado section.

Rainfall of record proportions in the last few days sent the Red River out of its banks over a large area in Arkansas and Texas. Near Texarkana and the Smackover Creek spread flood waters over 50 square miles in the oil field section south of Eldorado.

3,000 HOMELESS IN CAMP

Smackover, in the oil field region, was the center of relief and rescue work today. Rescue boats made their way through the swirling waters throughout the night, rescuing marooned residents and taking them to Smackover. More than 3,000 homeless were in the refugee camps there, many suffering from exposure and some ill with measles. Another camp was set up at Sunnyland.

Oil production in a large part of the Smackover and Eldorado fields was at a standstill with only the tops of many derricks showing above the water.

FLOODS HIT TEXAS

Central and Northwestern Texas also faced raging floodwaters from the Red, Trinity, Brazos, Colorado and the Guadalupe Rivers as well as smaller streams. Another section of Texas, Southwestern Dallas County, was recovering from a severe windstorm which killed three Negroes and demolished houses Saturday night.

Highways were inundated in many sections of Arkansas and in some parts of Texas. Rail traffic as well was interrupted by flood water in Arkansas. Many bridges in this state have been washed out and other are threatened.

ON BOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, May 19.—Favored by the brightest sample of the golden, sunny weather for which southern Spain is noted, the Graf Zeppelin, en route from Friedrichshafen to Seville, loafed along on four motors today to avoid arriving at her destination ahead of schedule.

At 8:40 a. m. (3:40 a. m. E. D. T.) the big air cruiser was idling over Aquilas, making 56 miles per hour with one motor cut out. At this speed the 22 passengers, who were then in the dining room, had ample time for a leisurely view of the old Spanish town.

Indeed, the view of the Spanish coast occupied so much of the passengers' attention that some of them almost failed to hear the breakfast gong. Among these were George Crouse and his sister, Mrs. Laura Durston, both of Syracuse, N. Y., who were the last to take their places at the breakfast table.

SPEEDS DURING NIGHT

Everyone on board was tremendously pleased with the Graf thus far. During the night, with a strong following wind pushing her, the airship averaged from 90 to 125 statute miles per hour. When daylight arrived Commander Eckener found himself a full two hours ahead of schedule.

One motor was then cut out and the Graf was permitted to ease to a more leisurely gait.

Proceeding at this speed, the airship sighted Gibraltar shortly after 11 a. m. (6 a. m. Pittsburgh time), and at noon (7 a. m. Pittsburgh time) was over the strait, pursuing a direct line for Seville.

Giant Craft Defies Gales In Early Stage of Flight

RADIO DISPATCH.

ON BOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, May 19.—As dawn was beginning to break today we were well on our way to America via Seville, Spain.

The Graf Zeppelin during the night scored another victory over the elements and proceeded smoothly, none of the passengers having experienced any inconvenience.

At the outset of our voyage, all on board were given spectular proof of the great ship's airworthiness and the marvelous navigating ability of its commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener.

In the teeth of fierce buffeting head winds and through a dozen thunder storms accompanied by vivid lightning the huge dirigible plowed its way towards Seville.

DINE WHILE STORM RAGES

The tossing and rolling of the ship during the storms did not cause the passengers any loss of appetites, as, watching the lightning through the windows, they enjoyed a dinner of soup, venison ragout, noodles, strawberry shortcake and a choice of wines.

I am utterly thrilled at the way in which the Zeppelin trans-Atlantic travel is developing. I have seen all the Zeppelin departures so far, but never one like this.

Gone are the days when pioneer Zeppelin travelers were baptized for the air in tears of unhappy relatives ashore.

We are all starting off in spring clothes and warm coats.

AUTUMN IN RIO

In Rio we will find late autumn and in New York the promise of summer.

"Green" passengers, are obviously thrilled by the slight odor of fuel gas as we actually start.

But it is not quite the same with us who have shared the previous pioneer expeditions. The spice of adventure is being lost as Zeppelin trans-Atlantic travel is becoming organized.

THE GRAF AT LAKEHURST HANGAR, AGAIN ITS GOAL ON THE PRESENT LONG FLIGHT

MOTHERS DECK HERO GRAVES

PARIS, May 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. C. S. Smith, of Delphos, O., Gold Star mother who suffered a severe nervous strain during her trip across on the steamship America, has recovered and will be able to visit her son's grave in St. Mihiel Cemetery.

Medical officers attached to the pilgrimage said the sick report today did not include even a minor cold. They are delighted with the way the mothers are keeping fit.

Seventeen of the gold star mothers whose sons rest on the slopes of Mount Valerien, at Suresnes, just outside Paris, had their first real test of fortitude today when they knelt and prayed beside the graves.

The cemetery visit was devoid of official pomp and speeches, the mothers wishing to be alone. Each placed a wreath on her son's grave.

FEAR GIRL FLIER FORCED DOWN

BATAVIA, Java, May 19.—(AP.)—Anxiety today was felt for Amy Johnson, the British aviatrix, when no definite news of her had been received up to 8:30 p. m.

Java has been experiencing squally weather with heavy rains, owing to the change of the monsoons. It was feared that the 23-year-old girl flier, who is trying to break the England-to-Australia record, might have been forced down under difficult circumstances.

It was reported that she had been seen at 3:40 p. m., passing over Tegal, Central Java, but if that report were correct she would have been unable to reach Sourabaya flying field before dark.

Weather Conditions.

There was a marked change in pressure distribution since Saturday morning. The Plains states high moved eastward over the lakes, and is now off the North Atlantic Coast. The Southwest low pressure area advanced northeastward, and is now centered over Ohio and Indiana and covers most of the eastern and central portions of the country. It is producing cloudy and rainy weather nearly everywhere from the central plains eastward to the coast. The rainfall was mostly light except in Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana, where heavy rains occurred. It also caused a marked rise in temperature over the Ohio Valley states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or rising slightly. Stage at Franklin is 1.9 feet. Lock No. 7, 11.2; Pittsburgh, 11.0; Dam No. 4, 8.9; Dam No. 6, 7.7; Dam No. 9, 8.8, and Dam No. 12, 7.0. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are overcast over the entire country east of the Mississippi River. The ceiling is only 500 feet or lower, and the visibility mostly less than two miles. The winds are light, mostly easterly.

Rhine Evacuation To Start May 20

WEISBADEN, Germany, May 19.—(AP.)—The supreme command of the French Army of the Rhineland today notified the custodian of German properties that orders had been received from the French war office to start evacuation of the Rhineland on May 20.

Previous reports had indicated that the entire exodus of the army of occupation would be ended by May 30.

Italian Air Crash Kills Mechanic

FLORENCE, Italy, May 19.—(AP.)—Death of an airplane mechanic in the crash of a plane, in which the deputy, Pietro Ferretti, was riding, during the military and aerial review for Premier Mussolini yesterday, was revealed today. The deputy was only slightly hurt.

French Delegation Here Studying Autos

NEW YORK, May 19.—(INS.)—Xavier Morand, French engineer, headed a group of automobile manufacturers from France arriving here today. They will visit America's automobile manufacturing centers.

Mail Plane Beats Bremen 10 Hours

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP.)—An amphibian plane, catapulted at sea from the liner Bremen today with mail, lanced off the steamer's pier 10 hours before the expected arrival of the ship. The Bremen is due from Europe tonight. The plane was released 50 miles east of Nantucket Lightship.

AID PRESIDENT, COOLIDGE PLEA

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 19.—(INS.)—"The success of a president is more or less the success of the country, and unless the people give the President their support, the country will not be a success," declared former President Calvin Coolidge today in his first "political speech" since leaving the White House.

He made this statement in a brief address to the Republican school of politics, one of a series held under the auspices of the state Republican committee and local organizations. He declared:

"We ought not to expect perfection in our government.

"It is necessary to have parties to maintain our form of government. Free government must be through political parties. The countries which we consider or speak of as backward continue to suffer most because they do not have well organized political parties. When changes are desired they are often driven to revolutionary methods to gain what is wanted."

Aeronautics Expert Wins Mendel Medal

VILLANOVA, Pa., May 19.—(AP.)—Villanova College will present its 1930 Mendel medal, awarded annually for distinguished service in the advancement of science, to Albert Francis Zahm, chief of the division of aeronautics in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., it was announced by the Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, dean of the Villanova School of Science.

YO YO SPINNER BALKS SUICIDE

Casimir Hadjuk, 15, of 104 South Fifteenth street, was spinning his Yo Yo on the South Tenth Street Bridge today. As he stooped over to retrieve the spinner, he saw a woman placing her coat on the walk of the structure.

Then she mounted the cement wall and prepared to jump into the Monongahela.

"Hey!" he yelled.

She halted. Three men attracted by the yell, rushed to her side. A policeman also came.

She was disgusted, her husband is in a hospital and her children do not treat her very well, she explained. She was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. Her name is Mrs. Frances Ludzienska, of Selby way.

Mail Rush for Zep Makes Stamp Famine

SEVILLE, Spain, May 19.—(AP.)—A postage stamp famine today existed in Seville with the authorities endeavoring by the use of trains, telegraph and an airplane, to secure sufficient stamps to carry the mail for the Graf Zeppelin.

Huge bundles of postal matter arrived at the air port. There was such pressure for stamps to carry souvenir business and personal mail that an early sell out at the postal offices plunged the clerks into despair.

Later they reassured the public that all-mail at the air port field would be transported.

AMERICAN HURT IN INDIA RIOT

BOMBAY, May 19.—(INS.)—Several policemen and foreigners were injured at Madras today when five bombs and showers of stones were thrown by rowdies as police attempted to disperse a prohibited public meeting.

Among those reported injured was an American clergyman named Joachim.

More than 400 Indian Nationalist salt raiders were confined in a barbed wire enclosure after they had attempted for four hours Sunday to carry out a raid on the government salt pans at Wadala, a suburb of Bombay.

The enclosure was hastily constructed by police and has a capacity for about 1,200 persons. Its wire has been connected for electrification.

LONDON, May 19.—(INS.)—Thirteen persons were injured in a new attempt to raid the Wadala salt pans in Bombay, according to a Central News dispatch.

Police were forced to charge into a crowd of raiders after the latter began to hurl stones.

An earlier Exchange Telegraph dispatch said that 72 Indian Nationalist volunteers had been arrested when they began the attempted raid.

Berlin Plane Takes Mail to Go on Graf

BERLIN, May 19.—(AP.)—A Lufthansa freight plane of the Junker type W-33, with over 20,000 pieces of mail for South America, left Templehof Airdrome today to intercept the Graf Zeppelin before the latter's departure tomorrow from Seville for Pernambuco. The plane is due at Seville tonight.

The hop was made to demonstrate how co-operation between airplane and dirigible type ships facilitates cargo deliveries.

Pastor Warns of Fake Ad Solicitor

The Rev. Albert G. Curry, pastor of Denny Methodist Episcopal Church, Thirty-fourth and Ligonier streets, today sounded a warning against an impostor who, he says, is soliciting fake advertising for a calendar allegedly sponsored by the church. Permission has been given to one to collect for such a project, according to Mr. Curry.

Town Will Erect Monument to Faithful Burro

FAIRPLAY, Col., May 19.—(AP.)—Fairplay is going to erect a monument to a burro.

"Prunes," faithful burro, was shot last month when he became too feeble to eat after serving nearly every mine in this region, and will be honored with a memorial built of samples of ore taken from all the mines in which he worked.

J. Kelton, of Salt Lake City, will design the memorial.

TEARFUL PLEA WINS MERCY

"Oh, mamma, give me another chance and I'll be a good boy."

On his knees, sobbing violently, his hands raised in supplication, Steve Palmer, of 127 Almond way, addressed the plea to a woman in Morals Court today.

Steve is 38 and the woman was his wife. She had complained to the police that he came home drunk and abused her.

Magistrate Thomas Jones said he guessed he'd have to send Palmer to the workhouse. Then the man rolled on the floor, groveling and weeping.

So his wife relented and the magistrate gave him another chance.

HOOVER TO SEE FLEET'S PACES

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(INS.)—President Hoover today was preparing to leave the capital late tonight for Norfolk, Va., where he will review the fleet off the Virginia Capes tomorrow.

He and his party will go to Norfolk by special train, then board the President's barge at Old Point Comfort for the new 10,000-ton light cruiser Salt Lake City, early tomorrow. The return trip will be made by special train tomorrow night.

It will be Mr. Hoover's first review of the dreadnoughts since entering the White House. Fresh from spring maneuvers in Carribean waters the fleet, commanded by Admiral William V. Pratt, left New York early today.

The President will witness a demonstration of the speed and utility of the six-inch gun cruisers —bone of contention between two groups of naval authorities.

Salvation Army Man Cuts Throat

Harry Kelly, 66, a Salvation Army worker, walked here from Columbus, O., to get a job. Unable to find employment, he slashed his throat with a razor, he admitted to police. He was found by Patrolman John Stack in a hovel at Lacock and Cremo streets, today.

After treatment at Allegheny General Hospital, he was taken to the North Side Police Station for his first meal in three days.

'CatEyeAnnie' FleesPrison, Masquerading as Man

AUBURN, N. Y., May 19.—(AP.)—"Cat Eye Annie"—Lillian McDowell—48, notorious burglar and one of the most elusive characters of the underworld when at liberty, escaped from the women's prison here during the night.

This was not the first time "Cat-Eye" Annie has surmounted seemingly impossible obstacles to gain her freedom from iron bars and stone walls. Received at the prison October 28, 1925, under a 10-year sentence for grand larceny, she escaped May 10, 1926, from a solitary cell.

She was sentenced in October of that year to a 10-year term for grand larceny, imposed the day after she made a sensational escape from the Buffalo jail and was captured because she sprained her ankle.

In her escape last night, she cut the wood around the lock in her cell door on the second floor. In the reception hall downstairs she donned a light top coat and a fedora hat belonging to Warden Frank L. Heacox, and thus masquerading as a man, she fled.

The prisoner was not missed until 5:30 a. m.

Quits New York Bench, Pleads for Associates

NEW YORK, May 19.—(Universal)—City Magistrate Bernard J. Douras, father of Marion Davies, film star, whose resignation from the New York bench because of ill health was announced yesterday, made two pleas in a statement he issued today.

First, he urged the imminent need for laws to curb court "fixers" and, second, he made a strong argument for pensions for city magistrates.

Magistrate Douras said he was now in a position to advocate magistrates' pensions because he has resigned and cannot be accused of having personal interest in the matter.

He also declared that, in addition to pension privileges city magistrates should have the benefit of the official referee system similar to that enjoyed by other New York judges.

Magistrate Douras resigned from the bench because his daughter requested the action. For some time the actress has endeavored to persuade her father to resign because of his failing health. She also desired that he should make his home with her.

Magistrate Douras is expected to accompany Miss Davies on a trip to Europe within the near future and make his home with her in California after the European trip is completed.

ECKENER SHOWS SKILL IN PERIL OF SQUALLS

Zep Commander Maneuvers Big Craft Safely Between Menacing Thunder Storms

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
Special Correspondence Aboard the Graf Zeppelin via Radio to Berlin.

ON BOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, Over France, May 19.—With practically all the passengers sleeping peacefully after their first storm baptism, the Graf Zeppelin early this morning was slipping along toward Marseilles, where we expect to head out over the Mediterranean Sea.

It is now shortly after midnight and we are still bucking the headwinds which we faced shortly after leaving Friedrichshafen. We were barely past Constance on Lake Constance 50 miles from Friedrichshafen when the Graf stuck its nose into the headwinds that soon increased to 35 and 40 miles an hour. At the same time we ducked into what Dr. Eckener the Graf's commander called a "thunder squall." At one time there were four thunder squalls around us.

Dr. Eckener tested the wireless antennae drawn in. Despite this there was a constant crackling in the wireless room. Having been through other such situations aboard the Graf to me Dr. Eckener's navigation was a delight to watch.

Just before writing this dispatch Dr. Eckener told me that he expects to cover the approximate 1,490 miles to Seville by early this evening.

After leaving the French coast at some point west of Marseilles our route will depend largely upon the weather reports. Dr. Eckener, however, expects to head for Barcelona, cut southward from there to the Pityusaric Islands and then strike across Spain behind Gibraltar for Seville.

BUFFETED BY WINDS

It was 7:06 p. m. 2:36 Pittsburgh time) a little more than two hours after we left Friedrichshafen, when the dirigible passed over Basle Switzerland.

An hour and a half later we sighted Besancon France and by 7:15 p. m. Pittsburgh time we passed over Lyon on our way down the Rhone Valley.

It took us two hours and 25 minutes to cover the 80 miles from Friedrichshafen to Basle.

When we passed Besancon we were still being buffeted by head winds that had cut our speed to 50 miles an hour.

"NEW YORK VIA RIO."

"All aboard for New York via Rio De Janeiro!"

That was the shout I heard as the Graf Zeppelin slowly took to the air at 5:19 p. m. (11:19 a. m. Pittsburgh time) yesterday pointing her nose toward the Rhone Valley on the first leg of the epochal flight which will bring the giant dirigible to Seville by this evening.

There was the usual bustle a miniature picture of some ocean liner about to leave the dock, but even less excitement.

Near the gangway stood the Countess Von Brandenstein, daughter of the inventor of the airship which so proudly bears his name, also the gentle-faced Frau Eckener and the wives of Capts. Lehmann, Flemming and Von Schiller.

Dr. Eckener stood outside of the air dock looking westward at the clouds and sniffing the air in his characteristic manner. Growling a little, Dr. Eckener said to me:

"I wish is were a little colder."

PERFECT TAKEOFF

At the gangway there was a checking off of passengers and their big tickets very much like steamer tickets with an equal amount of printed conditions on the back which some of the passengers may read later out of mere curiosity.

Suddenly there was a long shrill whistle from Capt. Von Schiller, ground officer, and the ship was being "walked" out of the air dock.

The passengers rushed to the window. A moment later, the sound of the engines was heard and there was a roar from the power cars as the command "Hoch" sounded from the bridge.

"Off for South America! Pernambuco Thursday morning."

With 1,500 pounds of ice, 120 bottles of wine and champagne but "plenty of water for you Americans," quizzically shot Dr. Eckener to me, we should be able to keep cool on the Equator.

Eruption Kills 45 in East Indies

LONDON, May 19.—(INS.)—Forty-five persons were killed and the entire village of Yikansan was destroyed by an eruption of the Telemojo volcano, between Batavia and Surabaya, Dutch East Indies, according to a Central News dispatch received here today from Amsterdam.

Briand would not have business of finance control the new federation. That you will admit is almost Bolshevism.

LET M. BRIAND come here and learn something. He will find forty-eight states bowing submissively to the government of corporations and high finance, accepting it as though brought down by Moses the command:

"Thou shalt not let this government engage in any kind of business. It is not capable or honest enough to manage anything."

MAX VALIERGN, inventor and builder of the rocket-propelled automobile and airship, is dead killed in one of his experiments. Only 35 years old, born in Germany, a descendant of French Huguenots a brilliant astronomer mathematician and physicist his death is a great loss to science.

HE IS ONE of countless workers sacrificing their lives for the public good. Death marks all the paths of progress with its gravestones.

The first maker of bows and arrows was probably killed as a sorcerer when he destroyed life at a distance. Alchemists innumbered sacrificed their lives in studies and experiments that have changed alchemy to chemistry, foundation of modern industrial prosperity.

587 men and 384 women, for repeal 8,235 men and 3,696 women.

Returns are coming in at about 1,500 a day, the latest addition being 1,519 divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws, 193; for modification 111; for repeal 1,215.

Tabulation of totals in the wards south of the Monongahela River, excluding the South Side wards previously tabulated, completes the first tabulation of ward totals and shows that all city wards favor repeal of the Blue Laws.

SHERADEN RESULTS

The Sheraden district or Twenty-eighth Ward, where the vote for repeal is less than twice the vote in favor of the Blue Laws, shows the best proportionate support of the laws of any ward.

This southern group of wards show the following totals:

Ward	For Blue Laws	For Modification	For Repeal
Nineteenth	36	13	275
Twentieth	39	15	244
Twenty-eighth	57	10	97
Twenty-ninth	16	9	105
Thirtieth	34	5	138
Thirty-first	?	3	66
Thirty-second	?	5	37

4 TO 1 IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—(AP)—Figures announced last night by the Philadelphia Record in its poll of registered voters to learn their sentiment on the state's ancient Blue Laws were as follows:

For the law	39,796
For modification	11,228
For repeal	176,328

Friday is the final day for sending replies to the questionnaire and the result will be announced next Sunday. To date, the paper states, the ratio for repeal is more than 4 to 1.

Joseph Noses Out Norblad in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—(INS.)—With nearly all precincts heard from, it appeared Senator George W. Joseph had won the Republican nomination for governor.

In 1,880 precincts of the 1,902 in the state, Joseph polled 50,382 to 46,159 for A. W. Norblad, Republican incumbent. Joseph's opponent in the November elections will be Edward F. Bailey, the Democratic nominee.

Senator Charles L. McNary and Congressman Willis C. Hawley, Republicans, were renominated.

O'Malley Guest On Boat Excursion

P. J. O'Malley, candidate for Congress, will be guest of honor tonight on the Pittsburgh Hotel Employes' Association's annual boat excursion.

The trip will be made on the Julia Belle Swain, leaving Market street wharf at 9 o'clock. Dancing, vaudeville and other entertainment will be features. Several hundred members from local hostelries will attend.

Receivers Appointed For Standard Plate

Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court today appointed D. Gregg McKee, John R. Eckle, and Frank E. Trautman, permanent receivers for the Standard Plate Glass Company. Frank K. McNary and Leo G. Griffith were named appraisers. The receivers' bond was fixed at $200,000.

DAVIS ARRIVES CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Labor Secretary Here to Close Campaign; Success Of Whole Ticket Predicted

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who is here today to end his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, issued a statement expressing confidence of victory. He said:

"I have never been more confident of victory than I am today. Wherever I have been in my travels throughout the state I have been enthusiastically and courteously received.

"There have been some vicious attacks made upon me that I did not answer, because they fell of their own weight. There has been no mud-slinging on my part during the whole campaign, nor upon the part of any of the candidates on the ticket with me.

"The voters of Pennsylvania are an intelligent body of men and women who are interested only in absolute facts. All my activities and speeches have been confined solely to the real issues of the campaign, the greatest of which is the stabilization of employment with a job for every man and woman who wants to work and I have discussed these issues freely with the people.

PROVES ACTION

"As a member of the President's Cabinet during the last nine years I have been in the executive branch of the government with power only to make recommendations to Congress. If elected to the legislative branch I shall strive earnestly to put these recommendations into law."

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Allegheny county committee for the Davis-Brown ticket, stated today:

"My information from Philadelphia is that the Philadelphia county organization is standing 100 per cent behind the entire Davis-Brown ticket. I am assured absolutely that there will be no cutting of the ticket."

Judge James B. Drew, candidate on the Davis-Brown ticket for one of the two nominations for Judge of the Superior Court, issued the following statement:

"I have just returned from a tour of the state, made with the other Davis-Brown candidates. We visited 55 counties and spoke at actual meetings in 118 places and met thousands of other citizens of Pennsylvania at numerous short stops.

CANDIDATES POPULAR

"The candidates were particularly well received everywhere. Secretary Davis and Gen. Brown made an excellent impression, as was shown at all our meetings by the large attendance and the enthusiasm manifested.

"The reception I received throughout the state as a candidate for judge of the Superior Court gratified me very much."

Davis will make the final address of his campaign at a rally tonight in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport.

The Davis-Brown ticket was indorsed by the Italian Republican Club of the Fifteenth Ward at a meeting last night in Odd Fellows Hall, and by Laga Cobiabrise at a meeting in the Sons of Italy Temple Association Building.

CHAOS RULES FOR PRIMARIES

effect on next fall's campaign for county and city offices.

Managers of the Phillips-Bohlen-Dorrance anti-dry ticket are claiming victory on the basis of an aroused sentiment in protest of the prohibition laws.

SMITH VOTE FIGURED

They believe their ticket will hold most of the Al Smith vote of about 276,000 in Philadelphia and 160,000 in Allegheny County, in addition to a large following in up-state industrial centers.

Senator Grundy got off to a bad start due, it was said, to his refusal to deal with the Philadelphia organization in accepting a candidate for governor, but the last few weeks indicated his star is rising.

Senator Coyne has been organizing Pittsburgh and sections of Allegheny County and S. C. Jamison, western campaign manager, has directed a radio campaign that found speakers on the air day and night.

In addition, there seems to be some basis for believing the manufacturing interests of the state have rallied to Grundy's support in the apparent belief that he is best fitted to obtain a satisfactory tariff.

PINCHOT POPULARITY SEEN

Pinchot has been campaigning in practically every county in the state and reported that he has never been so cordially received, and that he never encountered such large meetings in any of his previous campaigns.

One interesting phase of Pinchot's canvass is the popularity he seems to have with people who are natural foes of the prohibition laws, including former saloon keepers and wholesale liquor dealers.

Pinchot managers expect to get practically 100 per cent of the dry vote, a majority of the labor support and a substantial following among farmers.

The undetermined strength of the anti-dry vote is giving the greatest concern to the Davis-Brown managers, for it will cut into their combination rather than reduce the dry support of Pinchot and Grundy.

Exploration Yacht Peary Up for Sale to U. S.

CLEVELAND, May 19.—(INS.)—With an adventuresome past in roving the Arctic and Southern Seas, the steel-clad yacht Peary, which carried its owner, Commodore Matthew Fred Bramley, to his Dream Island in the Pacific Ocean, faces a very prosaic future.

The Peary has been offered for sale to the Federal Government for use in a lakes survey. The boat, it is understood, probably will be sold to the government within a month at a price of $40,000.

The Peary is the same boat in which Commander Byrd and McMillan approached the North Pole five years ago.

URGES WOMEN AID PINCHOT

Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, vice chairman of the Pinchot state committee, today urged women to vote for Pinchot for what he accomplished in his previous term and pledges to do in the next four years. She said:

"He gave great credit to the women in his election in 1922, and I am confident that they will not fail in this fight either."

Mrs. Lawrence declared Pinchot honored women by appointing Dr. Ellen C. Potter as secretary of welfare. She was the first woman ever appointed to a cabinet in any state in the union, she said.

CITES RECORD

She declared that Pinchot stabilized the system of appropriating for hospitals, improved the personnel and administration of penitentiaries and assisted materially in the adoption of voting machines.

Regarding social welfare legislation, Mrs. Lawrence pointed out that Pinchot established the first bureau of women and children in the Department of Labor and Industry, a hospital for crippled children in Elizabethtown and created the Children's Code Commission.

Ralph H. Smith, chairman of the Pinchot committee on meetings and speakers, will preside at the final noon meeting today in headquarters, Magee Building, 336 Fourth avenue.

RADIO TALKS SLATED

Former President of Council James F. Malone and Frank J. Gollmar, county chairman of the Pinchot campaign, will end the radio programs with a broadcast at 6:15 p. m. today over KDKA.

Pinchot meetings will be held tonight in the Lincoln School, Bridgeville, with S. R. Tarner, Dr. F. C. Ferrante and W. D. Hodgkinson as speakers, and in Bohemian Hall, Braddock, with Chairman Smith as speaker.

WIFE WOUNDED, MATE IS HELD

Shot below the heart by her husband, police charge, Mrs. Mildred DeLanko, 36, ran from her home, 1105 Bingham street, today 75 yards to a confectionery store at 35 South Eleventh street, where she collapsed.

She was removed to the South Side Hospital, where it was said her condition is critical.

The husband, Peter, 55, ran toward the South Tenth Street Bridge with the revolver still in his hand, a son, John, 16, informed police, they reported. He was later arrested and admitted shooting his wife because of jealousy, Detective John Harkins said.

A daughter, Kate, 17, who was at work, told police her mother had appeared against her father last week in Morals Court and that he on several occasions had threatened to wipe out the family.

Three other children, Anna, 14, Mary, 12, and Maura, 9, were in school when the shooting occurred.

Supreme Court Gets N. Y. Contempt Case

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—The petition of Daniel P. O'Connell, a Democratic leader of Albany, N. Y., to set aside a prison sentence imposed for contempt of court, today was presented to the Supreme Court. O'Connell was sentenced for three months for refusing to answer questions before a federal grand jury in New York City investigating the Albany baseball pool.

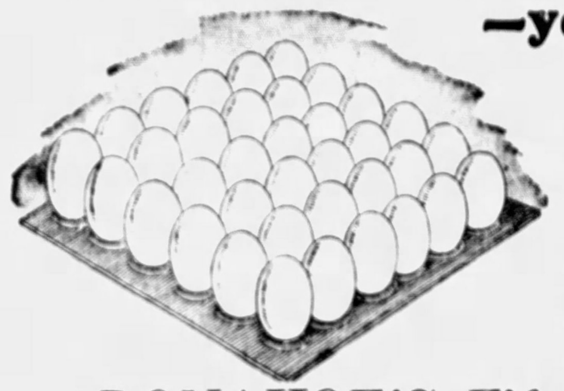
DONAHOE'S Fifth Ave. EGGS —your BEST Food!



There is no single known food product which contains vitamins in greater variety or in greater and more available quantities than DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS.

Little children thrive on DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS, because they are so rich in iron, because their proteins, fats and mineral substances are so important in building body tissues.

Then, too, compared with other foods, DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS are easily digested, and their mild, delicate, pleasing flavor appeals to the appetite.

DONAHOE'S Fifth Ave. EGGS Heal and Build Strength As No Other Food Can!

DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS are a balanced diet in themselves; they are rich in proteins, fats and minerals—needed by every human being. Why take a chance on being improperly nourished or undernourished when you can buy the most perfect food known to man — DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS?

DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS are especially valuable in the diet of adults who are suffering from tuberculosis or other wasting disease and in the diet of those who are convalescing from infectious diseases. The fine, mild, delicate PLEASING flavor of FIFTH AVENUE EGGS makes them appeal to waning appetites.

It's Like Buying Health Insurance To Buy and Eat Fifth Ave. Eggs

Why buy ordinary eggs? Most ordinary eggs come from hens obliged to pick up their living in the barnyard, they drink stagnant barnyard water; no one pays much attention to them except to gather the eggs. That's why such eggs fall into the lower grades. That's why they are so much less appetizing than DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS.

DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS are laid by healthy, snow-white hens, living out-of-doors in the sunlight and eating clean grain and green vegetables and drinking pure, fresh, running water. Isn't it worth a fraction of a cent per egg more to have YOUR family eat DONAHOE'S FIFTH AVENUE EGGS?

And they COST SO LITTLE! More than ordinary eggs, to be sure — and they're WORTH MORE! "The quality is remembered long after the price is forgotten." Try a dozen at this special price.

U. S. GAINS IN CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—Secretary Lamont announced today that contracts for new construction of all kinds let in the United States during April amounted to $483,000,000.

His statement fixed that total as the largest attained during any month since August.

It was somewhat below the total let during April last year, however.

In view of these and other estimates bearing upon business conditions, which the Commerce Department has gathered, Secretary Lamont said he had formed the tentative opinion that normal business activity would be attained in the near future.

He said:

"If the showing of the charts maintained by business observers is correct, business operations in the United States as they are variously expressed are about 6 per cent below what might be considered normal.

"In 1921 at this time they were about 20 per cent below normal, and it took something like six months for them to recover, but we have not nearly so far to go now as the country had to go then to attain what we think of as normal business."

3 MEN SLAIN IN GANG 'RIDES'

NEW YORK, May 19.—(INS)—Gangster guns left three dead in Brooklyn streets today. Police were puzzled as to whether there was any connection between the slayings.

The first murder was at Unionville, where authorities said Joseph Volenti, 26, with a police record, was stood up in a vacant lot and riddled with bullets.

The second was a double slaying near the Penny bridge, where two young men were found face down on the sidewalk, their backs drilled with bullets. Neither has been identified.

Volenti was dressed in deep mourning and police said he may have been on his way to or from a funeral or ordered to dress in mourning by his executioners.

NAVY ECONOMY OF P.CT HELD FALLACY

Expert Shows Savings in Outlay Largely Mythical; Means Spending Millions

By CAPT. NELSON H. GOSS.
United States Navy.

(U. S. Naval Academy, 1905, commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College; now commanding the U. S. ship Sirius; Capt. Goss is a practical sea-going officer who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well known writer on naval subjects).

The London Treaty will save on new construction canceled or postponed:

Eight-inch gun cruisers canceled, 50,000 tons.

Capital ships postponed (possibly), 140,000.

To attain the new limits of strength it prescribes will cost in new construction:

Six-inch gun cruisers, 75,000 tons.

Destroyers, 150,000 tons.

Submarines, 38,000 tons.

This treaty is hailed as a great economy measure because it postpones capital ship replacement for at least five years.

False Economy

In reality it saves nothing for certain for we are not required to replace any of the capital ships provided for by the Washington Treaty and no one expects that we would replace all of them.

The right to replace them though might become very valuable and costs us nothing.

The treaty would require us to give up this right until 1937 and to scrap three capital ships which are valuable units already paid for.

So much for economy, but the treaty also involves some expense unless we desire to fall much farther behind in naval strength than we already are.

While we lack modern destroyers we have a considerable aggregate destroyer strength due to a large number of these vessels. The treaty would require us to scrap all our present surplus so we would be behind in destroyer strength unless we built a large number of new ones to match the modern vessels of this type the British and Japanese have built already.

Submarine Weakness

The same applies to submarines for we would be far behind the Japanese in submarine strength unless we replace a possible submarines at once.

The new treaty would cost us still more for since it requires us to cancel five eight-inch gun cruisers already authorized we would remain very far behind in cruiser strength unless we built at once all the 75,000 tons of six-inch gun cruisers it permits.

It saves nothing for a certainty; it does not even definitely postpone anything for unless other powers build new capital ships, which they cannot afford, it is doubtful if we would exercise our right to build even the four aggregating 140,000 tons which are most needed and which are authorized under the Washington Treaty.

Deducting the 50,000 tons of eight-inch gun cruisers the treaty requires us to cancel over 200,000 tons of new construction would still be required by this treaty. This would cost far more than 140,000 tons of capital ships for smaller units are much more expensive, destroyers and submarines particularly so.

Carriers Needed

The increased restriction on aircraft carriers would not effect any saving because it is not expected that improvised small carriers would be constructed during peace time at any rate, but the failure to adjust the base situation results in greater comparative need for us to construct additional carriers within present allowance at once.

The proposed changes in cruisers would involve considerable additional expense beyond our present program. More units would be required and smaller vessels are comparatively more expensive.

Everybody is naturally interested in what national defense is going to cost. While we are at least able to meet the cost of a navy strong enough to prevent the greater costs of war, by maintaining our treaty rights and established policies without interference by others, the item of cost is nevertheless important also to us as a nation, since the cost of national defense like any other insurance has to be considered before funds available for other uses and developments can be determined.

Navy for Peace

Of course everyone would favor a treaty that would assure us sufficient strength to maintain peace without interference and at the same time reduce the cost of replacements.

The citizens who pay the bills should naturally decide how much they are willing to pay but they should also know what they are getting for their money, as in any business enterprise, so that they may intelligently decide the amount and proportion of their income they should assign to this purpose.

Expenditure on plant maintenance or plant upkeep, to use a business term is not justified unless satisfactory results are obtained. The desired results in this case are reasonable certainty of peace and ability to maintain the treaty rights and policies upon which this country depends for its prosperity against outside interference with sufficient strength, in case anyone else appeals to the decision of war, to successfully defend this country and its important possessions.

This treaty which reduces our naval strength would not only fail to effect any saving but would oblige additional costs to maintain the reduced strength which it permits.

LAWYER HEADS CHARITY GROUP

With the merging of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs with the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh has announced the appointment of Attorney Frank B. Ingersoll as chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Branch of the Public Charities Association. Ingersoll was a former member of the Board of Directors of the Penal Affairs Committee.

The merger gives the Public Charities a division on penal affairs for which they are said to have been looking for some time. Three other members of the Board of the Penal Affairs Committee have been elected to the Board and Central Executive committee of the Charities Association. They are: Dr. Louis N. Robinson, Swarthmore; Mrs. Samuel S. Fels, Philadelphia; Mrs. Harrison S. Morris, Philadelphia.

WHEELER SEES DRY LAW END

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(INS.)—Prohibition is doomed because the community does not give it moral support, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, told members of the Citizens' Service Association here last night.

He spoke from the same platform as the Rev. William S. Abernathy, who has achieved considerable notice during the last two years as a leader in the movement to mobilize citizenry as adjuncts to police in enforcing prohibition.

Wheeler made a sharp attack on prohibition. He cited the recent action of Montana and other states in repealing local prohibition enforcement laws, "because the people are disgusted with conditions prohibition has created. Unless these are overcome, prohibition is doomed."

Sanity Test Asked For Killer Suspect

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(INS.)—A sanity hearing to determine the mental condition of Harold L. Brewster, Army private, whose alternate admission and denial of the murder of Miss Mary Baker have placed authorities in a dilemma as mystifying as the slaying, was requested today by the military authorities.

Among the numerous stories told by Brewster is that he placed the girl's body in the culvert, but did not fire the shots into her body.

Administrator for Brady Estate Named

Letters of administration were taken out today by Frank O. Over, trust officer for the Union Trust Company, in the estate of Martin J. Brady, of 233 North Graham street, which is valued at $212,000. Mr. Brady died May 9 and left no will.

Carnegie Schools At Kennywood Park

It WILL Tint the Silk—
It WON'T Tint the Lace *

Tintex in the Blue Box is especially made to restore the color-youth of silk things without touching the lace trimming—not even a hint of tint.

Tintex Gray Box, as you know, tints and dyes all fabrics—silk, cotton, rayon, linen and wool.

And these are only two of the five Tintex Products—all of which are given below—each professionally effective and each amazingly easy to apply!

—THE TINTEX GROUP—

★Tintex Blue Box—For lace-trimmed silks—tints the silk, lace remains original color.

Tintex Gray Box—Tints and dyes all materials.

Tintex Color Remover—Removes old color from any material so it can be dyed a new color.

Two Favorite Models in Foundation Garments

The Coquette, $6.95
Luckee Girl, $7.95

The Coquette—A princess line foundation garment for the average type of figure. Not a single bone is used in this garment, but firm batiste correctly seamed is just as restraining as a boned garment ever was. The bust is of net. $6.95.

The Luckee Girl—A model for the fuller figure. This all-in-one garment has a net pantie-skirt. It is also made of firm batiste with net top and is entirely boneless. $7.95.

The new Beauty-Mould Reducing girdles and step-ins—that reduce the figure comfortably—are available in our Corset Department. Priced $10 and $12.50.

Misses' Silk Ensembles

In—Aquatone Pink
Caress Blue
Charm Pink
Maize
Orchid
White

$16.75

This group offers, to express it in the vernacular, "a lot for your money."

First, they are of a firm, lustrous grade of silk crepe, in the pastel shades of the moment.

Second, some of their frocks have the beloved, flip capelet sleeves, while others are fashionably sleeveless.

Third, hand-embroidery finishes some of the frocks, at neckline or on revers.

Fourth, some of the coats are in seven-eighths length so they can be worn over other frocks, and one of the jackets has a two-tier cape as you can see.

PHILLIPS TALKS ON AIR TONIGHT

Thomas W. Phillips Republican candidate for governor on the anti-dry ticket, will close his campaign with what he termed "an important statement" in a radio broadcast at 10 o'clock tonight over Station KDKA.

Other candidates on the anti-dry ticket, Kline and Bohlen for United States senator, will close his campaign in home city Philadelphia, and Charles Dorrance Gillelan, lieutenant governor, will make a final appeal in his home city, Scranton.

SEES BIG VOTE

F. F. Shaughnessy, western manager for the anti-dry candidates has predicted that 26 counties west of the Alleghenies poll 250,000 votes for the Phillips-Bohlen Democratic ticket which would make that assistant victory for the state, Shaughnessy said.

"We have placed strong organizations in every Western county, most of them directed by the most influential citizens of the community, and in addition there are hundreds of volunteer workers.

"Our survey during the last few days indicates a definite strength and in addition we have sensed an inarticulate sentiment that we believe will result in an outpouring of voters intent on registering their disgust with prohibition."

WILL SCAN POLLS

William Frew, county chairman of the anti-dry campaign, has announced that lawyers have been retained to protect voters' rights at the polls tomorrow and to ask the courts to order ballot boxes and election boards brought in where irregularities are suspected.

The committee includes Attorneys Simon Patterson, H. V. Blaxter, R. C. Long and William K. Johnson.

Wilmerding Rotary Names Black Head

The Rotary Club at Wilmerding announces the following new officers for the year: President, J. Audley Black; vice president, S. C. Conahey; secretary, J. A. Ralston; treasurer, A. A. Oesterling; sergeant at arms, G. I. Bagnall.

MASS MEETING FOR MARTIN

Park H. Martin of Bellevue will end his campaign for state senator in the Fortieth District with a mass meeting tonight in Turtle Creek Auditorium.

Martin has based his campaign on independence of factional control in the belief, he declared, that it is of vital importance to the district that is considered the strongest independent section in the county.

Urban E. Dice, campaign manager for Martin, predicted the candidate would be nominated by a plurality of 4,500, based on the number of indorsements received.

Member Host to Utopian Bible Class

Mrs. H. S. Pure, 95 Sheridan avenue, Bellevue, will entertain the Utopian Bible class of the Bellevue Methodist Protestant Church tomorrow afternoon in her home. Mrs. H. J. Freese will be associate hostess.

POLITICAL BILL PASSERS HELD

Hours after Paul Jones, 22, of 2503 Center avenue, and Walter Trower, 32, of 2621 Center avenue, Negroes, were arrested last night at Center avenue and Dinwiddie street, for passing political handbills, police at the Center Avenue Station had placed no charge against them.

Jones, a University of Pittsburgh student, and Trower, were arrested while distributing bills urging the election to the Legislature of Attorney Theron B. Hamilton, of the Fifth Ward. The bills also contradicted a report that Hamilton had withdrawn from the fight.

Hamilton said police refused to admit the prisoners to bail or allow him to talk with them. They also told him they were undecided about the charge against the pair, Hamilton said.

The arrests, Hamilton said, were "just another case of police playing politics."

Dickey Named to Citizenship League

Dr. C. E. Dickey, superintendent of Allegheny County schools, has been appointed to the board of directors of the American Citizenship League, according to Harvey R. Salt, executive secretary of that organization. The league devotes its efforts to aiding the foreign born population.

ALLIES SOUGHT PEACE WITH VICTORY NEAR

fighting, also we stopped fighting at the wish of Allied leaders, and again the determining factor was low morale.

Resent Armistice
Allied Leaders About Face After Debacle.

In "Personalities and Reminiscenses of the War," which I wrote in 1921, while the facts were still fresh in mind, I set down a bit of evidence pertinent to the issue raised today. It follows:

"Colonel E. M. House, at the time a sort of personal representative of President Wilson, states that when the question of an armistice was being considered by the Premiers of England, France and Italy, Gen. Pershing (in effect representing the United States) ALONE was for continuing the war.

"Also, each of these Premiers, on hearing that General Pershing was for continuing the war, remarked—in terms of his own language — 'Grandstand play.'"

Pershing Ready
Americans Withstand All German Pressure

In the light of circumstances of which I was aware, I knew that Colonel House was right—that once operations were suspended and the Allied peoples knew Germany really desired peace, they would not have gone on sacrificing lives merely for revenge.

When Pershing alone was ready to continue the war the pressure on the Meuse-Argonne front was being continued, and the Second Army, which I commanded, was preparing for an offensive toward Metz, order for the start being expected daily.

And yet it now seems to have been to the last the contention of the war-time Premier of France that we entered the war too late, came badly prepared, did not get to the front soon enough, that we bungled, that our Commander-in-Chief was guilty of tacit "insubordination" toward the Allied Generalissimo, and our President was responsible for a premature Armistice.

But Allied commanders, and particularly the French, treated us as if we were babes in the wood, who had to be coddled and cared for by a multitude of Allied officers and bureaus. The French love bureaucracy. We had to resist that entanglement again and again.

They asked us, in amazement: Had we no staffs? And our staff units in the beginning were NOT big enough, but that was a fault which could not be charged against the French. Once I asked a French general whether he or I should protect a certain viaduct with two sentinels. He said a "study" was being made. Two weeks later I asked the same question. The study was still being made.

Pay Heavy Price
French Morale Boosted at Cost of Strategy.

This occurred during 1917. The "nursing" process was due in part to a mistrust of our relatively untrained personnel, but more, perhaps, in the beginning to a desire to get a firm hold on our troops and make it seem necessary that they fight as replacement troops in shattered Allied divisions.

The world does not know how vitally necessary this seemed at the time to the French generals particularly, or why this was so. Newspapers and public utterances were full of optimism. There had been an ostensible upward turn of French morale. But it had been bought at a heavy strategical price.

General Petain had succeeded Nivelle. It has been said that Petain and Foch both knew how to fight, but that Foch did not always know when not to fight. Petain HAD to know when not to fight during 1917.

Attending a meeting of high military officers, I was astounded to discover that behind the smoke-screen of newspaper optimism these men acknowledged that there was almost no chance of victory.

Petain dared not commit himself to any general offensive, and because of the mental state of the soldiers and of the nation, he had to fight only for very limited objectives which he was sure he could attain. No one could measure the probable effect of a bad reversal.

For the same reason, according to a declaration by Marshal Haig made after the war, Petain asked that the British troops make every effort to draw the Germans to the British front.

Clemenceau, lecturing us in his posthumous book, harks back a century and a half to Yorktown, says he has been told there were "more Frenchmen than Americans in the little army which made Cornwallis capitulate," and adds, "Who thinks of it today?"

Nevertheless, only a dozen years had passed when Clemenceau himself appears to have been of failing memory regarding our supremely timely aid to France in HER battle for liberation.

Poilus Complain
Troops Resent Being Denied Trench Leave.

Virtually marking time as he was, Petain still faced a bad situation because French soldiers were complaining bitterly that they were not allowed leave, that their wives and children were suffering and neglected, their personal affairs were ruined, their food bad and their officers paying little attention to their condition.

Leaves were ordered, and then, through the personal efforts of Gen. Pershing, the American Red Cross turned over to Marshal Petain some millions in cash. The work of helping French soldiers went forward without delay. The effect was noted, and then the French government gave additional aid.

In three to four months the whole army was a changed thing. Anyone could see it.

The arrival of the first American contingents, Petain's careful campaign of husbanding man power in an army which grew more and more unwilling to fight, and our Red Cross aid to the French soldiers personally, saved the French from giving up under the despair of defeat and under the defeatist corruption of the times.

So much that is written 10 or a dozen years later, mellowed in retrospect, is inevitably untrue—or at least not the whole truth. Hindsight looks so different from foresight. When I wish to know the exact situation which existed at the time we entered the war, and to estimate whether, psychological factors considered, that entry was decisive, I turn to my diary written at the time.

Interest Wanes
French Lose Heart in Face of 'Tiger's' Dash.

I find under date of December 3, 1917, an enlightening notation:

"In England, France and the United States there is much talk of fighting on, but now they are beginning to say 'to the end.' The end may be anything. There has recently been put in France a resisting government (Clemenceau's). But even since the new government went in two weeks ago I see signs of loss of interest in the people.

"Whatever may be the spirit or the complexion of the government, France is not going to fight offensively any more in this war. They have finished unless forced by Germany."

The French had fought little, the British much and hard, during the last half of 1917. Marshal Haig later told us why the British fought. Then it was said, however, that they fought to wear the enemy down. Any fool could see they were wearing themselves down.

But the "objective" was attained. German pressure on the French front was relieved. War maps show the enemy was then twice as strong on the British as on the French front.

The most rigid British discipline enabled her troops to fight on. The French were never placed under such discipline; they could not fight on and they did not.

During the March offensives by Germany which followed, the "Tiger" was vehemently declaring that the poilu was saying with determination:

"They shall not pass!"

I wrote—and I was in touch and serving with them at the time—that I thought the poilu never said it; that I thought he never believed it, that he only felt and acted:

"I will go and face it; I cannot stop it."

Certainly there was not that spirit in the French Sixth Army when the German drive had pushed forward the Chateau-Thierry salient which threatened the defeat of France. With its back upon Paris, the French army still gave way.

The first ill-feeling which I found existing between American and French troops in that French Sixth Army was due largely to the Americans' belief that the French would not stand beside them in front of the enemy. They were the most war-worn, exhausted poor fellows the world has known. I have thought. They faced the enemy, but without heart. They went through the form of executing an attack, but there was no push in it.

I cannot blame them; but when this was the condition of France, when we brought two million men to turn the tide, it seems less than fair now for the wartime premier of France to speak of:

"One black spot, the fanatical determination of the great chiefs of the American Army to delay the arrival of the Star Spangled Banner on the battlefield."

If we had come in fewer numbers or if our arrival in force and aggressively had occurred two weeks later it would have been too late.

When we arrived we arrived in full vigor to drive offensively, and not merely to replace Allied units in stolid and spiritless resistance.

Beautiful, Alluring HOLLYWOOD COMPLEXION yours in 3 minutes a day —AT LAST—we have discovered how the lovely stars of the stage and screen keep their skin so fresh, so fair and smooth, so utterly beautiful always. Their recipe is very simple and inexpensive. Quickly it spirits away ugly lines and large pores . . . makes the skin satiny smooth and adorns it with an adorable complexion . . . in just 3 minutes a day.

But see for yourself just how wonderful this recipe is . . . how in less time and for a few cents it does to the skin what no beauty expert could ever do. See how it banishes roughness and off-color. See how it captures elusive beauty.

Just ask your druggist for about three ounces of Orchard White and blend it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have a full quarter-pint of the amazing lotion that will give you a beautiful HOLLYWOOD COMPLEXION in just 3 minutes a day.

The citrous acids seep into the pores. They nourish the skin, tighten and invigorate it . . . and Orchard White smooths rough tissue, softens and bleaches the skin, and quickly makes it beautiful . . . keeps it youthful.

Now have a perfect complexion. Ask your druggist for three ounces of Orchard White.

Mello-glo Prevents Shiny Nose

MELLO-GLO Face Powder is preferred by beautiful women because it leaves no trace of pastiness, flakiness or irritation. Stays on longer—no shiny noses! Made by a new French process—prevents large pores. Spreads more smoothly—gives a youthful bloom. Very pure. Use MELLO-GLO Face Powder. It's wonderful.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

SCHUBERT'S "MOMENT MUSICALE" and numbers by Chopin and Brahms will be presented as piano solos by Ossip Gabrilowitsch tonight in the General Motors Family Party, WCAE at 9:30. The orchestra will play the Intermezzo from "Jewels of the Madonna," and Percy Grainger's "Shepherd's Hey."

Nothing sounds so beautiful on the giant Mormon Tabernacle organ as "The Lost Chord," which will given as the opening number of the KDKA program at 6 o'clock.

The Fleet Wing Band program will be good as usual. Excerpts from "Sweethearts" will be included.

"Indian Love Call" and "By the Land of Sky Blue Waters" will be heard on the Gypsies' presentation WCAE at 8:30.

Almost forgotten, "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time," will be revived by the Maytag tenor on KDKA at 9.

Mary Hopple, splendid NBC contralto, will give us "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah" in the 10 o'clock concert from WCAE.

Jesse Crawford's program, WJAS at 10:30, will contain the delightful "Rustle of Spring."

Mr. J. Jefferson Jones' encounter with a polite Italian gentleman whom he suspects of being a guide in disguise, is one of the incidents which enlivens the Jones family's day in Florence.

This day in Florence, Italy, will live in Aunt Letty's memory as perhaps the most disastrous in her experience. To begin with, she discovers her brother Jefferson chuckling over a clipping from the hometown paper. "The Dixie Gazette." This enterprising small town paper has printed in full a letter of Grant's, which, containing in great detail, embarrassing news items about Aunt Letty and her European flirtations.

Furthermore, her brother Jefferson insults a friendly Italian at Fiesole—an Italian who, it develops, is not a guide but a highly distinguished gentleman.

"After Baby Came I Was Weak, Skinny Gained 22 Lbs."

"After baby was born I was very weak, skinny. Since taking Ironized Yeast feel fine. Gained 22 lbs." —Mrs. Laura Benoit.

Thousands write new Ironized Yeast adds 5 to 15 lbs. in 3 weeks. Ugly hollows fill out. Bony limbs get graceful roundness. Muddy skin gets clear and rosy like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation vanish overnight. Sound sleep, new pep from very first day.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Malt Yeast and strengthening Iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in ½ time. No yeasty taste, no gas.

So quit being "skinny," tired, unattractive. Get Ironized Yeast from druggist today. Feel great tomorrow. Money back from manufacturer if not delighted with quick results.

which will prove a great blessing to the "DEAF"

This most advanced and highly perfected hearing aid, the result of many years of thorough investigation, scientific research and experimentation, is based upon newly discovered electro-acoustic principles, never before employed in a hearing aid, which, in combination with highly developed sound reproducing elements, achieve in this instrument an unparalleled amazingly powerful, clear and distinct amplification of all sounds, even from great distances and from any angle.

All parts are so perfectly attuned and harmonized that a natural reproduction of the human voice and music may be enjoyed at home, in church, theatre and the "talkies," even by the severely deafened.

The SONOTONE will be exhibited for the first time in this city,

In a debutante it's Charm

in a cigarette it's Taste

MANY FINE QUALITIES make up the "charm" that is Miss America's, but her genuine wholesomeness appeals most of all.

IN A CIGARETTE, TOO, the real appeal is wholesomeness of taste.

WITNESS CHESTERFIELD'S popularity, growing every day. No flash in the pan, but enduring popularity, earned by giving smokers a cigarette of better quality, richer aroma and finer fragrance, blended and cross-blended to just one end . . . "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

Spaulding, Noted Ad Director, Dies

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP.)—Clement D. Spaulding, former advertising director of the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia, died at his home in Washington Square yesterday after an illness of only one day. Spaulding was born in Ravenna, O., and was educated at Ohio State University. He was a governor of the Ohio Society of Pennsylvania. Surviving are his widow and two sons.

Woman Hangs Self To Tree in Orchard

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 19.—Mrs. Hazel Kunder, 57, employed on the farm of Herman Brandmiller, Jr., hanged herself from a tree in the orchard. She leaves a son and two daughters, one of whom lives in Brazil. She was despondent, relatives say.

Senorita Thrilled

Rosita Moreño, Spanish dancer of "Pleasure Bound," says she's thrilled by the radiance of her skin after a cleansing with the lovely glycerin lather of Jap Rose soap. No small part of her thrill is the petal-smoothness imparted to her skin by this pure glycerin soap—the greatest beautifier in the world. You'll love the way its deep-cleansing, quick-rinsing lather leaves the skin atingle with returning health. Wonderful for shampoo, too.

ACTIVITIES IN HOLLYWOOD REPORTED ALONG WITH LOCAL THEATER CHAT

Jolson Going to Europe; To Make United Artist Film in November

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph)

HOLLYWOOD, May 19.

AL JOLSON has finished his current and last outloud for Warner Bros., "Big Boy." He and Mrs. Jolson plan to depart the colony in a few days en route to New York and thence to Europe. Al has signed to make his next vocalloid with United Artists, but this film doesn't go into production before November. So eastward ho for the Jolsons.

The Warner lot will seem perfectly the same without Al around. Was it two years ago—or more—that he went to work for that company in The Jazz Singer. The Warner boys were marooned on the financial rocks at this time. There was more than money staked in "The Jazz Singer."

Al Jolson

And then—zowie! Over the top smashed this first big talky. Panic and delirium in the industry. The outlouds were no longer a farce. Hollywood changed its box office perspective. Sound stages shot up. Sound equipment was imported. Millions of dollars in constructing the new method of producing. Many producers grumbled loudly and died hard. They looked at the talkies as a fad, a darn expensive fad.

Al Jolson, regardless of what he may or may not do in pictures now, goes down in the historical annals of the celluloid industry as the star pioneer whose dynamic name and personality launched the new type entertainment.

AN OLD THRILLER

T'other eve I dropped into a nearby theater to see "Fighting Blood," directed by D. W. Griffith. It was a one (maybe a two-) reeler. It was produced at least 15 or more years ago. Long, gooey, saccharine subtitles that almost alternated with the action of the picture itself. Said action was the old familiar stuff that thrilled youthful picture audiences in those days. Indians. An attack. The hero rushing for Uncle Sam's cavalry. Saved at the crucial moment. Cheers!

D. W. Griffith

Heavens, what a breathless distance pictures have come since then. It was good, though, to see Robert Harron on the screen. Bobby Harron, who died when such a lad, whose picture future would have glittered. When Griffith first started producing on his own, he co-featured Harron with a feminine player. But Harron passed on. Richard Barthelmess, unknown, stepped into his shoes. Richard has realized the future that Harron, too, would have realized. One of the tragedies of the tragic inside stories of the motion picture. Bobby Harron.

Said to be a rare sight in Hollywood: Bessie Love buying potatoes. No argument.

WINNIE'S NEW HOUSE

Winnie Lightner has leased William (Pathe) Boyd's home in Hollywood. By the bye, didst know Miss Lightner is married? She is. And has a two-year-old baby boy. Whom she named after her favorite motion pitsher star, Richard Barthelmess.

Hear tell 'tis quite possible that Dolores Costello (Mrs. John Barrymore) will not make any more pictures. I understand she has completed her Warner contract. What with being the mother of Dolo-Junior, Mrs. Barrymore probably finds her time pretty well taken up.

DOGS GET CHANCE

Gale Henry East, in behalf of Henry East, who trains dogs for movie work, pens the following to ye scribester:

"Here is an item which might prove interesting to the dog-minded readers of your column. It is the happy fact that the local moving picture dogs are getting a real break. Of course, you know that substitutes who speak foreign languages are being used for the foreign versions of our present day movies. But a dog barks the same in all languages. Hence, three or four times as much welcome work nowadays for the canine artists."

Russ Play to Get First Showing At Tech

Students of the Department of Drama, Carnegie Institute of Technology, will present "The Thunderstorm," beginning tomorrow night in the theater of the College of Fine Arts. The play is by Alexander Ostrovsky, Russian dramatist, and is considered his masterpiece. It is characterized by somberness and biting humor. This production is the first to be given in America.

The play will be run for three evenings without interruption. It will be discontinued Friday, to make way for a concert in the Little Theater, and will be resumed Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

Dramatic

"Journey's End," film version of the intensely dramatic play of the same title, a picture that has received high critical rating, even better than the play, opens today in the Sheridan Square.

FOUR LITTLE PLAYS AT IRENE KAUFMANN

Pittsburgh witnessed the premiere of a new play and a new playwright last night, though people had to go up to the Irene Kaufmann Settlement to do so. "Pineapples," by Alfred L. Goldenberg, was one of four one-act plays presented by the Settlement Players. It is a little thriller which happens in the Chicago of today, and shows a bombing by gangsters—and the plot is well worked out with snappy dialogue. Samuel Moll as Pineapple Pete does a nice bit of acting.

The other plays were "'Op-o-Me-Thumb," a Maude Adams success, in which Eleanor Frank played well as Amanda Afflick, and "Sabotage," that French strike play, in which the lights go out as the surgeon is about to operate while Jean Kramer plays the distracted mother very affectingly.

But the smoothest of all was Louis N. Parker's poetic playlet of the French Revolution, "The Minuet," in which Alex Kann acted the Marquis and Mitsie Snyder the Marchioness with real grace and fire—going to the guillotine like genuine aristocrats. All the plays were well staged.

YOU THINK AND PIANO PLAYS ON STAGE IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Mercedes, mental marvel, is over in the Harris. He takes music from the mind of the audience and transmutes it to the piano, via his assistant, Mlle. Stantone. The mademoiselle sits before a piano on the stage and Mercedes promenades among the audience. And the performance is all quite amazing—and quite entertaining.

For example, if you want Mlle. Stantone to play "Yes, We Have No Bananas," you just call out "please play my selection," and sure enough she'll play the banana song. Or, if musically you prefer flowers, just think of "Tiptoe Through the Tulips" and that's the selection you'll get.

AND THE TUNES COME

At the performance we attended, Mercedes and the mademoiselle were subjected to about 30 tests. The audience requested a wide range of numbers. And Mercedes' mind was ever alert and Mlle. Stantone's fingers were ever nimble. The tunes came as requested.

Personally, we concentrated on "The Road to Mandalay"—and we got it. Which certainly knocked that show-me-I'm-from-Missouri attiude of our's lower than the orchestra pit. We're in Mercedes' corner now, cheering his act and announcing it's the most entertaining and unique display of mental telepathy that we've ever seen on the stage.

MAIL ORDER MARRIAGE

On the screen the Hungarian actress, Vilma Banky, speaks with a queer accent and goes in for a mail-order marriage. The picture is titled "A Lady to Love" and most of its action is laid in a California vineyard. The eternal triangle is there. Also there is an element of the conflict between age and youth. Edward G. Robinson appears to advantage in the role of a middle-aged Italian vineyard owner. However, there are episodes when he lets emotional hysteria run away with him. Robert Ames is on hand and his chief purpose is to fill the third corner of the love triangle. The production has its share of comedy and melodramatics.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That an amusing feud is being plotted between the press dept' of the "Stepping Sisters" show and Whitney Bolton, the dramatic critic for The Morning Telegraph. Mr. Bolton, it appears, said in his report of the show: "If this one lasts five weeks I will draw pictures in Macy's window at high noon!" The show is in its fourth week now.

That Helium gas can make the toughest basso sing tenor.

That, according to an advertisement in the morning rags, M. H. Greenebaum, 220 Greenwich street, wholesales "Irish Bacon and Hams!"

That the wax-work likeness of Maurice Chevalier, in the Musee Grevin in Paree, is his "spittin'" image in every detail except the sassy angle at which he wears his famous straw hat.

That the coined name "Girlesk" for "Burlesk," which we credited to the City Theater, was used in Detroit and other cities for yrs.

That Robert Garland, Baltimore's drama-defending gift to Broadway, sums up the Pulitzer Prize play award to "The Green Pastures" in this swift sentence: "As a matter of fact there is one dramatic critic who doesn't think the Pulitzer Prize is good enough for it!"

That Philip Massinger's play, "A New Way to Pay Old Debts," published in the Seventeenth Century, used the word "booze," but spelled it "bouse," according to a Yale student, who forwards the line, viz: "No bouse? Nor no tobacco?" The Yale '30 stewdent adds: "You dope!"

Is my face red???

That a Hungarian 2,000 Krone stamp contains a photograph of a basketball game, of all things!

That the first theater built especially for television will be located on Vth avenue and will open in the 1932 autumn. Television will be launched as a ritzy affair, and two years will elapse before any attempt will be made to peddle it to Orange Juice Gulch.

That there is a brokerage firm named Good & Low Co.

That when a member of Parliament in Canada is appointed to the federal cabinet he must resign his seat in the House and be re-elected to Parliament, thus giving the people the chance to place the seal of approval on him.

That Vice President William Rufus King, of Alabama, elected on the Democratic ticket in 1852, took oath of office in Cuba.

That the Italian Il Duce (Mussolini's affectionate nickname) means The Leader of the People and is pronounced "eel-doo-chay."

That the American Indian usually mounts a horse from the animal's right side instead of from the left as the white man does. This custom originated because the warrior carried his bow in his left.

That the phrase "free and equal" does not appear in the Declaration of Independence as many people suppose.

That it is not definitely known how many violins were made by Antonius Stradivarius. The number is estimated at one thousand. Violin experts suppose that 400 or 500 of these violins are still in existence, about one-third of them being in the United States.

That the ostrich never buries its head in the sand! That is, to hide. It does so to seek water.

That among other amusing ads in the papers was the Finlay-Straus ad, which offers: "Wedding Rings for Married Women Only!"

That if you ask a New York drug store clerk to remove a cinder from your eye he must not charge you a fee.

That Avis Golden, who was spanked here the other day for sending one of those silly chain-letters, says that her husband sent it and signed her name, and she hopes he finds something better to do.

That when a skyscraper is in construction they feature our flag at the top. When the bldg. is done, the flag disappears. How come?

That there isn't enough money in the whole world to buy the stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

That electrical milking machines are automatically timed, as to the milking strokes, by the pulsation of the cow's heart.

That according to a veteran detective you seldom find a bricklayer with fingerprints on his left paw.

That another entry for the long song-title contest is: "I Thought I Was Fooling You, But I was Only Fooling Myself."

That the famous crack "You can fool some of the people all of the time, etc.," was probably suggested by: "Individuals may deceive and be deceived; no one has deceived everyone, and everyone has deceived no one" (Bouhours: Le Pere Dominique, 1628-1702).

That Texas Guinan's new man won't let her smoke.

That Furness of Philly, who backed "Lysistrata" for $100,000 because he wanted to see Aristophanes' dirtiest play produced, died a week before it opened.

That the Darlingtonia is a flesh-eating plant.

That the most unusual four corners in New York are at 153rd street and Amsterdam avenue. The corners are occupied, respectively, by a drug store, an undertaker's parlor, a church and a cemetery!

That 14 Sutton place South recently refused to accept a famous ballroom dancer as a tenant because she was on the stage.

That only six monkeys were born in the U. S. last yr.

Bellevue Class to Give Play in Church

Members of the Mrs. T. H. Wilkenson Bible class of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal church, will give a play "The Last Day at the District School" tomorrow night at the monthly meeting of the class in the church rooms.

Woman Dies in Fire Started by Cigaret

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 19.—(INS.)—Smothered when a cigaret ignited an overstuffed chair, Mrs. Elizabeth Day Awtry, wife of Lieut.-Com. Robert A. Awtry, U. S. N., is dead here today.

Week's Only Play Is 'After Dark'

With the season closed for touring companies, the Pitt is the only legitimate stage in Pittsburgh. It continues "After Dark" for a third week, opening tonight. Next week the George Sharp Players in that theater will return to comedy with "Let Us Be Gay."

When the Works Close Down Everybody Suffers

NOTHING can take the place of Work to keep food on the workers' tables

The Protective Tariff that

Senator Joseph R. Grundy

Fights For Makes Work and then MORE WORK

It keeps the American market, the richest in the world, for American workers and American industries, whatever they may be, whether coal, steel, glass, cement, textiles, transportation, etc.

And that makes for full-time jobs and high wages for Pennsylvania workers, and high standards of living for them, their wives and children.

To keep the tariff protecting Pennsylvania workers and Pennsylvania homes, Pennsylvania workers in factories, mines, offices, on farms, the railroads, in the professions and elsewhere must

United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy

Keep Grundy in the Senate

Where he is the most powerful WORKER FOR THE WORKERS

At the Republican Primary Election May 20, Vote for United States Senator

Joseph R. Grundy	X

Makes Gold Green

Cadmium is one of the rarer metals, the world production being about half a million pounds a year. When mixed with gold it makes a green alloy.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

Chickie Learns That Her Mother Has Become Ill

CHAPTER LXXXIX.

They wanted her home for Thanksgiving. They didn't know how they'd get through the day without her. Would she come?

Chickie packed a turkey that she herself had fed. She packed grapes and winter pears with many gay messages all in a holiday box.

She said to them: "Now what do you mean asking 'will I be home' and here I am millions of miles deep in the mountains and no chance to get back before the middle of December. But there's Christmas coming, and just you wait—"

She told them how she would hang her stocking above the grate in the living room and she wanted it filled to bulging. And—oh—such things as she was making for them between times—Besides they knew in the very beginning that she would be on this inspection trip for two months—so hush now and have a Christmas tree all ready—

When she wrote letters like this to them she felt as though she were twisting their hearts in her hand. For she could hear Jennie singing in the high, tender falsetto she could see Jonathan square his massive shoulders. They'd believe—they'd wait—

Agnes Robbins taught her how to knit slippers and silk ties. So she began to make gifts for them. She tied them in green and red tissue paper. She bought a beautiful waist and sheer stockings for Jennie and gay handkerchiefs. Early in December she had an enormous box filled with treasures for the two of them.

Makes Another Excuse

At night she lay awake turning hotly from side to side. What excuse must she make this time? She got up and sat at the window. The sky was black—it was quiet and dark. Her heart beat loud. And in the silence and the dark horror of herself rose like a frightened shadow. It bore slowly upon her. It came close and put hands on her shoulders—breathed in her face flashing red-hot images into her mind. They were images of herself. She, sitting at a window, blithely flirting, thinking herself all stars and lilies; she standing in the stirrups, waiting till he kissed her twice, and she that night of Bess Abbot's marriage, carried out on that deep tide of emotion whispering: "Did you wish it was tonight?"

Then other images—a canoe skimming down the river, darkness closing like a tomb, bleeding hands clinging to a cross beam.

Now this—now this.

But she kept writing the happy letters. She was in the mountains—odd people she met—nights that they stayed in the villages—days traveling to different settlements.

Two days before Christmas she rode into town with Billy. She sent a telegram, not caring how the words ran.

"Darling Jonathan and Jennie—We're snowbound in this mountain village. Can't get out—can't hang my stocking. Make Christmas keep a week or two or I'll be broken-hearted. We have everything here, but it's lonely. Jennie dear, don't weep about it and I won't. I sent a Christmas box a week ago and hope you get it in time. When I get out of here all the jobs and salaries in the world won't fetch me back. I want to be home, like anything. I'll be down mighty soon, and it will be for good."

Christmas Arrives

She was afraid sending that. If they should trace it—if for one instant a suspicion leaped into their minds and they began to question. Or if Jonathan should show the message, say, to Jimmy the whole flimsy pretext would be bared!

Now, looking back, she could see a hundred flaws in the moves she had made. Oh—she should have gone much farther away; should have put a thousand miles between her and the chance of return—the chance of discovery.

Christmas Day she was awake early. It was cold. The cold bit into her flesh. She sat up in bed and could see her face in the mirror. There were black lines under her eyes—and a pinched look at her nostrils. She sank back under the covers and the feelings of strangeness, of not knowing this person that was now she, made her shiver.

"Then she laughed. "Oh, no—not you! Somebody else! Not you at all!"

No rain—but the wind swept with a chill, dismal cry about the house. She pictures Jennie putting the turkey in the oven, Jonathan walking about restlessly—

She went with Wildie down to the river. The water was frozen, the trees stripped of their leaves had a bleak, desolate aspect. She leaned against them.

Suddenly she began to cry and the dog whined. He jumped up and licked her face. She put her arms around him and cried more.

And she didn't try to calm herself—didn't fight against the outburst. She gave in to it and finally sank down on the damp earth, mute—apathetic again.

She wondered vaguely if she deserved to suffer so—if it was right that she should be exiled here and not a chance in all the world to escape, not even a chance to meet the future. Oh—she had no idea what she was to do.

Others went free. She was the one to be branded. Marjorie Abbott could escape. Her baby was born dead. Janina wrote this bit of news with many caustic comments. Marjorie could have taken care of her child. She was married, she had money.

She—Chickie—could do nothing for her. But it would live and she would live. The child would grow to hate her, to ask her how she dared to bring it here knowing what it must meet. Oh, the child would turn furiously against her—the child would be her judge.

Letter From Mary

Now, she imagined it a son, with a mouth that was full and sweet, forehead touched with glory, red hair brushed back. She was afraid of this image. When it confronted her she twisted her hands. If she had a son to look like him—to grow tall and question her with quiet, doubting eyes? She prayed that it would never be a son—

Then she fancied it a girl—the face like hers. She saw the bright thing standing before a mirror in a dress of green. She heard this girl laugh with joy finding herself so pretty, life so glad.

Chickie seeing this grew cold—grew utterly cold. She heard cries of anguish. They were her own. Oh, God—let it not be a girl—never a girl to suffer so—

The week after Christmas there came a letter from Mary. Mary wrote to her often and often there was a sting in her words. Like this one: "I dropped in on Christmas Day to see your mother, Chickie. She did nothing but talk of you and the wonderful job you had received—the big future and the big salary. It's pathetic. She was talking her heart into the words. Well—the $200 may be a good salary, but you're not the only one paying for it, Chickie. I think it's just cruel to your parents. If you're going to be up there much longer you better stop and think.

"I suppose I should mind my own business, but Jennie is looking very old and thin. She shows her age and she never did before.

Jennie Taken Ill

"Jonathan didn't say a word the whole time I was there. He just chewed the cigar. Finally he asked me to come in for a while at dinner. We were eating at four so I could. It was the saddest thing in the world to see those two sitting there alone making a show of Christmas spirit with your place all decorated in holly, and Jennie wiping her eyes all the time. I don't know how you can do it, Chickie. It's selfish and nothing else when you know their whole life is centered in you."

And in the next mail there came a message from her father: "Chickie girl, it was no Christmas without you. Jennie is getting too lonely. She's not so well. I hope you'll come very soon. That's all she needs to perk on again. Poor mother—she dreams about you every night and wakes me up crying. Now that's all foolishness, I tell her—but just you hurry up, Chickie girl or we'll come up and fetch you—"

She took these two letters and read them till terror like a poison filled her veins.

She sent no answers.

Time—she must fight for time. And now it seemed to her that her mind was paralyzed.

Then she was wild with fear that there might be delays—that this date for the end of January that the doctor had given her might be mistaken.

After New Years she wrote. She had just come back. Oh, the time would be a jiffy now till she was with them again. Oh, they were clearing up all the work here and the office would soon be ready in the city.

Jonathan answered: "Come now, Chickie. Never mind about this job. Your mother is sick. She has been in bed almost since Christmas. She calls for you. I ask you to please put everything aside now and come."

Hot or cold tartar sauce, chili sauce and horseradish, drawn butter sauce, cream sauce with chopped hard-cooked eggs and minced olives, or a lemon butter sauce are delicious served with fish dinners.

"Tulips"—Surprised by Spring -:- -:- -:- DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

SPRING is the time for Young Things. Then's when Time works an "awful" magic and turns himself into a beautiful, rosy, golden-haired young lady. Young things. Young buds. New flowers. Freshened up thoughts that pass—really and truly—for new when you yourself are no longer young.

Young ideas. Young clothes—meaning brand-new ones, fresh from the pen and pencil and the sewing table. Young animals—oh, so 'dorable—furry, innocent, without care, wild with play and new life. Young moon.

And with young moon—YOUNG LOVE.

Two lips in the spring. Do you remember when you were there? If you do, and spring is getting under your winter-skin, you will kiss your wife with some of the lost sweetness, forgotten ardor, laid-aside delight. And if you do you will be surprised to find the springtime of love come back in her answer.

Dickey's Phone Call Warns Madge to Expect More Visitors

"Oh a particular person call," I said in answer to Katie's garrulous account of my husband's attempt to get me over the telephone.

"Yah! I guess dot vot you call eet," Katie returned. "But vot you tink dot old womans say eef I tell her Meester Graham no vant to talk to her? She go straight oop in air like airship. I so glad she no hear call, for she sleep. But eef she vake oop" My little maid spread her hands in a dismayed gesture.

"I'll go straight inside and get hold of the long-distance operator," I said. "By the way, is Mrs. Ticer still here?"

"Sure ting, und old man Ticer, too," Katie answered with a giggle. "He say eef Jerry go mit Jeem und your fader he ought to stay around so there would be vun man in the house. He say he no got mooch to do dees afternoon. You know vot I tink? I tink dot Meester Ticer he no got crush on vork very bad."

She giggled again, and, turning, sped toward the house before I could reprove her. I was not sure, however, that I would have restrained her speech even if she had stayed. Good-natured Sam Ticer's Rip Van Winkle proclivities are well known to his neighbors.

"I must hurry in, father," I said, and indeed Jim was upon the ground to help me out before I spoke. I wonder what it is that Dicky wants."

"Probaby to inquire into the whereabouts of a collar button," my father answered.

"I hope that it is nothing more serious," I said worriedly, and hurrying into the house, went directly to the telephone and asked for the long-distance operator.

"This is Mrs. Richard Graham." I gave the number of our telephone. "I understand you have been trying to complete a particular person call for me from my husband in New York City. I have just returned and will be here now for some time. Will you try to get him on the telephone?"

"Thank you, Mrs. Graham. We will try to complete the call right away." And, indeed, it was but a minute or two later that the bell rang again. I had seated myself near the instrument in an endeavor to keep the ring from awakening my mother-in-law, and I snatched off the receiver hurriedly. In another second Dicky's voice, impatient as ever, was sounding over the wire.

"How are you feeling?" he asked, and there was concern as well as tenderness in his voice. "I hope the journey at that unearthly hour didn't do you up."

"Not a bit," I returned. "I'm feeling very fit. But—are you all right?"

"Of course. What could be the matter with me?"

"I'm so glad," I answered, ignoring his query. "Is there anything wrong at the apartment?"

"What the—" Dickey checked himself again. "Don't let your imagination run away with you, old dear," he advised airily. "Everything's going as well as possible. But—I just had a long talk over the long-distance with Harriet from Detroit. She wanted to talk to you, but took me as next best, and I promised to relay the message to you."

"Is there anything the matter?" My voice was sharp with unreasoning apprehension.

"No!" Dickey shouted into the telephone. Then he laughed, and I guessed that it was not mirth, but a desire to camouflage irritation which was behind his laughter.

"Cut out of it, Cassandra," he admonished, "although I don't know but as far as you're concerned you've a right to be apprehensive. How do you think you'll relish having three lively youngsters—all boys—added to your Christmas vacation party?"

"What—how?" I stammered, and Dickey cut me short with a laugh.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

Gray hair should be beautifully dressed. An untidy head of white threads looks more frowsy than hair of any other color. The undulation should be wide and natural looking. The coiffure should have stateliness and dignity.

A wart that appears suddenly, grows rapidly and shows an uneven broken edge is a sentility wart. It should have the attention of a medical man. It should not be meddled with, and it should not be neglected. It may become malignant.

Cold compresses aren't liked by neck wrinkles. If there are round-and-round lines encircling the throat, try the cold compress. Dip a washcloth in ice cold water, wring out partially, place on the neck and cover with a dry Turkish towel. In a short time the washcloth will be steaming hot. Remove it and slap on another cold one.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Enemy of Love

The greatest enemy to marriage is not poverty, but money.

The greatest friend to divorce is not work, but too much LEISURE.

Most marriages do not sag in the middle until the money begins to roll in and time begins hanging a little heavily on somebody's hands.

It is not the struggles and self-denials they share, but the amusements and "time-killers" they DON'T share, which separate most husbands and wives.

It is not until they can afford two automobiles that they begin to think of taking separate roads, and of two-timing each other.

A woman who is BUSY, all day long, trying to make a dollar go all the way round and lap over, has no time to wonder if her soul is being starved, or if she is missing her youthful romance.

A man who is WORKING hard, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., to try to pay off the mortgage, meet the installments on the flivver and keep up the insurance, has no energy left, at the end of the day, to look around for a blonde diversion, or to foregather with "the boys" for an all-night poker game.

Two young people, who are holding down good office jobs, and struggling to build a bungalow, pile up a bank account, and pay for a good car, are glad enough to meet at home every evening and sit by the fire or in the porch swing and listen to the radio for relaxation.

But, somehow, as soon as the bank account gets big enough to permit them to join a country club and "play around," they begin looking for somebody to play with. YOU know how it is.

When a man gets the wherewithal to send his wife and the kiddies to Florida in winter and the mountains in summer, he is very apt to look around for something sweet and cuddly to help him bear the burden of his "loneliness." And when a woman has a lot of imported gowns and the leisure to sit around on a fashionable hotel plaza, she just naturally begins to yearn for somebody to LOOK at her with something more than a sketchy husbandly glance of appraisal.

And that's where the sweetest marital romance so often curdles.

Poverty and HARD WORK are the ties that bind. Not, as the cynic said, because the poor haven't the carfare to get away; but because they have not the leisure to be bored with life—and each other.

The happiest married people in the world are those who start poor, work hard together for a mutual ambition, and do not succeed in attaining that ambition until their marriage has "jelled" and their love has "set."

A BUSY husband and a BUSY wife are the best matrimonial bets. If you MUST have an ornament or a pet around the house, buy it—don't MARRY it!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Well Written Letter

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—When one is using letter paper of the "folder" type, in what order should the pages be used?

2—What is the correct heading, as to address and so forth, for informal letters?

3—Should regular or note size paper be used for so-called bread-and-butter letters?

4—In my far-distant school days I was taught to indent addresses, but my high school daughter tells me this is passe. What is your opinion?

A. M. S.

1—There isn't any definite rule about the order of pages, but there are two general suggestions. The first one is that we write as the majority of people write—on the first page, then on the last page, and then, turning the inside pages around, write on these two pages as if they were one. This makes an effective-looking letter.

If you are writing only a short note, write, after the first page, on the inside pages, turned about, so they are one page.

2. If we are writing to friends whom we know very well, we may write only the date, or even the day at the top, or our address, if ye wish. It seems too business-like to write the address and the date, as we do in a professional or business letter.

One thing we must keep in mind, however. If in the body of the letter, we are mentioning a date that is important, then it is important usually that we make clear the date in the heading.

3. So that we will not be tempted to shorten our bread and butter letter to adapt its length to the size of the paper, it is best to use letter paper, instead of note paper.

4. Indenting the lines of an address, as on an envelope or in the heading of a letter isn't passe—it is just another form that we may choose, if we wish. Personally, I still think that the indented lines are much more interesting to look at, and far, far easier to read. This non-indented form of address is, of course, easier on a typewriter, and hence its popularity for business letters. But for the social letter the indented lines still are the more popular, because the more artistic looking.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

The Undernourished Infant

Many infants are below normal weight. When this condition exists it is either from improper feeding or because of some physical ailment.

DR. COPELAND

Such babies need as great a total of food as the normal baby of the same age. How are you going to feed such a child enough food so that it will catch up to normal weight?

So far as habits go, such babies are not very different from the normal. There must be a way found to provide for the delayed growth in some way, and this can be done by giving extra feedings.

Usually such children have diminished digestive capacity. For this reason there must be provided easily digestible food which has a high caloric value. By this I mean food that has heat-giving properties.

The undernourished child should be fed five or six times a day. Since it may take only a few ounces at a feeding, it is desirable in such a case to raise the food value of the mixture by adding one or two ounces of some dried milk preparation. This will increase the food value without adding much to the bulk.

If the baby is suffering from undernourishment from insufficient food it will soon gain under such feeding. But if it does not improve it may be because there is some infection in the system. It may be in the middle ear, the mastoid, the nose, the throat or some other place. Your doctor should be consulted about it.

In hot weather an infant's capacity and appetite for food is much lessened. In that event not so much food is needed. But it is very important that the milk is made safe by pasteurization or by boiling and that it is kept under proper refrigeration.

All food should be handled most carefully in order not to contaminate it in any way. The hands should be kept scrupulously clean in preparing baby's food. A tiny baby's stomach and whole digestive tract are most delicate and easily upset.

The baby should be given an extra amount of water to drink during hot weather. There is much evaporation of the water from the surfaces of the body at such a time. More water must be supplied to make up for this. Give it midway between the feedings.

With the added nourishment, good care, plenty of fresh air and direct sunshine, always being careful to shield the baby's eyes, the child should make rapid progress to normal weight and good health. But in case the baby does not improve very soon your doctor should be consulted to see if there is any underlying trouble which needs treatment.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, May 20

Tuesday's astrological forecast holds several conflicting auguries. Although private contacts and affairs may flourish and the finances are under encouraging sway, yet the employment is under hazardous aspect, new ventures are likely to encounter setback and subtlety and all writings and contracts are under a sign read as perilous. It will be difficult to push matters to fortunate issues and there is some hint of change, unfortunate litigation, with fraud or misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year of difficult and hazardous situations in employment as well as in new ventures and the making of contracts. These are under adverse rulership, but finances and personal relations hold some advantageous positions. Shun litigation and sign papers cautiously.

A child born on this day should be ambitious, capable and popular, but it may find many obstacles to surmount in employment and in the launching of its highest aims. It may incline to subtlety and stratagem in attaining its ends.

MINISTER, 30, COLLEGE HEAD

The Rev. Dr. Robert N. Montgomery, of Pittsburgh, is celebrating his thirtieth birthday in Scotland today, knowing that the board of Tarkio College, Tarkio, Mo., has made him the youngest college president in the Americas.

Dr. Montgomery

For the board made the announcement that the young Pittsburgh theologian would succeed the Rev. J. A. Thompson, president of the United Presbyterian institution for 43 years. Thompson becomes president-emeritus.

Dr. Montgomery is a son of Dr. John Knox Montgomery, president of Muskingum College—the son's alma mater. He studied in Pittsburgh at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, graduating in 1925 with highest honors. At present he is getting a masters of arts degree from the University of Edinburgh.

After spending some time in the Holy Land, Dr. Montgomery returned here in 1926. He has since taught Hebrew and the Old Testament in the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. He spent one summer doing archaeological work in Palestine. He was married in 1925 to Miss Ruth Kelley, of Oberlin, O.

PRISONS CHIEF OFFERED POST

BALTIMORE, May 19.—(AP.)—Dr. Walter N. Thayer, Jr., state superintendent of prisons, has been offered a post as head of the New York penal system, it was learned here. The report was confirmed by Stuart S. Janney, chairman of the Board of Welfare. Dr. Thayer could not be reached.

"Dr. Thayer has informed me," Janney said, "that Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, wants to appoint him to a high post in the New York penal system.

"I have great hopes that he will find his way clear to stay here in Maryland.

100 Dogs Poisoned, Citizens Hunt Killer

ANACONDA, Mont., May 19.—(AP.)—More than 100 dogs died here over the week-end of a poisoning and a vigilance committee headed by Dr. Roy Brandt has posted a $250 reward in an effort to apprehend the person who scattered poisoned meat, candy, cookies and doughnuts about the city. Some of the dogs killed were of considerable value.

Disciplined Worker Cremates Himself

SPOKANE, Wash., May 19.—(AP.)—After worrying two days over disciplining given him by his superiors, Y. Nagasaka, 54, a Japanese employe in the Great Northern repair shops, crawled into a roaring fire box and was cremated, Dr. I. S. Collins, deputy coroner, said.

Exquisite Afternoon Frock

Pattern 1914

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

The charm and daintiness of lace is beautifully expressed in this afternoon frock with pointed details of yoke and skirt. There are several fine tucks in the bodice, back and front, tending to mould the garment to the figure. A decidedly slender effect is achieved in the styling of this frock.

Pattern 1914 is particularly lovely fashioned of georgette, flat crepe or voile. The yoke of cream lace blends delightfully with the pastel shades so much in vogue this season. Black and ecru or blue and cream are smart combinations.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 39-inch material and ⅝-yard lace.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.

AUTO HIT, 2 ON TRAIN KILLED

HAMMOND, La., May 19.—(AP.)—The engineer and fireman of an Illinois Central Railroad limited were injured fatally, a 14-year-old boy was hurt seriously and three passengers including a woman were injured slightly yesterday when the boy's automobile stalled on the track at Tangipahoa station and was hit by the train.

Leon Ford, 56, engineer, of Hammond, and Harry Watts, Negro, fireman, of McComb, Miss., died of steam burns en route to a McComb hospital.

J. P. Wall, Jr., 14, of Hammond, driver of the car, was taken to a New Orleans hospital.

Lady Tells How Six Bottles of New and Different Medicine Ended Stomach Trouble.

Daily Konjola, the new and different medicine, is winning new friends and fame in Pittsburgh and wherever introduced. There is a reason for such outstanding success and that reason can be summed up in just three words—Konjola Makes Good.

MRS. ANNA B. HARRIS

And Konjola makes good in those stubborn cases that have defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments tried. All who suffer and who would be well again are urged to find out about the merits of Konjola from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. There daily he is telling the wonderful story of this wonderful medicine and passing out free samples and free literature.

Daily many men and women call on the Konjola Man to tell of the benefits derived through the use of Konjola. Although many state that one bottle of this super-remedy brought amazing relief, it is recommended that six or eight bottles be taken to obtain the best results. Konjola works at the very source and fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. It might have been compounded by Nature for it works with Nature in cleansing and invigorating and paving the way for the return of new and glorious health.

Decide to profit from the experiences of others. Read the happy words of Mrs. Anna B. Harris, 916 Page Street, McKees Rocks, Pa., near Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man:

"For several years I suffered from stomach trouble and a general run-down condition. Nothing that I tried did me the least bit of good until I took Konjola. Six bottles of this splendid medicine made me feel like twenty-three years old instead of fifty-three. Thank Heaven for Konjola."

Konjola was not designed to bring mere temporary relief. Its goal is far beyond that. Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients its seeming wonders to perform. All that is asked for this medicine is that it be given a chance to prove its merits.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man.

Konjola is sold also by all Dow stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

TWO DEAD, 8 HURT IN AUTO MISHAPS

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Political reminiscences: In 1903 W. H. Hays, the candidate of the newly-formed Citizens Party, was elected Mayor in a bitter fight against the organization candidate . . . And his chief of police was John McTighe, later succeeded by Burk Wallace . . . There was the more recent Pepper-Fisher-Vare-Beidleman fight in which John S. Fisher, on the one ticket, defeated Beidleman for Governor and William S. Vare evened things by trouncing George Wharton Pepper for the Senate—In 1921 Joe Mackrell, now the Register of Wills, ran as an independent Republican to lose by a few votes to Billy Magee for Mayor, although John Douglas, former clerk of courts, entered and withdrew

. . . The non-partisan ballot was on its last political legs when E. V. Babcock defeated Magee and Dr. James P. Kerr for Mayor in 1917 . . . Kerr was eliminated and in the race between Babcock and Magee he tossed his support to Babcock . . . In 1913 Joe Armstrong, beaten by 300 votes in the primary, came back at the general election to win over Stephen G. Porter, now the congressman, in one of the most hotly contested fights in the city's political history . . . And then, more than 15 years ago, there was Frank J. Harris, then a political rookie, who, with most of the organization opposed to him, conducted a hand-to-hand campaign and won the county treasurership . . .

William J. Diehl was the mayor of the town in 1901 when a ripper bill which abolished the office was passed by the Legislature, and W. B. Hays was in office when the Legislature revoked the change in 1903 . . . The last Democratic Mayor to hold office was George W. Guthrie, who took office in 1906, being elected over Alex Jenkinson because of a split in the Republican ranks . . . In 1923 Max Leslie surprised the political wiseacres by engineering the campaign which brought election to Sam Gardner as district attorney and Joe Mackrell as register of wills, among others . . .

We have added another correspondent to the Sidewalks Corps, and his name is Lone Star. He is a Negro, about 35, and very lazy. His is a roving commission, for he is a rover. We saw him first at 3:30 in the morning. We were walking along Wylie avenue and he was sitting on a doorstep, half asleep. "Brother," he called out, "My buddy and I just this minute got in from Philadelphia and . . ."

"Quit the kidding," we suggested. "You've been around since February."

Lone Star smiled and murmured something about there being no use trying to fool all of the people all of the time. We accused him of being the world's laziest man and he smiled and said we were right. Then he quoted something which sounded like Eddie Guest.

"You is right." Lone Star confessed. "But you is wrong, too. Lazy Ah is but Ah is good at it. Ef'n you gonna be anything, be good at it. Ah sets out to be lazy and Ah succeeds."

There ought to be a law in every country making a man read his autobiography out loud before his enemies and see what happens. As it is now a fellow can call you anything he wants to, and make you still madder by dying before you can get at him.

SOCIAL GROUPS WORK TO END BREAD LINES

Committee Studies Plans To Meet Unemployment Crisis in Winter Months

The Federation of Social Agencies today announced the appointment of a committee to work out a plan to care for the unemployed and prevent future breadlines. The plan is to be in effect during the winter months, it was announced. Dr. Francis Tyson, chairman of the employed committee, announced the personnel.

Maintaining that the city does not need bread lines, although two of them attracted many men during the past winter, the committee stated that the men to be cared for are recruits for contract labor jobs or migratory labor, drifters or vagrants who seldom do any work, local men whose trades have become obselete, or who are temperamentally unstable so that they cannot hold a steady job, or have some other handicap.

Members of the committee are John Ihlder, of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, chairman; Col. James B. Campbell, Salvation Army; the Rev. James R. Cox, Miss Mercedes Flower, Red Cross; Miss Nell Scott, Family Welfare Association; Lieut. Maj. Richard Ives, of the Volunteers of America; R. M. Moss, Urban League; Harry W. Shepard, Improvement of the Poor; Dr. Tyson and Mrs. Doris L. Victor, Jewish Family Welfare Association.

REITER LETTER FILED AS WILL

The estate of Read Admiral George C. Reiter, 85, valued at $35,000, was disposed of in a letter written to his nephew, Attorney Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., which was filed for probate today in the office of the register of wills.

The letter was written on Duquesne Club stationery, June 17, 1917. He died in Canton, O., May 9. Helen Louise Reiter, widow of his son, George Cook Reiter, Jr., will receive an income from his estate as long as she remains a widow.

Upon her death the estate passes to the children of Sophie Duff Acheson, Mary Wilson Spencer, Kate Davis Gordon, Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., and Ethel Acheson, and the heirs of George R. Acheson.

Pittsburgh Man Faces Lisbon Jury

Harry W. Kushing, 23, of 5625 Baum boulevard, today was scheduled to go on trial today in Lisbon, O., charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Deputy Sheriff James F. Elliott, of Lisbon.

Deputy Elliott was fatally injured April 8 when run over by Kushing's automobile as he was trying to arrest the Pittsburgher for violating a traffic law. Kushing has been at liberty on $10,000 bond.

Dentists to Attend Lake Erie Meeting

Many Pittsburgh dentists are expected to attend the sixty-seventh annual meeting of the Lake Erie Dental Association at Cambridge Springs Thursday, Friday, Saturday, according to Dr. W. E. Mandel, Pittsburgh, president of the association. Several Pittsburghers are on the program of the convention. Dr. J. A. Gardner, Pittsburgh, and Dr. Samuel S. Haudenshield, Carnegie, are slated for talks and clinics during the meeting.

Luther League Meet To Open Saturday

"The World, the Church and I" will be the theme at the seventy-fifth semi-annual convention of the Pittsburgh District Luther League Saturday. The gathering will be held in the First Lutheran Church, Sixteenth street and Fourth avenue, Beaver Falls. A rally supper at 6:30 o'clock will end the meeting.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

CHAPTER XXXV.

Cecile's marriage had an odd effect upon Jeanette. She became more restless. More acrimonious of tongue, sharper of eye than ever.

Now that the prettier and younger sister was married, Jeanette felt the role of the family old maid settling down upon her. Cecile in the part of the feted and popular belle had been distasteful to the jealous Jeanette. But Cecile as an assured young matron filled her sister with a helpless malice which threatened to ruin her digestion.

As though she suspected this—and took delight in goading her, Cecile was down at the Smokerie more often than ever. Laughing with gay indulgence at Jeanette's sour observations. Gossiping over the tea cups with the other frequenters of the shop. Murmuring daring sophistries with Cyril Underhill while her sharp little teeth glistened between her orange lips.

The first time Cecile had come to The Caprice since her marriage, Ardeth felt her heart contract as though a hot hand squeezed it. She bit her lower lip until the pain brought her back to herself.

Had she imagined it—or had Cecile flung her a swift sidewise look of contemptuous triumph as she walked by into the Smokerie. Ardeth was grateful for the hesitation of the stout woman she was waiting upon. That fraction of time gave her a chance to crush back her heart. To put on her mask again before the world.

Christmas
Ardeth Is Happier After Buying Presents

Cecile rather ostentatiously went into mourning for Ken's mother. She knew the expensive black crepes and chiffons lent pretty emphasis to her milky oval face, to the Naples yellow waves of her hair. It gave a touch of diablerie to her rather insipid beauty, a fact appreciably noticed by Cyril Underhill.

"You are a seductive siren today," he murmured, his black eyes brushing her face in bold caress. "A beautiful bad spirit. You are La Belle Dame sans Merci."

The long grey eyes narrowed and Cecile's thin orange lips curled enticingly. "But mercy is one quality you do not crave, Cyril—"

Ah Ling, collecting ash trays, saw the look which passed between them and the little maid's slanting eyes were scornful. Not thus did Chinese brides behave.

Christmas came upon Ardeth like a chill surprise. In her unhappiness she had forgotten about Christmas. She told herself drearily that it did not matter. She had no one to make Christmas happy for. . . . Yet the day before as she walked past the brightly colored shops she had suddenly turned in one and made her way to the toy department. She picked out a gaily dressed doll for Fan. A catcher's mask and baseball bat for Paul. She ordered them sent to the Fell street flat.

It had been a sudden impulse but the act warmed her heart. After that she felt not quite so forlorn. She whipped up faint interest and bought a frivolous little vanity case for Ah Ling.

An Invitation
Refuses to Attend Dinner With Tom

Looking abnormally serious, Tom Corbett came into the shop one day and tried to make her promise to have Christmas dinner with him, at the house of the married sister where he made his home.

"Lyn's having a dinner party Twelve people—you and I will make it 14. Please, Ardeth. Carolyn's a peach. She made me promise to make you come. She'd come down here and ask you herself, but she never did get on with this outfit."

He gave a slightly contemptuous nod toward the smokerie where peals of laughter were heard in response to some sally of Cyril Underhill.

But Ardeth shook her head. Panic looked out of the golden eyes. To laugh and talk with 12 strangers — hiding her heart from their kind, curious eyes on this Christmas which she had once planned to spend with Ken! Oh, no! Not yet! The wound was still too raw . . .

A shadow crept in Tom's kind brown gaze and his mouth set stubbornly. "Remember what I said on the snow party, Ardeth. Things don't always turn out as one figures them. I haven't given up hope, dear."

And suddenly it was Christmas. She was lying in bed, looking at the overcast morning light slanting in the window. Hearing the church bells ringing over the city. Feeling her heart ache with loneliness.

Ardeth had expected no gifts. Amazingly they came, to move her to tears. A robe from Jeanette—a lovely silken thing, the russet and copper tones lighting her tawny hair and golden eyes to something of their old flame.

A volume of poems in a hand-tooled leather binding. A gift from Mary Eastwood. Several of the verses were marked and on a card Mary had written. "I too went through a dark hour, Ardeth, and I found these brought a little comfort."

Ardeth held the card against her cheek for a moment as though it were the kind white hand of the giver.

Gift From Ken
Sends Flowers Without A Card

From Tom came a long string of amber. And written in Tom's cramped square writing. "These made me think of your eyes.'

Tremulous thankfulness welled up in the girl's heart breaking the ice of loneliness. Ah, life was not all bitter! Friends . . . people who loved her for herself . . .

And in the middle of the afternoon, a florist boy with a long box.

White roses, unreal in their waxen perfection. White roses, on a bed of cool green maidenhair. A fragrance as faint as happiness remembered from dreams. White roses . . . as though for a dead girl. . .

No card in the box. But she needed no card to know they came from Ken.

Scalding tears dropping on the waxen petals as she lifted them from the box. Oh, this tug on her heart! Ken, longing for her . . . thinking of her even as she thought of him, this bitter Christmas. Easier to bear if he had forgotten her . . .

Ken Visits
Ardeth Surprised When She Sees Him

Winter passing—merging into spring. Daylight lingering in the eastern sky when she left the shop now. Up at the corner where Ken used to wait for her daffodils and iris replaced violets on the flower stand.

Gayer than the flowers, the spring costumes of the patrons who crowded the Smokerie.

Cecile had wearied of the whim of mourning. She blossomed into an extreme and expensive suit of orchid tweed. A smart French helmet of orchid felt was pulled down over the taffy waves of her hair and a choker of amethysts clasped her long white throat. Nor did the symphony end here. Cecile's upper eyelids were orchid shadowed and her long oval nails were tinted mauve.

"The woman positively makes me ill!" said Mary Eastwood vigorously to Ardeth. "She reminds me of food slightly turned."

A crowd in the Smokerie today. Seven times had Ah Ling brewed tea and emptied ash trays. Cyril Underhill was in his element, murmuring his scandalous footnotes to the tinkle of appreciative feminine laughter.

Echos of the talk drifted out to the girl who tended the outer shop and Ardeth's lip curled. They were reading extracts from The Spy. Hot blood mounted to the girl's face. She hated that insidous magazine. Hated the idle, scandalous women. Thank heaven they were soon gone.

Sound of the outer door opening. She looked up—caught her breath.

Ken, coming in.

PITTSBURGH BOYS CHEERING TOM MIX, ARRIVING IN THE CITY WITH THE FIRST CIRCUS

CABBIES FIRM IN M'KEESPORT

McKeesport today continued to be without taxicab service as the 50 drivers employed by the Yellow and Green Company and the Brown and White Company remained firm in their determination not to return to work until their demands were met.

No report of violence was received, according to McKeesport police. The men went out on strike for 37½ per cent of receipts, instead of 30 per cent they have received. The drivers spurned a compromise offer of 33½ per cent made by Nathan Greenfield, owner of the Brown and White company.

7 Fire Companies At Downtown Blaze

Firemen from seven downtown companies early today fought two hours against flames which originated in the basement of La Fiesta Sandwich Shop, 417 Wood street, spread to the first floor and a balcony, and for a time threatened the entire four-story building. Battalion Chief George Spaar estimated damage at $2,000. The place is owned by F. W. Albright.

Stray Mule Held As Vagrant By Police

It might have been a co-incidence that a mule, name and address unknown, sauntered up to Patrolman Edwin Hall at Hill avenue and Wood street, Wilkinsburg, at 2 a. m., today, just at a time when the policeman was trying to dope out tomorrow's election. Hall rubbed his eyes, took a good look and held out his hand. The mule understood and came nearer.

At the police station the straggler was booked as a vagrant and locked up in the borough stable. Today he was eating hay that belongs to the borough work horses, while police were trying to locate his owner.

Officers Elected By Children's Aid

Directors of the Children's Aid Society of Allegheny County has elected the following officers for the coming year: Mrs. Samuel W. Munnis, president; Mrs. C. B. Ellis, Mrs. W. L. Elkins, Mrs. Augusta Wallace, vice presidents; Mrs. Samuel B. Kelly, secretary; Mrs. William I. King, treasurer. A member of the Welfare Fund, the society is carrying on an extensive child welfare campaign in Allegheny County, according to Mrs. Frank H. Ramsay, executive secretary.

President Is Host To Bellevue Class

The Delta Alpha class of the Bellevue Christian church will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. J. V. Schrock, 832 California avenue, Avalon, president.

RAIN DAMPENS CIRCUS ARDOR

Circus barkers were "singing in the rain" this afternoon to fill the big top of the Sells Floto Circus, at Fifth and Penn avenues, Point Breeze, with Tom Mix and his pony, Tony, as extra added attractions.

Despite unfavorable weather, attendance of close to 5,000—mostly children—was estimated at show time. Another performance is set for 8 o'clock tonight.

The army of young circus greeters that watched the show arrive yesterday made a big fuss over Mix and Tony before turning attention to the animals.

The excited youngsters were awed as cages containing lions, tigers, bears, baboons, gnus, tapirs, seals, and monkeys were unloaded. Greater amazement took hold of them when a huge cage from which came sounds of slpashing and grunting, was wheeled away. It was the colossal hippopotamus, Bonne, who growled so impatiently for its morning repast of several hundred pounds of mash and hay.

A hundred performers also arrived with the circus.

Episcopal League Marks 40th Year

The fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Laymen's Missionary League of the Episcopal diocese of Pittsburgh was celebrated in St. Peter's Church, Forbes street and Craft avenue, yesterday morning. Bishop Alexander Mann, of the diocese, conducted the corporate communion service, which opened the celebration. Following breakfast in the Cathedral Mansions, members attended services in the Church of the Ascension, at which the Rev. Wyatt Brown, of St. Paul's Cathedral, Buffalo, preached the anniversary sermon.

Minister Recalls Evils Of Rum in Old Days

News items and editorials from local papers published before prohibition were quoted by the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church in his sermon last night to show that conditions which are blamed on prohibition, prevailed more extensively in those old days.

Dr. Duncan quoted a news item of January, 1890, regarding the order of the public safety director that all employes who leave their business to get a drink be dismissed. This is in contrast with the stories that drinking today in business houses is more frequent than before prohibition, he said.

Dr. Duncan also said in part:

"The jail population is blamed on prohibition. The Pittsburgh Leader of January 16, 1901, quotes the jail warden reporting an increase of prisoners and citing the jail physician to the effect that 95 per cent of the prisoners came to grief through the abuse of strong drink."

MOTORCYCLE RIDER DIES IN CRASH

Hit-Run Driver Sought in Death of Mollenauer Man; 8 Unhurt as Bus Upsets

Two dead and eight injured was the toll of automobile accidents in Pittsburgh district over the week-end.

Michael Rubano, 25, of 87 Wyoming street, was killed late yesterday when a motorcycle which he was riding collided with an automobile at Boggs avenue and Greenbush street. Edward Huet, of 185 Bracken avenue, Brentwood, driver of the automobile, was turned over to the coroner's office by police, it was reported. Rubano was employed in the circulation department of the Sun-Telegraph.

A hit-and-run motorist was being sought today in connection with the death of John Luchansky, 55, of Mollenauer, run down early yesterday and left in the Library road, near his home. A motorist took him to South Side Hospital where he died a few hours later.

BUS OVERTURNS

Three youths were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital after their automobile, parked at Frankstown and Dallas avenues, was struck by another machine which failed to stop. They were George Kirk, 17, and his brother, Ralph, 29, of 7046 Monticello street, and Cornelius Cicrini, 17, of 1019 Frankstown avenue.

When a city-bound Greyhound bus ran into a ditch on Sawmill Run boulevard at Edgebrook street and turned over, seven passengers and the driver, Howard B. Young, of 631 Claus avenue, Carrick, escaped injury late yesterday.

The driver swerved the bus to avoid a head-on crash with another machine, police said.

2 HURT IN CRASH

Collision of automobiles driven by Harry Ruben, of Webster Hall, and Francis T. Mason, of 115 Ashton avenue, in the Boulevard of the Allies at Brady street, resulted in injury to a passenger in each. Sylvia Stone, 30, of the Morrowfield Apartments Hotel, riding with Ruben, and Ray L. Ryan, 27, of 4831 Second avenue, occupant of the other car, suffered bruises. Both were treated at Mercy Hospital.

Robert McKelvy, 6, of Beaver road, Glenfield, was in the Valley Hospital at Sewickley with a probable fracture of the skull sustained when he was struck by an automobile near his home.

Mrs. Anna Liberto, 25, of 54 Clifton Park, North Side, was injured when an automobile in which she, her husband, and their 3-month-old daughter, June, were riding, overturned after colliding with a car driven by Francis Vogel, 18, of 4045 Penn avenue, at Ferry street and the Boulevard of the Allies early today. Mrs. Liberto was taken to Mercy Hospital. The child, husband, and John Barelli, 34, of 4490 Sylvan avenue, escaped injury.

Robert Cook, 13, a newsboy, of 6332 Dean street, suffered broken legs and a fractured skull when he was struck by an automobile at Lang and Frankstown avenues at midnight. He was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital. Police arrested George Strakes, of Universal, Pa., alleged driver, on a charge of reckless driving.

DRY AGENTS ATTACKED DURING RAIDS ON TWO PLACES

FIGHTS RESULT FROM SEIZURE OF LIQUOR

Twelve Held for Hearings As Rum Patrol Visits Various Parts of County

Week-end raids by prohibition agents resulted in the holding at Central Police Station of 12 men for hearings today before the United States Commissioner.

The agents met resistance in two of the raids they said. At 134 South Bouquet street where a small quantity of moonshine was reported seized, Sara D. Terenzio attacked one of them, at the door they said. Terenzio slightly injured following a scuffle was released on his own recognizance when his brother, James Terenzio, arrested in the raid, promised his injured brother would appear for a hearing.

Martin Walch was subdued by the federal officers when he attacked them, while they were raiding a place at 214 Braddock avenue, Braddock, according to their report. Moonshine seized in the raid resulted in the arrest of Mike Durkin, it was said.

Walch was taken to the Marine Hospital and then placed in the police station. Nine other men were arrested in raids in various sections of the city and county.

BEGIN SHRINE TO ST. ANN

Ground was broken yesterday by St. Ann's Church Castle Shannon, for the first St. Ann shrine in the United States. Father A. C. Angel officiated at the exercises. The nearest shrine of St. Ann is at Montreal, Canada.

The structure will be of sandstone and will be 26 feet wide at the base and 20 feet high. A 5-foot statue of St. Ann will be placed in a niche in the shaft and an altar table is planned on which outdoor services may be held.

The shrine will be erected by contributions of members of the parish, the only expense to the church being for labor. Later the congregation will build a new church.

FREE OFFICER, JAIL ACCUSERS

"Benefit of the doubt" today freed a policeman accused of turning bandit and jailed his accusers.

Arraigned before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court, Patrolman George Champeno, of 419 Climax street, asserted he was victim of a frameup.

Champeno was accused by William Johnston, of 410 Dixon street, Homestead, and Robert Brown, of 1213 Wylie avenue, Negroes, of holding them up at gunpoint Saturday night in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yards and snatching a pocketbook from Johnston's pocket.

Inspector Albert Beebe made an appeal for Champeno's release as a frameup victim, and when Magistrate Rothenberg acquiesced and said he would give Champeno the "benefit of the doubt," Beebe ordered arrest of the Negroes on charges of vagrancy. They were held for hearing tomorrow.

BASSOON HELD LEGAL AID TO CUPID

Court Ignores Mother's Plea Against Romantic Choice Made by Son

A youth who goes a-wooing with a bassoon today won from Morals Court an edict making official the old adage about love finding a way.

Ignoring the plea of a mother who objected to her son's romantic choice, Magistrate Thomas Jones remarked:

"Smarter and wiser men than I have attempted to solve this problem and failed. When a man loves a maid and a maid loves a man, despite every objection placed in their way, there is nothing I know of that can break up the affair."

Harold (Sonny) Sperling, 20, of 5840 Hobart street, Squirrel Hill, the bassoon serenader, admitted he had turned against his mother, Mrs. Ben Sperling, and her sister, Mrs. Jessie Lipitz, same address, in defense of Miss Eleanor Balthgate, 19, of 1134 Vermont avenue, North Side, whom they invaded her home yesterday and sought to break up a musical date.

Sperling is a former Pitt student who intends to enter Tech. Miss Balthgate is a post-graduate student at Oliver High School.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Does the average man, seeking a wife usually consider one with beauty her greatest asset rather than practicability as a good home maker?

THE REV. D. E. CRUEA, secretary Anti-Saloon League, downtown: No, I don't think that the average man does. He usually wants a wife who is practical, economical and who is a good home maker. The wise man, I'm told, is the one who combines both beauty and practicability in the mate he seeks.

Rev. D. E. Crueа

E. W. HENRY, secretary Civic Association, North Side: In the majority of cases a man makes beauty the paramount feature. But others do not, seeking a wife who, although not a Follies' beauty, has those ideals of home making that are so desirable.

E. W. Henry

JOSEPH G. ARMSTRONG, JR., downtown: Beauty is an important factor in the selection of a wife for most people, because the average man doesn't want to marry someone who isn't nice to look at. On the other hand, the man who makes the best selection is the one who combines both the attributes of beauty and home making ability in his selection.

Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr.

CLEO SMITH, secretary, Brentwood: From observations I think that the average man is more interested in a wife who can be and is a wonderful homie maker rather than a ravishing beauty. That is the way it it should be, too! At least, I think so.

Miss Smith

MILDRED EAKIN, campaign worker, Coraopolis. The ancient proverb has it that beauty is only skin deep. But it turns a lot of male heads. On the other hand, a practical wife, who isn't beautiful but attractive still has these attributes when merely beauty has faded. Then isn't it only natural that a level-headed man will select such a person as his life mate?

Miss Eakin

ALBERTA ROWLAND, McKeesport: Mr. Man, unless he is out of the ordinary, usually picks a beauty, without regard for how practical she might be. That's why there are so many divorces. Now too many men are looking for Madam Butterflies rather than cooks.

Mrs. Rowland

Squirrel Hill Board Will Meet Tonight

"The Garnishee Law" will be discussed by J. S. Neely, secretary of the Commonwealth Protective Association of Pennsylvania, at an open meeting of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade in Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Murray avenue, tonight. TRIES TO BREAK AWAY ON TRIP TO JAIL

Prisoner Turned Over To Coroner for Inquest; Mental Condition Probed

On a charge of murdering her 14 year-old daughter, Mrs. Anna Padubanis, 37, of Cuddy, was being held in the county jail today to await the coroner's inquest.

County detectives turned her over to the coroner. Several times on the trip to the jail she tried to break away, the detectives reported.

Detective Robert McMillan discovered that Mrs. Padubanis had once been treated for a mental condition in the Woodville Hospital.

The daughter Lillian lay sick in bed in the home when the mother is supposed to have fired the fatal shot. Lillian died five days later —yesterday—in St. Francis Hospital, a bullet wound in the temple. The father believes Lillian, melancholy from sickness, may have shot herself.

YOUNG ARTISTS SHOW MERIT

By PENELOPE REDD

The annual spring exhibition from the art school at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement has a feature of surprising winsomeness in a group of mural decorations representing activities in the settlement.

Penelope Redd

The children are as young as nine years in the person of one Nathan Roth, who does a street scene in which he effects a composition so well balanced that a professional painter might well claim it.

Another one such as a Waldo Pierce or Matisse might have invented is in the fresh observation of adults and children playing musical instruments by Ralph Zabarenko, 13.

Leonard Lies, now 17, has two compositions, "The Art School" and "The Prize Fight," which demonstrate the basic soundness of the method of teaching these youngsters.

In the "Art School" one he has used a green background, a blue-green foreground, and then has varied the color of the figures busy painting and achieved tillative accents. His prize fight decoration, with its sharply defined diamond-shaped ring from which an all-over pattern is developed by the heads and torsos of the spectators is strengthened by intelligently chosen color.

One girl stands out as a gifted child, Beatrice Lefkovitz, 11. Her "Spring Time" is a child-like impression of our natural reaction to the season.

This work from the Irene Kaufmann Art School compares well with the renowned work of Prof. Cizek from Vienna. Everything in the exhibition shows a genuine interest in painting as an expression of the usual activities of life.

A group of sculptures done under the direction of Frank Vittor are in the same genre—boys playing baseball, marbles and other games.

FIND DEAD BABY IN MAIL BOX

The coroner's office today reported that there were no marks of foul play on the body of an infant girl which was found in a mail box in front of the Oakland postoffice, in Meyran avenue, yesterday.

The body, wrapped in a bath towel and newspapers, was brought to the downtown office by Edward Wood, driver of the mail truck. Suspicions of employes were aroused when they found the package was without an address or stamps. Summoning a policeman, the package was opened and the body discovered. The child had been dead several days, morgue attaches said.

Victim of Brawl Taken to Hospital

Samuel Rfuko, 50, of 50 Acorn street, was in Homeopathic Hospital today with a probable fracture of the skull suffered when he was struck on the head with a stool during a brawl last night, police reported. John Mata, 55, of 52 Acorn street, his alleged assailant, and Mike Zugan, 55 of 50 Acorn street, were arrested shortly after the attack, which occurred on the porch of Mata's home, police said.

HOLDS RELIGION WORLD HOPE

The hope of the world today must be found in religion, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Fendrich, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., said in a sermon in the Third Presbyterian Church, Fifth and South Negley avenues, last night. He spoke on "The Reality of God."

The Rev. Mr. Fendrich, although only 31, is pastor of the second largest Presbyterian church in the United States. While in Pittsburgh he is the guest of Dr. Percival W. Barker, pastor of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church.

LITTLE EVENING WRAPS OF LARGE IMPORTANCE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 19.—The story of the new evening wraps can be told in three words — short, shorter, shortest. And the nicest of all are the shortest ones, those little bits of wraps that somehow contrive to enmesh so much charm and chic within their very attenuated folds. There is an irrepressible jauntiness about these coats that is so in keeping with the delights of the dinner, theater, supper and dance program that are such pleasant diversions on lovely Spring nights, and so it is no wonder that they have met with such warm success. Color contrast as well as harmony is quite in order this year, with the little wrap of contrasting color to the gown being in the vanguard of popular favor.

Clever drapes, large important bows, cowl backs and wide sleeves are some of the features that help to make the little wrap go big, with both the older and the younger generation. In order to keep the ensemble idea going, shoes often are chosen to harmonize with the wrap, or the color of the wrap is repeated in a touch of trimming strategically placed on the accompanying frock.

THE PERT little evening wrap depicted is from Augustabernard, who has fashioned it of heavy crepe marocain in a delightfully fresh shade of apple green. It is most skillfully draped in cowl effect at the back, and along the sleeve the fullness is gathered into draped folds. The topmost fold of drapery at the back of the neck forms a sort of loose yoke ending in front in a large loop and scarf-end. The coat dips up in a curved line at the front. The model is shown over a black crepe frock with slippers that match the wrap both in color and fabric.

THE SECOND sketch is of a lovely frock worn recently at Ciro's. It is made of soft taffeta in Wedgewood blue and bordered with matching fishnet tulle. The back of the deeply cut bodice is interestingly draped with folds of the fabric drawn up from the front and finished with two little tabs. The double flounces are circular in cut and have irregular hem-lines.

The most critical eyes admire her Lovely Skin

Corinne Griffith, like 9 out of 10 other stars, uses Lux Toilet Soap

"A SCREEN STAR must pass the most merciless test. But the owner of a skin which can pass the close-up test has the support of an immense adoring public."

So says William A. Seiter, prominent First National director, summing up what 45 leading Hollywood directors have found out from their experience with motion pictures.

"The great close-up lights find out even the slightest flaw in the skin," he goes on to say. "No beauty is more important to a girl than alluring smooth skin."

It is because alluringly smooth skin is so vital for success on the screen that of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are simply devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars are equally enthusiastic about this soap, so daintily fragrant and white. And now, too, the screen stars of the European capitals have adopted Lux Toilet Soap! To keep their skin as faultlessly smooth as the American stars keep theirs.

You will love the way it keeps your skin silken-smooth! And such generous lather as it gives, even in very hard water. Order several cakes of Lux Toilet Soap—today.

THEFT OF DIME BRINGS SHOTS

Accused of stealing a dime from a newsboy and fleeing from a McKeesport policeman after having been placed under arrest, Melvin Bolt, 25, of Steubenville, O., was to be given a hearing this morning before Magistrate R. C. Calhoun at McKeesport. Bolt suffered a slight flesh wound of the back when Patrolman Robert Coughlin fired five shots at him during his attempted escape yesterday, police said. He was taken to McKeesport Hospital and later placed in McKeesport lockup.

Bolt was said by witnesses to have taken the dime from John Rincin, 11, of Eighth avenue, McKeesport, who conducts a stand near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station. Hunger was the reason he took the money, Bolt told police.

HUNT YOUTH IN FATAL CRASH

AMBRIDGE, Pa., May 19.—Ambridge police today were searching for a youth believed injured in an automobile crash in which Michael Markle, 32, of 192 First street, was killed and Dusan Crhoonkoch was injured. The crash occurred in the Lincoln highway, two miles east of Aliquippa, yesterday.

The car, which was driven by Markle, police said, crashed into an electric light pole, breaking it and causing it to topple on the auto. Crhoonkoch and the body of Markle were brought to the Ambridge police station by Romey Chiacco of 130 Station street, Aliquippa, a taxicab owner.

RIVER-RAIL PLAN NEARLY READY

Plans for the building of the river-rail terminal on a 15-acre site on the Monongahela River shore at Hays are nearly ready for presentation to City Council, according to those closely identified with the improvement.

Federal permits for the Hays landing, as well as that along the Ohio River at Manchester, have been granted.

The Hays and Manchester terminals are expected to supplement each other, it was said. The Hays site is of importance to numerous industries, while the Manchester terminal is expected to be of benefit of wholesalers, it was pointed out.

How Kotex protects your nerves and health

Kotex absorbent is used in 85% of leading hospitals . . . conclusive proof of its hygienic safety!

WHY take chances with your nervous and physical health at a time when vitality is low when you can have the very same hygienic protection that the greatest hospitals give their patients?

Kotex is made of the very same material that is used today by 85% of the leading hospitals in America! This is Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding . . . a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function with 5 times the absorbency of the finest cotton.

Stays soft for hours

Doctors consider this high absorbency very important. It carries moisture away from the surface, leaving the surface soft and delicate. The pad remains soft and comfortable for hours.

Because Kotex absorbs so thoroughly, bulk and weight are not needed. You've no unpleasant consciousness of sanitary protection . . . no nervousness . . . no worries. And doctors will tell you it's most important to relieve yourself of all nervous strain at this time.

There are other reasons why Kotex appeals to fastidious women. But surely health alone is sufficient reason! When you use Kotex, you know that the greatest hospitals can offer nothing finer to their patients. Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT. . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Disposable, instantly, completely.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—Deodorizes . . . safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

Silk "Ensemble" Coats

Unlined for Summer Wear

$16.50

It's a gay season of matching or contrasting dress to coat, and it is very necessary for them to form a perfect ensemble.

The most certain way to chic is to select an unlined coat of black or navy silk crepe, because dresses of any color will ensemble smartly with it.

The very softness of the silk crepe makes it possible to achieve lovely effects with capes, jabot collars and higher belted waistlines. The straight-line coats hang in soft, flattering folds. Misses' and women's sizes up to 44.

The crepe coat sketched shows a shoulder treatment that can be a jabot collar or a split cape, according to your whim. The illustration shows this clever model used both ways.

White Basketweave Coats for Sports Ensembles

Own one white coat and you can change your ensemble as often as you change into a different sports dress. Such darlings, too, especially when worn with pastel frocks.

ALL NATIONAL GAMES OFF

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Buccaneers On Mend. Win Three in Four. Bool Changes Luck.

Sande Great as Ever. Hub Clubs Surprising. Fitz Ranked Highest.

BRAME PROVES SPRING LIFE-SAVER

THINGS ARE BEGINNING to look up a bit for the Pirates. Of course, there can be no lasting display of top form until the missing regulars appear in the lineup and a few hurlers besides Ervin Brame and Steve Swetonic kick in with some real pitching. Yet the club seems to be rallying from the all-around slump that gripped it for a couple of weeks, and there is a pleasing change for the better in the trend of Buccaneer affairs. After losing seven out of eight games in a row, the Rovers took a brace and won three out of four up to today. Yesterday's game marked the first time in a run of 17 contests, or since April 26 and 27, that they won two games in succession. And they're only a single game below first place. Clearly, matters could be a whole lot worse.

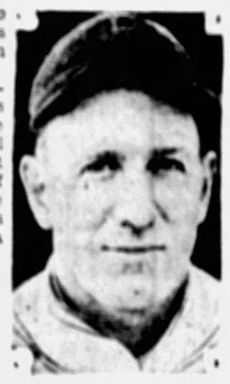
Ervin Brame

A feature of the improved results is that in all three of the victories scored in the last four engagements, the Ehamen came from behind to win, indicating that in addition to better playing in a general sense there has been no lack of fighting spirit on the club.

THAT IS ONE QUALITY that promises much when conditions become more favorable. The Bucs may skid but they never quit. During all their slumping they never were pushed below the .500 mark, and the fact that they are only one box score from the top of the heap right now proves that for the whole time since the season opened they have come very nearly as well as any other team in the race in spite of all their handicaps.

Too bad Manager Ens doesn't possess one or two more starting pitchers of the caliber of Brame. The big Kentuckian has been a life-saver to the Pirates this spring. He has won five games in a row after losing a well-pitched number in the first series of the season, has finished five of the six games he started, and has turned in more than half of the complete games pitched by Pittsburgh flingers, who have gone the route only eight times in 26 games played up to date.

AND BRAME'S BAT is almost as big an asset as his pitching arm, as was demonstrated again yesterday, when he made a homer, a double and a single and scored both of the Bucs' runs. On Saturday he contributed a pinch-hit that helped to pull another game out of the fire. He is proving one of the most valuable players in the big show this year.



Al Bool

Another player who cannot be overlooked as a factor in the Pirate brace is Catcher Al Bool. It may or may not be significant, but Bool was the catcher in all three of the games that the Bucs won out of the last four played—his first chances of the season—and was not in the one game that was lost. He is handling the pitchers intelligently and smoothly and carries a punch, besides.

ONLY A FEW weeks ago they were shaking their heads dubiously in discussing the come-back chances of poor old Earl Sande. Today, the man who was considered about done as a front-rank jockey is back to the extent that he is even more famous than ever. It may be argued that, unlike performers in other sports, a jockey attempting a come-back is not thrown wholely upon his own resources. A rider of Sande's standing always gets a good horse, and it may be said that a superior horse can pull the jockey through and make him look good.

BUT THOUGH A good jockey cannot win with a poor horse, a poor jockey can cause a good horse to lose, and while Gallant Fox did not have the classiest field in history to beat in the Kentucky Derby last Saturday it cannot be denied that Sande's superb riding had much to do with his victory.

The recrowned saddle king never rode a better race. It was a combination victory for a great horse and a great jockey, and there are many who doubt that Gallant Fox would have done as well if ridden by somebody else. Gallant Fox has equaled Sir Barton's record of winning both the Preakness and the Derby and Sande has equaled Isaac Murphy's mark by winning the Derby three times. They have one more lap to go, as Sir Barton also won the Belmont stakes in addition to the Preakness and the Derby in 1919, but in their form of Saturday the great pair may tie that mark, too, when the third big event is run next month.

SANDE, NOW 32, has had a remarkable career. He began riding near his home town of American Falls, Ida., when only 10, at 15 was getting mounts on the half-mile tracks, became an exercise boy in New Orleans in the fall of 1917 and a year later was a full-fledged jockey on the road to fame.

Bill McKechnie

From 1918 until he dropped out temporarily last year, he had 3,532 mounts, finishing first 942 times, second 691 times, third 531 times, and being unplaced 1,368 times. He has won more than 26 per cent of his races and finished in the money an average of three times out of five. A broken leg and a narrow escape from death in a race at Saratoga in 1924 failed to stop him. The death of his wife in 1927 affected him deeply but did not break down his will to go on. He fought and conquered increasing weight, and he is at the top again, greater than ever, truly the turf wonder of his time and easily the greatest jockey since Tod Sloan.

ASIDE FROM THE Dodgers and Senators, now leading the two big leagues after the early dope said they would never get out of the second division, the two Boston clubs have been the big surprises of the baseball season. Not only has Heinie Wagner driven the Red Sox at a clip to astonish the natives, but Bill McKechnie has the Braves going again at a dizzy gait. The Wilkinsburg citizen pulled one of startling numbers of the spring by taking the Giants for three in a row on their own grounds and losing the fourth game yesterday only after an extra-inning fight. He even got a winning performance out of old Tom Zachary, passed up by all of the American League clubs, in his first start. Incidentally, the Giants dropped five straight before they copped the second game yesterday. And a week ago they were burning up the league. The Pirates are not alone in their spring inconsistency.

THE BUCS CRACKED the winning streak of one of the most impressive new pitchers of the year when the defeated Benny Frey in Cincinnati yesterday. The Red flinger had not lost a game previously, and had placed four straight victories to his credit by downing the Cubs twice and the Braves and Phils once each.

And even yesterday, though he had to bow to Brame's pitching and batting, Frey hurled another creditable number in holding the Bucs to two runs. In the five full games he has pitched, Benny has allowed a total of only seven runs and 29 hits, which is just about the best record of the year for sustained effectiveness.

JIMMY COFFROTH says that promoters of big boxing shows do not make the fortunes they are popularly supposed to make; that their main chance for a neat profit is eliminated by the ban on the interstate shipment of fight films. He cited the case of Tex Rickard Battalino, the world featherweight champion, boxes Vic Burrone, of New York, in the 10-round main bout of the delayed opening show of the Meyers Bowl outdoor boxing arena in North Braddock tonight. Eberle returns in the role of announcer at the show.

Vic Burrone, of New York, who has been here since last Thursday morning, will be the principals in the 10-round main bout. The Battler's title will not be at stake.

In the eight-round semi-final, Ralph Lenny, of New York, stablemate of Battalino, meets Andy Andrucci, of the East End, over the eight-round route. Two six-round preliminaries complete the card. They find Jimmy Engel, of Youngstown, and Dan Billick, of Duquesne, in the second match and Young Nanci, of Swissvale, and Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the opener, which is slated for 8:45, daylight saving time.

GOLDSTEIN, GIZZY IN BOUTS

Bouts also are scheduled tonight at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, where Phil Goldstein, local lightweight, meets Danny Delmont, hard-hitting Italian, of Chicago, in the 10-round windup, and at Wheeling, W. Va., where Battling Gizzy, of Donora, goes against Babe Ruth, of Louisville, in the 10-round finale and Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, tangles with Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, in the semi-final.

Knute Hansen, Melancholy Dane, of New York, Wisconsin, California, Europe and anywhere else he happens to park his headgear, is due here tomorrow for his 10-round windup with George Panka, of Homestead, which fea-

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF SATURDAY: IBN SAUD, SULTAN OF NEJD, HAS BEEN DIVORCED 76 TIMES—Abdullah Ibn Saud, Sultan of Nejd, is a powerful Arabian ruler and came into prominence recently by his decisive defeat of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Hedjas. The Kingdom of Nejd is ruled by the law of the Mohammedan code. A man may divorce his wife by simple repudiation, and court records indicate that the emir of Nejd has exercised this privilege 76 times to date. According to latest newspaper reports, Ibn Saud had a number of luxurious windowless motorbuses built for him, which he uses for the transportation of the members of his harem in his travels. SHAKESPEARE USED THE EXPRESSION "NOT SO HOT"—"Not so hot" is good Shakespearean phraseology, and occurred in his works three times. 1, Measure for Measure, Act V, Scene 1, Line 315; 2, Winter Tales, Act II, Scene 3, Line 32, and, 3, King Lear, Act V, Scene 3, Line 66.

LEO P. FLYNN SUCCUMBS

NEW YORK, May 19.—(INS.)—Leo P. Flynn, well-known boxing manager and leader of Jack Dempsey's famous come-back effort which ended with his defeat at the hands of Gene Tunney in Chicago, died today. Flynn caught a severe cold on the golf links a week ago. It developed into pneumonia. For the past few days oxygen was used in an attempt to save the fight manager's life.

Flynn had been in the best of health up to his last illness and had been planning fresh campaigns for his string of fighters, among whom the most noted was Dave Shade, one of the leading contenders for the middleweight championship.

He also managed the late Bill Brennan when he fought Dempsey a sensational 12-round fight at the old Garden; Kid Norfolk, the old Negro light heavyweight; Jack Renault, once a leading heavyweight, and was in Dempsey's corner at Chicago during the fight that developed the famous seventh-round controversy concerning Referee Barry's count over the fallen Tunney. He also handled Dempsey against Jack Sharkey.

Flynn's home town was Providence, R. I., from which he migrated to New York some 25 years ago. The funeral will be held at Providence on Thursday.

Pullmans Put Pirates Back in Stride

By THE BENCHWARMER.

CINCINNATI, May 19.—Well, folks, it looks like all we needed was to get in them Pullmans again to hit our stride. I hope the rest of the gang don't get sore when I write that our nine-innin' pitcher worked the best game I have seen this year and I guess I could write a coupla thousand words about that homer Erv soaked over the center field fence but I suppose the papers are full of it and they ought to be.

Erv's a boy that don't bother anybody and he is always the same whether he wins or loses, but he fights as hard to win as anybody I ever saw. That crack about him bein' our nine innin' pitcher was all in fun, but Jewel told the left-handers and some of the right-handers they ought to start loafin' with Erv to see how he does it.

JULE PEEVED

Jule was peeved because some of the boys went too far with their fun on the Pullmans coming over from Pittsburgh. It just happened that the foolin' was done in the car that all of us left-handers was in and of course that was circumstantial evidence against us, but I think they got us wrong. It was all right as long as the cushions was flyin' but I guess somebody went a little too far and Jule got sore and bawled us all out yesterday.

The boys pulled a good one on Frenchy Kremer. While he was sittin' in the smoker, a gang gathered up all the pillows in the upper berths and piled them all up in Frenchy's berth. Then the guilty ones went to bed and put the lights out, but we all waited to see Frenchy when he opened the curtains to go to bed.

In about 10 minutes he came along and when he pulled back the curtain there must have been 50 pillows piled in his bunk. Well,

THREE JOCKEYS DIE IN WRECK

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., May 19.—(INS.)—The charred bodies of three turfmen rested in local undertaking establishments today following an automobile crash near here, in which all were burned to death yesterday.

The dead are Randall Smallwood, 39, Washington, D. C., former jockey and agent for G. R. Bryson stables; James Shelton, 22, Mattoon, Ill., jockey for George Ogie stables, and James Eaton, 24, Louisville, Ky., former jockey and exercise boy for R. O. Pollard stables.

Smallwood was driving the car when it crashed into a concrete culvert. Before the passengers could crawl from the wreckage the gasoline tank exploded and the car burst into flames.

CINCINNATI, May 19.—Rain today kept the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds idle here this afternoon.

With the postponement of the Boston-New York game in New York and the Brooklyn-Philadelphia game in Philadelphia the entire National League schedule was rained out. The St. Louis-Chicago game at St. Louis was played as part of a double-header yesterday.

BRAME HERO OF GAME

The pitching and batting exploits of Ervin Brame today were the one big topic of conversation in the camp of the Pirates, and the enemy camp also bristled with comment on the tall Kentuckian.

A short perusal of the pitching developments of the Buccos and their opponents this season bring out the unusual fact that on only two occasions since the bell rang have the starting pitchers finished the game. And Ervin Brame was the hero of both feats from the Pittsburgh point of view.

On the second day of the season, or April 16, Brame and Pete Donohue clashed in a fine duel, the Rhinelanders winning 3 to 1. On that occasion Pete and Ervin pitched the full distance. But from that date until Brame and Frey mixed yesterday no two starting pitchers were able to stay on the mound for a full contest against each other.

Brame thus began the season with a defeat, but since then he has copped five in a row and right now stands out as one of the season's greatest sharpshooters, as well as being a home-run sensation. In the entire history of Redland Field only five or six balls have celared the center field fence and all of these, with the exception of a smash by Babe Ruth, were wafted over the fence this season. That's another victory for the lively ball.

WINS OWN GAME

The fascinating 2-to-1 victory of the Pirates yesterday was almost directly attributed to Ervin's bat power and his deluxe pitching. The hurler's prodigious homer in the third tied up the game, and his double of the fifth with two out, led to the winning marker. Little Charlie Engle singled cleverly to right to score the big pitcher and Brame then proceeded to dish out

W. G. A. TEAMS CLASH TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Section 2 of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is playing at Westmoreland Country Club and the Caddiemasters' and Assistant Professionals' Association of Western Pennsylvania, is competing at the Longue Vue Club, in the two tournaments on local links today.

The caddie-masters' affair is expected to be of interest to local clubmen, due to the fact that following the tourney, a general meeting with the caddie welfare committee of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association is to be held, at which time interesting data, relative to caddie welfare, will be exchanged by the two organizations.

While the women's team league matches got under way last Friday when Section 1 had a big day at the Pittsburgh Field Club, today's contests at Westmoreland mark the inaugural battles in Section 2, which is captained by Mrs. Hugh C. Anderson, of the Longue Vue Club.

Westmoreland started playing Alcoma at 10:30, the Country Club of Pittsburgh team teed off against St. Clair at 11 o'clock, and Longue Vue began play against South Hills at 11:30.

Despite rainy weather conditions yesterday, more than 20,000 balls were driven from the Mead-O-Link driving range inclosed tees.

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania has changed its match carded for Thursday, June 5, to Wednesday, June 4, at Stanton Heights.

Tomorrow at 2 o'clock, a three-cornered team match between the Rotary Clubs of Wilkinsburg, Verona-Oakmont, and Homestead, will be held at the Alcoma Country Club.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Well, folks, we are leading the league and I don't mean temporary. Did you notice how we just toyed with those Athletics like they were a sprig of catnip? Our Washington club not only slaughtered them in our series but we made Connie Mack an octogenarian. He aged 20 years watching his team play against us. We starting our first Western trip this week with not a thing on the horizon to worry us. We are scheduled for just a workout in Cleveland, a picnic in Chicago, a field day in St. Louis and a barbecue in Detroit. What could be sweeter than that?

BROOKLYN WINS PAIR, TAKES LEAGUE LEAD

GIANTS SPLIT WITH BRAVES; A'S WIN

Associated Press.

Brooklyn's baseball fans are brimming over with hope for their first National League pennant in 10 years. The Robins won the title in 1920 and since then they have spent most of their time in the second division. But they are right up in this year's close race, holding first place today as a result of a double victory in yesterday's double-header against the Phillies.

The leading teams are so closely bunched that Pittsburgh, in fifth place, is only one full game behind the Robins. While Brooklyn was defeating the Phillies yesterday, 3 to 0 and 7 to 5, the New York Giants were dividing one doubleheader with the Boston Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs were splitting another to line up in order behind the Robins.

ZACHARY WINS FIRST

The Braves captured the first game from New York, 4 to 1, as old Tom Zachary, until recently with the New York Yankees, made his debut by making nine Giant hits almost useless, while Boston made the most of five off Walker and Fitzsimmons. The Giants won the second game, 3 to 2, in 11 innings. Travis Jackson had to drop out of the Giant lineup because of mumps, the disease which already has laid Wally Roettger low.

The Cubs drove out 16 hits, including Hack Wilson's tenth and eleventh home runs of the year, to stop the St. Louis winning streak at nine games. The Cubs won the first game, 9 to 6, the Cardinals took the second, 8 to 2.

Ervin Brame gave Pittsburgh a 2 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Besides pitching a fine game, he scored both Pirate runs, one on a homer. Benny Frey, who opposed him, met his first defeat in five games.

ELLIOTT STARS

Jumbo Jim Elliott played the leading role in Brooklyn's first victory, holding the Phillies to five hits, while a five-run attack in the third inning decided the second game.

Three American League games produced no changes in the standing. The St. Louis-Detroit contest was rained out.

The Philadelphia Athletics did the most with the least in the hit line, making three blows off Lloyd Brown good for a 1 to 0 victory. Mose Grove allowed five hits and fanned eight. It was the first Athletic victory over the Senators since April 19, Washington having won six straight.

Cleveland and Chicago engaged in another close battle with Mel Harder of Cleveland opposing Dutch Henry. It was a draw for six innings, but the Indians found Henry for two runs in the seventh and got one more off his successor, Hal McKain, to win, 7 to 4.

BABE HITS SIXTH

The New York Yankees did the heavy hitting for the American League. They pounded three Boston pitchers for 13 hits and an 11-to-0 victory while George Pipgras held the Red Sox to three safe blows.

Babe Ruth started the affair with a home run in the first inning, his sixth of the season and his third on as many Sundays. Lyn Lary also got a homer while Dusty Cooke made an event of his first appearance at the plate by making his first major league hit. Previously he had had 20 fruitless times at bat.

Owner to Ship Derby Victor East

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 19.—(AP.)—Gallant Fox, winner of the Kentucky Derby, will be shipped from Churchill Downs to Aqueduct today, stable connections announced.

According to present plans, the William Woodward colt will run in the Withers at Belmont Park a week from Saturday. Later he is scheduled to run in the Belmont stakes and he may be sent to Washington Park to run in the American Derby. He will not contest the Fairmount Derby, although Gallant Knight and Ned O., which ran second and third in the Kentucky Derby, are to be shipped there.

Sport Vignettes

If race horses could talk, can't you just imagine Gallant Fox asking when the derby starts? . . . Seldom has there been such a standout as the Gallant Fox-Earl Sande combination in this year's Kentucky classic . . . Even the presence of the Earl of Derby could not take the play away from them . . . Is there something in names, after all? . . . Wonder why they tacked the entirely useless "e" on the end of that fellow Sande's monicker? . . . If that young slugger Berger, of the Braves, who hit three homers in a doubleheader against the Giants at the Polo Grounds, doesn't watch out, McGraw will get him yet . . . Have you met Mr. Nathaniel (One Round) Hogan? . . . If not, you ain't seen nothin' yet . . . Nathaniel is a big Negro heavyweight from out in Californy, who has been around here a few weeks looking for action . . . He wants to start in by meeting the winner of the Knute Hansen-George Panka fight and then work his way up . . . Nathaniel, whom Luke Carney insists on calling Nate, has been around and seen things . . . He attended college at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, studying homeopathy and psychology, which he combines with a punch in the ring . . . He gained his One Round cognomen from One Round Hogan, the old Coast lightweight star of the days of Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast, Willie Ritchie and Owen Moran . . . The original One Round Hogan was his sponsor and trainer and took him to Scotland . . . You'll never meet a more agreeable personality than the gracious Nathaniel . . . Million dollar smiles and sunshine are things he radiates nothing else but . . . In a career of 69 bouts he has scored 30 knockouts, according to his record, and he has boxed in California, Oregon, British Columbia, Colorado, London, England, Chicago, Mexico and Calgary . . . While in England he boxed a 12-round draw with Jack Lancussett and won a scheduled 15-round bout with Finy Knockdannie in seven rounds . . . He claims to have knocked out Tony Fuente in 11 seconds in Mexico City . . . Others he has boxed include Sam Baker, Everett Strong, Neil Clisby and George Manley . . . If he can fight as well as his record indicates, along with putting across his happy personality and psychology, he should be quite a card around here . . . The United States team's sweep against Canada in the Davis Cup eliminations doesn't necessarily mean that those kids will be able to do the same thing in the rounds to come . . . The farther they go, the tougher will be the opposition, and, in the opinion of some well versed tennis men, the time will come when there will be a hue and cry to get the hollow shell of a veteran named Bill Tilden in there to stem the tide.—HARRY KECK.

BURRONE FACES CHAMP HERE

tures the opening show of the Hickey Park outdoor arena in Millvale Thursday night. Meanwhile Panka continues his hard training in the gymnasium of the Homewood Progressive Club, with Johnny Ryan (formerly Johnny Urban), brother of Jack Burke, acting as his chief sparring partner. Panka has become a bear for work in his recent training sessions. After boxing a half-dozen rounds yesterday, in addition to his other stunts, he leaned on the ropes and asked, "Is that all?" when his handlers called a halt. Time was when George was satisfied to call it a day after a round or two, but the match with an opponent of Hansen's worth has fired the former bricklayer with an ambition that is a caution.

The Meyers Bowl has matched Gorilla Jones, Negro welterweight, of Akron, O., with Vincent Forgione, of Philadelphia, for its main bout next Monday night.

Sergt. Sammy Baker, who does his best fighting around Pittsburgh, meets Paul Pirrone, Cleveland's welterweight sensation, in the main bout of a show for the benefit of the sandlot baseball teams in Public Hall, Cleveland, tomorrow night. Ted Sandwina and Frankie Simms, heavyweights, box the semi-final 10-rounder.

TIE IN MEET PROTESTED

SALEM, O., May 19.—Salem and East Palestine High schools tied for the Northeastern Ohio Class A district track and field championship Saturday, each scoring 33 points in competition with 17 other teams. Protests against the result were lodged by Salem officials which may result in a change in the status of meet, it being claimed that Palestine did not place in the mile relay. Palestine was awarded a fifth place, despite the fact that it was defeated by Massillon, the latter not being awarded a place in the event.

Six records were broken. Old marks fell in the mile run, high jump, half-mile relay, high hurdles, low hurdles and mile relay. Features of the meet were performances of Appleby, Akron East star, in the high and low hurdles.

Lisbon's High crack aggregation easily carried off honors in the Class B meet with Boardman High, the runner-up. Youngstown Rayen was third in the Class A race with 23½ points.

Keeps Hair Neat

Rich-looking, Orderly

IF your hair lacks natural gloss and lustre, or is difficult to keep in place it is very easy to give it that rich, glossy, refined and . . . orderly appearance . . . so essential to well-groomed men.

Just rub a little Glostora through your hair . . . once or twice a week . . . or after shampooing, and your hair will then stay, each day . . . just as you comb it.

Glostora softens the hair and makes it pliable. Then—even stubborn hair—will stay in place of its own accord.

It gives your hair that natural, rich, well-groomed effect, instead of leaving it stiff and artificial looking as pastes do.

Glostora also keeps the scalp soft, and the hair healthy by restoring the natural oils from which the hair derives its health, life, gloss and lustre.

Try it!—See how easy it is to keep your hair combed—any style you like—whether brushed lightly or combed down flat. If you want your hair to lie down particularly smooth and tight, after applying Glostora, simply moisten your hair with water before brushing it.

A large bottle of Glostora costs but a trifle at any drug store.

CHAMP SCHOOL SPRINTERS TO RUN HERE

By JESS CARVER.

A scholastic "century of the century," as far as this particular parcel of the country is concerned, will feature the twenty-third annual Pitt interscholastic championships in the Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon. The cream of the tri-state's sprinters are entered in the Pitt dash, and as matters have worked out, the winner may claim, and justly so, the 1930 dash championship.

Bohlender, Grove City, Pryor, Ford City; Milligan, Schnellbach, and Binstock, Peabody; Greenberg, New Castle; Dooms, Uniontown; McBurney, Washington; Cotter, Monaca; Marks, Homestead, and Jacobs, of Schenley, all capable of bettering 10.4 will clash Saturday.

FOUR FAVORED

Th. leading four, however, Bohlender, Pryor, Milligan and Dooms are the babies who will bear watching. Milligan and Pryor ran practically a dead heat in the W. P. I. A. L. meet in the hundred at the Tech interscholastics and Pryor led Milligan to the tape at the Geneva school meet.

Bohlender (if he so wished) figures to be the best of the fine array, and is credited with the best time of the year, 9.9, done at the Mercer County championship meet.

The race, almost a week away, has attracted so much attention that a pool has been formed by some of the boys, and on the draw, those in the know all HOPED to get Bohlender.

Most any 100-yard dash is worth while watching, but this one, with the situation as it exists, will furnish all the thrills of other famous "Centuries of Centuries," and provide a very fitting climax to a fine scholastic track and field campaign.

W. P. I. A. L. victors turned in superior performances in eight out of 14 events with one all even. They tied in the high hurdles, both clocking winners at 0:16 4-5.

Stadium meet (W. P. I. A. L. marks were best in the 100, 220, low hurdles, 440 and mile relay on the track and in the pole vault, discus and javelin in the field.

West Virginia had an edge in the 880 and mile and in the high jump, shot put and broad jump.

The annual Big Four meet, in which West Virginia retained its team championship, led to hanging up the best college marks of the day. There were five meets in the section, including the Duke-Bethany, Grove City-Allegheny, Geneva-Westminster and Wesleyan-Glenville affairs.

The Big Four led in 10 events, showing best in the 100, 440, mile, high hurdles, hammer, discus, shot, high jump, broad jump and the pole vault.

The 220, 880 and javelin records made at the Geneva-Westminster meet were the best of the day and the two-mile run by Worrall, of Allegheny, against Grove City, won for that meet its lone laurel. The Duke-Bethany and Wesleyan-Glenville marks were just marks, nothing more.

In 14 years of boxing promotion Coffroth says he found it is not an easy road to wealth and that he could not be induced to return to it. Touching again on the picture angle, he recalls that Battling Nelson took $5,000 for the movie rights on his fight with Jimmy Britt in San Francisco, but that Britt insisted on a percentage of the profits and drew $100,000 as his share.

Jimmy Coffroth

BOB FITZSIMMONS was the greatest fighter who ever entered a ring in the opinion of Coffroth, who characterized him as the "Napoleon or Lord Nelson of prize fighting." "If Fits were to fight Jack Dempsey today, both being at their best, I would bet on Fits," he said. "Bob combined all the requisites of a great fighter and I have never known any ring workman who quite compared with him. Jack Johnson, to my mind, was too much on the defensive order. Among the middleweights, Stanley Ketchel could hit harder than any other man I ever saw in that class. He did not have much of a defense, but his own hitting ability more than made up for it. That was a defense in itself, for after absorbing a few of Ketchel's wallops an opponent was in no shape to do much damage."

goose eggs to the foemen. The Kentuckian worked seven runless rounds after Heilmann's three-bagger and Stripp's sacrifice fly in the second had completed a tally.

The game was the best in which the Pirates have taken a part this season. It was filled with fine fielding plays on both sides, each of the three Pirate outfielders making an assist.

Fred Brickell and Al Bool put over a third degree thriller in the eighth as they cut down the tying run at the plate. Horace Ford doubled with one out and Bob Meusel splashed a long single to left. Brickell made a perfect throw to the plate as Ford crashed into the big form of Bool. The shortstop was out on a close play and there was much cheering in the Pittsburgh dugout.

Immediately after today's contest had been called off, Manager Ens ordered three of his pitchers and Coach Oscar Stanage to Pittsburgh to make ready for the Chicago series which begins on Wednesday. Remy Kremer, Leon Chagnon and Ralph Erickson departed at 1:30.

The day of rest was welcomed by Adam Comorosky, who is out of whack as a result of Jake May's fast pitch of Saturday, which collided with Commy's back.

Stogies Sign Swat Star From Three-Eye

WHEELING, W. Va., May 19.—Manager Bob Prysock, of the Wheeling Stogies, has released Clifford Johnston, right-hand pitcher, who has appeared in some five games, and officially was credited with losing two, while never turning in a victory. He was given his release yesterday. His home is in Cleveland.

In an effort to increase hitting power on the club, Prysock has obtained Ervin Fox, outfielder, from the Evansville club of the Three-Eye League. Fox comes with a great reputation as a hitter, and will likely be shifted to centerfield in today's game with Scottdale.

Chocolate on Mend After Auto Wreck

BYACK, N. Y., May 19.—(AP.)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, was recovering in Nyack Hospital today from severe cuts and bruises suffered in an automobile accident near here yesterday.

Physicians said Chocolate would remain at the hospital for several days and probably would not be able to fight again for a month. He probably will be forced to ask for a postponement of his match, May 28, against Fidel La Barba in Madison Square Garden, New York.

TWO PRINCES, TWO DUKES WATCH JONES

SUNNINGDALE, England, May 19.—(AP.)—The Hon. W. G. Brownlow, son of Lord Lurgan, today scored 69, a record for the reconstructed Sunningdale course, in the first half of a 36-hole medal competition for a vase offered by a London golf magazine, several Walker Cup players including Bobby Jones, engaged in the competition.

Jones was accompanied on his morning round by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George, but not even the presence in his gallery of the four sons of the king could enable him to keep pace with Brownlow and he returned a card of 75.

Dr. O. F. Willing, another Walker Cup player, had a 72, which led the field until the record-smashing 69 came in. The Prince of Wales congratulated the Portland (Ore.) player and asked him how he did it. His Royal Highness turned then to Dr. Willing's partner and asked his score. When the reply was 92, the prince said:

"That is more like my golf."

George Voigt also returned a card of 72 and George Von Elm had 73. Rex Hartley, R. H. Oppenheimer, N. C. Selway each had scores of 73 and Cyril Tolley, British amateur champion, 76. Doug Fairbanks had 84.

PULLMANS AID PIRATES

Instead of getting mad, Frenchy got a big kick out of it and he started to wake everybody up to show them his bed. Heinie Meine and a few others didn't know about the joke and were asleep. When Frenchy tried to get Heinie up to see it, Heinie started to swear in Dutch and that seemed funnier than anything to us.

GETS DUTCH UP

It's a good thing Jule didn't walk into our car about that time or he'd been hit right in the mush with a pillow and he probably would've socked somebody right in the nose because they tell me he starts swinging when he gets his Dutch temper up.

You see the pitchers and extra players all travel in one car and there's at least five left-handers in there. Heinie says he's gonna ask to be transferred into the other car if they don't separate the left-handers. He says five of them in one car is about three too many.

Well anyhow, we are the ones that have the ol' pep on the field as well as in the Pullmans. As long as nobody gets hurt or nothing gets broke it's all right to fool around.

And I wish you all would take a look at that race this morning, and you'll see that the old Pirates aren't so far off. What we need is a few breaks with Pie and Lloyd back and we'll show them something.

EVANS STOPPED

HAVANA, May 19.—(AP.)—Nunzio Alfa, Spanish middleweight, knocked out Tony Evans, of Youngstown, O., in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Arena Polar here Saturday night. Alfa weighed 158, Evans 161.

TWO PRINCES, DISTRICT NET STARS ON EDGE FOR RACES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

If the recent lapse of May weather into that of April has finally run its course, district racqueters will enjoy their hottest court sessions of the early campaign before the current week is out. Proof of this contention is to be gleaned from inspection of the program of net events for the next few days for, in addition to a full card of important college contesting, there looms in prospect for Saturday the opening of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League season with no less than 18 ambitious aggregations scuffling at the post.

TEAMS AWAIT START

The start of loop activities has been looked forward to most eagerly this year by the more than 100 club performers who will take part in them between May 24 and August 9. Tennis enthusiasm is at high pitch, a fact amply demonstrated by the vastly increased P. T. A. membership that now includes West Penn Power, Duquesne Library, Canonsburg, Washington Heights and Alpha Kappa Psi as well as the dozen organizations that graced the roster in 1929 and are again back with the lone exception of Wilkinsburg, whose courts have been taken over by the borough.

Saturday saw many of the circuit squads busily engaged in preliminary practice. The champion Edgewood team has been hampered in pre-battle workouts by the resurfacing of the suburban rectangles.

Capt. Jimmy Creighton of the rejuvenated South Hills array promises to place a troop in the field that will cause plenty of comment in the upper division sector. Jim has lined up a flock of his old Duke conferees in Jimmy O'Connor, Jake Otko and Jim and Bob Philpott, not to mention the clever Coraopolis duo of Al and Bill McCabe, and unless the dope is as wet as the weather we've been slithering through lately, the youthful Hilltop delegation will cause disturbance aplenty.

The college slate for the week is fairly imposing. Pitt invades Carnegie Tech this afternoon to initiate hostilities, after which the going waxes hard and fast with Duquesne entertaining Allegheny on the Bluff tomorrow, the Tartans playing host to Bethany on Wednesday, the Dukes visiting Waynesburg on Thursday, Pitt journeying to Meadville for an Allegheny clash Friday, and Carnegie treking to Beaver Falls to meet Geneva and the Bluffites being home to Bethany on Saturday.

MAY SHIFT DATE

It is possible, however, that the Duke-Bethany affair will be moved ahead a day to Friday in order to allow Capt. Smeaton Regis Bullion and Frank Casey to compete in P. T. A. League matches on Saturday.

Dr. Billy McElroy's Panthers will be forced to fight through their Skibo and Allegheny tilts without the services of their powerful top man, Eddie Jacobs, who strained a ligament in his back in the doubles at West Point Saturday and will be out for about 10 days. With Dave O'Loughlin to head the procession, though, the Blue and Gold is still in excellent circumstance and small apprehension as to the outcome of either of the impending tussels is felt in Pitt net circles.

Ben Bloom, former Schenley High School lad, will be inserted at the bottom of the Stadium lineup as the rest of the combine moves up to fill in the gap caused by Jacobs' absence.

Babe Ruth Explains How to Cut Off Baseball's Double Steal

By BABE RUTH,
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

"Listen, Babe," Mac asked me, "when there's a runner on third and one on first and they start a double steal, what's the best way of stopping it?"

"Why, I guess the cut-off play," I said. "That's what we use most of the time."

"Yeh, but what's the cut-off?" he asked.

Here's what I told him.

The moment the runner on first breaks for second, the second baseman cuts across to the bag. The catcher naturally starts to throw, which is the signal for the runner on third to dash home. Instead of throwing to second base, however, the catcher shortens his throw to a distance about half way between the pitcher and the second baseman. The shortstop dashes across from his own position to take the throw and, without so much as a glance at the runner going into second, cuts off the throw and hurls the ball back to the catcher to get the man going home.

The picture shows better than words what I mean. The picture shows Mac (the second baseman) over the bag the same as if he were going to tag a runner coming into second. But you will notice that Joe (the shortstop) has come in on the grass in line with the throw ready to cut it off and shoot it back to the catcher. The advantage of the cut-off, of course, is that there is all that distance between Joe and second base saved, and the throws are made shorter and quicker.

Meantime the third baseman covers his own bag the moment a double steal starts, so he is ready to cover up in case anything goes wrong or in case the runner from third stops on the line and a run-up play is necessary. In case of a run-up play the shortstop cuts back to the third base line to get in the play and the pitcher also cuts over. In that case the second baseman holds his own bag as a threat against the other runner advancing further.

On the other hand, the runner at third may not make any attempt to run home. If that should be the case and it looks like the runner on third will not run home, then the second baseman will shout to shortstop to let the throw go. The shortstop steps aside and second baseman takes the throw and by so doing it gives him a chance for a puteut at second.

The breaking up of a double steal sounds like a complicated play, but it really isn't. Once a boys' team has practiced it a few time it will have the theory of the thing down pat. The success or failure, of course, depends entirely on the throwing arms and accuracy of the catcher and the man who handles the cut-off.

JAYS COMPILE BEST RECORD FOR WEEK

(Associated Press.)

Jeannette's Jays won four of the five games they played to top their Middle Atlantic League rivals for the seven-day period beginning Sunday, May 11 and ending Saturday.

They likewise captured defensive honors, holding the opposition to 23 runs and committing the fewest errors, four.

Offensively, the bats of the Clarksburg Generals cracked out 6 hits for the lead in that department, but Charleroi counted the most runs, 41, and also the most home runs, 11.

The records showing games won and lost, hits, runs, errors, opponents' runs and home runs follows:

	W.	L.	H.	R.	E.	OR.	HR.
Jeannette	4	1	49	28	4	23	5
Johnstown	4	2	59	38	9	31	5

Norman to Drive In Bridgeville Race

Bob Norman, Detroit lad, who gave the local speed fans some real thrills at the Bridgeville Speedway last year, again will be in the first race of the season on Decoration Day, May 30.

Norman will have stiffer competition this year than last, but the Detroiter believes the others also will have tougher competition, as he will drive a new job this year in the 100-mile A. A. A. race.

Corrective Period Nearing It's End; Hopeful Factors

By B. C. FORBES

RECOVERY continues, although at slow pace, in industry, agriculture, employment.

The trend in stocks last week was irregularly upwards, on the smallest volume of dealings since January.

Notable ease characterizes the money market, following gold imports of $65,000,000 last month and a drop of $267,000,000 in brokers' loans so far this month.

Confidence in the gradual return of prosperity has become somewhat more widespread.

WALL STREET is anxious to have the overhanging German war bond issue out of the way. It is looked upon as a pill which Europe has decreed this country must swallow. Were these reparation bonds not to be sponsored by the most powerful international banking house in America—in the world—they probably would find little or no market here; but J. P. Morgan and Company can be depended upon to see to it that there is formed a banking syndicate capable of furnishing subscriptions for the total $80,000,000 offering, so that even should ordinary investors fights shy of the issue, the fact would not be immediately disturbing.

Certain investment authorities claim that these German war bonds should be endorsed by the Allies, the principal beneficiaries, before being offered to American investors. Without such endorsement, the long term outlook for the bonds is regarded in some quarters as none too secure, none too reassuring.

The first week in June, however, should dispose of this restrictive factor.

AGRICULTURAL prices have somewhat improved. May wheat in Chicago is selling slightly above last year's level and corn and oats are only a few cents lower. Pork, a vitally important item, is bringing quite as good a price as 12 months ago. Beef, butter and eggs are lower. So, of course, is cotton.

Nothing has happened to alter the opinion expressed here a week ago that the general downward movement in agricultural commodities is probably near its end. Export statistics reveal that foreign countries have been buying American products only as urgently needed—our total April exports were down fully 21 per cent from last year and were the lowest for any month in five years. Holding off by foreign buyers—for the purpose of depressing prices—cannot last indefinitely.

A GOOD DEAL of shallow reasoning is indulged in by those who are concentrating not on the doughnut but on the hole.

Take the matter of steel production. The regular weekly figures always emphasize the percentage of capacity employed. But pessimists overlook the fact that this country's capacity for steel production has very greatly increased. So has our capacity for producing many other lines of materials and merchandise.

Brokers' loans are pointed to as being so much greater than they were several years ago. Why shouldn't they be greater, seeing that the total volume of stocks and bonds outstanding has enormously expanded? As a matter of fact, these loans are down more than a billion-and-a-half from a year ago and are half a billion less than two years ago. That they are larger than when America was a less important nation financially and businesswise, is entirely natural. The fact that non-bank loans in Wall Street have been more than cut in half in the last 12 months—from three billions to less than a billion-and-a-third, is a development more worth noting.

And as pointed out before, now, it is short-sightedness to compare weekly, monthly, quarterly and other reports with the boom reports of a year ago and stop there. Happily, comparisons will shortly become distinctly less unfavorable, less unfair.

UNDER SECRETARY of Treasury Ogden L. Mills, makes this observation:

"It's well to remember that these downswings (in business) do not wipe out the progress achieved during the forward movements, and when the onward march is resumed once more, we start, not from the old mark, but from the new."

He observed that our total realized income is now estimated at about $90,000,000,000 a year compared with only $30,000,000,000 in 1909, increasing "the net income per individual gainfully employed from $864 to $1,920." Between 1912 and 1922 our national wealth rose from $186,000,000,000 to $320,000,000,000 and is now, he declared, "well in excess" of the latter figure.

DON'T ASSUME that industry and business are going to shrink and shrink or that good stocks are destined to do anything but decline. Over-indulgence in stock speculation made a corrective period necessary. That period should be nearing its end. The process is already distinctly less severe.

In the stock market it may be over.

Stocks Sluggish — Lone Star Gas Gains

STOCKS START WEEK HEAVY, SLUGGISH

Market Deaf to Lamont's Prediction of Normal Business in 3 Months

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP.)—Stocks were sluggish and heavy at the beginning of the new week today, and the market was deaf to Secretary of Commerce Lamont's prediction that business would return to normal within three months. The session was in curious contrast to the eagerness of professional traders to bid up prices in response to optimistic forecasts a few weeks ago.

Business and trade reports coming to hand over the week end were mostly colorless and unimpressive and during the early hours of trading the market was even more torpid than on Saturday when trading was the slowest in nearly two years. Such activity as developed was largely bearish, and stocks failed to display the firm undertone noted in the dull trading late last week.

BAKINGS HIGHER

A little bullish activity appeared in the baking stocks but failed to make much headway. National Biscuit was well bought for a time reflecting unconfirmed reports that earnings were running ahead of last year, and a little buying appeared in some of the rails. Such recent strong spots as the amusement farm implement and public utility shares sagged, as traders seeing no prospect of an early revival of the bull market took their profits. Steels were depressed by continued uncertainty over the steel prices, and electric equipments were sold in response to reports of slack buying of their products, although they have been favored by the drop in copper prices.

The secretary of commerce's statement forecasting a return to normal in three months was in general in keeping with most Wall street expectations. Most forecasters have been indicating early autumn or perhaps a few weeks earlier as the most probable period at which to expect normal conditions. Mr. Lamont pointed to improved retail trade, and indications that the drop in commodity prices has been checked.

SHOWS DECLINE

One of the first April railway net income reports to appear was that of Kansas City Southern, showing a further decline to $315,197, compared to $405,042 the previous month and $472,486 in April, 1929. April tobacco production figures made their appearance, and showing moderate reductions from April of last year, were less favorable than expected, in view of recent unofficial reports of increasing sales.

Bearish operations became more aggressive in the early afternoon. St. Louis Southwestern, a buoyant feature last week, broke more than 8 points, and Case and Auburn Auto nearly as much. Loews, which has been a recent strong spot, lost a few points and shares declining 3 or more included International Harvester, American Tobacco B, U. S. Steel, Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse Electric, Standard Gas, A. M. Byers, Celotex, Coca Cola and Chicago Great Western preferred. Such stocks as American Can, General Electric and Consolidated Gas also declined substantially. U. S. Freight was an acutely weak spot, tumbling several points to a new 1930 low.

Call money held at 3 per cent. The $100,000,000 offering of Treasury bills must be paid for tomorrow, which is expected to hold money rates steady.

U. S. LOSER IN SHIP SUIT

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Merchant Fleet Corporation lost its dispute with the Groton Iron Works and Charles W. Morse & Sons, involving damages for suspension of construction of ships because of alleged breaches of three shipbuilding contracts.

The government contended the fleet corporation was not personally liable for an accounting under the contracts. The lower court held the suit could be maintained by Groton against the fleet corporation for an accounting under the contracts. The Groton Company asked damages of $13,000,000, and the government contended it had been overpaid by $5,000,000.

Sugar Price Cut For Pacific Coast

DENVER, May 19.—Western Sugar Company has reduced the price of refined sugar 20 points to 4.70c basis for Pacific coast markets only. No change has been made in the eastern market price.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—California & Hawaiian announce, effective today, a base price of $4.70 per cwt. compared with former price of $4.90.

Silver Production Declining in U. S.

Production of silver in the United States in April was 4,704,000 fine ounces, against 4,998,000 ounces in March and 5,422,000 in April, 1929, according to the American bureau of metal statistics.

Stocks of silver in the United States on May 7 totaled 356,000 ounces, against 338,000 on April 1, and 876,000 May 1, 1929.

American Car & Foundry Dips Into Reserve to Meet Common

American Car and Foundry Company and subsidiaries had net profit of around $5,200,000 after all charges in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1930. Equal after preferred dividends to slightly more than $5 a share for 600,000 shares no par common. In the preceding fiscal year net profits amounted to $2,715,174 or $1.02 a common share. The statement will be made public in about a month. Preferred and common dividends require $5,800,000 annually, so the company apparently appropriated $600,000 from its dividend reserve to meet the $6 dividend on the common in the past fiscal year. There is no present intention of reducing the dividend.

Announcement of the move by Standard Oil of California putting into effect a cut ranging from 75 to 90 cents a barrel on light grades of crude oil in the Santa Fe springs field caused no great surprise in New York oil circles. This action has been looked upon as the only alternative in the event that producers in that territory did not agree to abide by the conversation schedule adopted by producers in all other important fields in the state. It had been strongly intimated that price schedules for Santa Fe Spring crude would be sharply reduced if producers there persisted in holding out. The cut there and in Pennsylvania, however, is accepted as taking the form of a local situation and not indicative of conditions in the general picture or as likely to be followed by other cuts.

Preferred shareholders of American Locomotive Company will heave a sigh of relief with the cutting of the common dividend to $4. While the company is strongly entrenched in cash and marketable securities it costs approximately $770,000 to pay the $1 quarterly dividend. It is assumed that business will show some improvement in the final months of the year so this can be earned if it is to be continued. Now that the directors have broken the ice it is probable that the dividend will be continued only if earned so that the company can keep the integrity of its balance sheet.

Less than a week now remains in which holders of the 4½ per cent debentures of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, desiring to participate in the recently announced stock offering, may convert their present security for stock. This action must be taken before the close of business next Friday, May 23, only through such conversion, as set forth in the terms of the stock offering, may holders of the debentures participate. About the middle of the week, the company reported that around $145,000,000, of about 67 per cent of the original total of some $218,800,000 of the debentures had been presented under the plan. Thus there remains outstanding somewhere in the neighborhood of $73,000,000 of the bonds to be turned in within the week, if all holders are to come in under the new stock offering.

Although the building and construction industry has not made the hoped for progress so confidently looked for with the easing of credit thus far this year, quarters intimately versed with the situation in this basic field, are of the opinion that a pronounced upturn is not far off. Accumulation has been reported at various times as taking place in American Radiator and Standard Sanitary at current low levels, in the anticipation that this stock will reflect the pick-up favorably. Continued efforts at diversification of the company's products has resulted in the manufacture of some 18 incidentals connected with the building trade.

The move toward huge utility consolidations, particularly in the eastern part of the country, has occasioned persistent market strength in public service of New Jersey. It is expected that the next step of the Morgan Bonbright utility interests will be an offering on the part of united corporations for the stock of this company. Terms of the exchange are expected to favor the stockholders of public service.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Trading in curb stocks shriveled to minimum proportions today. Pools were inactive and the market made the best of a dull day by easing only slightly from the Saturday closing levels. Turnover in the early part of the session was at the rate of only a little more than 1,000 shares an hour.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

EXCESS COPPER STOCKS CUT DOWN

Buying Movement This Month Has Reduced Surplus 550,000,000 Pounds

NEW YORK, May 19.—Stock of refined copper in hands of American producers and refiners, which on May 1 came to 602,676,000 pounds, are now down to reasonable proposition again if allowance is made for sales in May. Of course, the deliveries on these sales will be scattered over May, June and July, but the signed contracts are in the hands of producers, so that the burden is off the industry.

Sales of copper in May on foreign and domestic account to and including May 14 are estimated at 550,000,000 pounds, of which 410,000,000 pounds are for domestic shipment and 140,000,000 for export. Later sales for any two weeks on record.

OUTPUT REDUCED

This would bring refined stocks down to 5,000,000 pounds disregarding current production. World production of copper was about 288,000,000 pounds in April. There has undoubtedly been a reduction in output since copper has dropped to 13 cents and under.

Even if world production be assumed to have been 145,000,000 pounds of copper in the first two weeks of May, which no doubt is appreciably greater than it actually was and if all this output were added to stocks here they would come to only 195,000,000 pounds.

FOREIGN STOCKS

There was less than 25,000,000 pounds of refined copper at Havre and in British warehouses May 1. Allowing for Japanese stocks which undoubtedly have also been reduced, there are less than 240,000,000 pounds of unsold copper in refined form in hands of producers throughout the world. This is less than half the amount sold in the past two weeks.

Buying here and abroad although no longer at record rate is in fair volume and undoubtedly a considerable additional tonnage will be sold during the remaining two weeks of the month.

G. M. SALES UP FOR APRIL

NEW YORK, May 19.—During the month of April General Motors dealers in the United States delivered to consumers 142,004 cars, according to an announcement made today by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president. This compares with 123,781 cars in the month of March and with 173,201 in April, 1929. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers in the United States amounted to 172,365 cars as compared with 118,661 in March and as compared further with 176,634 in April, 1929.

Total sales to dealers including Canadian sales and overseas shipments amounted to 180,661 cars, as compared with 135,930 in March and as compared further with 227,718 in April, 1929.

NO. 215
AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the authorities of Allegheny County the right to construct, maintain and use a tunnel under and across Fourth avenue at a point distant 73 feet easterly from the easterly property line of Ross street, First Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa., for the purpose of the transmission of power by the Allegheny County Light Company, and providing for the granting of a permit therefor.
SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the authorities of Allegheny County are hereby given the right and authority to construct, maintain and use a tunnel under and across Fourth avenue at a point distant 73 feet easterly from the easterly property line of Ross street, First Ward, City of Pittsburgh.
SECTION 2. That the said tunnel for the purpose of installation of steam mains and return pipes, electrical conduits, gas mains, water mains and sewers between the Allegheny County Light Company's property on the south side of Fourth avenue and Allegheny County property on the north side of Fourth avenue.
The foregoing tunnel shall be laid in the location and in full conformance with the plans on file in the Bureau of Surveys, Division of Highways and Bridges, Department of Public Works, as Excavation No. B 381 Folder F, said tunnel under and across Fourth avenue, east of Ross street for the authorities of Allegheny County.
SECTION 3. The construction, maintenance and use of the said tunnel shall be at all times at the sole expense of Allegheny County, subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works.
SECTION 4. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over city streets and to the ordinances of the said City relating thereto, and to the provisions of any general ordinance which hereafter may be passed relating to the construction, operation and maintenance thereof and also underground structures in city streets and compensation for same.
SECTION 5. The said grantees shall be liable for all damages to persons or property including the street and sub-surface structures thereof, by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of the said tunnel.
SECTION 6. The said grantees shall at their cost and expense repair and replace all street pavement, sidewalk, curbs and sub-surface structures, which are in any way damaged or disturbed in the construction, maintenance and use of the said tunnel, all of which work shall be subject to the approval and supervision of the Director of the Department of Public Works of the said city

DAILY TRUE STORY

Out of a Clear Sky

Marvin Drake jammed his unfinished play manuscript into his brief case.

"Girls!" he muttered, and then, "Women!"

He recalled a one time popular "nutty song" in which the mention of women was supposed to drive the singer into insanity.

He felt about the same way.

In the first place, just as he became interested in his rather efficient secretary and saw real romance in the offing she resigned.

It was her excuse that upset Drake. It was a sufficiently good excuse at that. The girl was going to be married.

Dolly Ryerson had dropped in the next week and asked if it wasn't time for them to be thinking of marriage. Drake never knew when to take Dolly seriously, but he did know that he had no desire to marry Dolly.

"I've been thinking of it quite seriously," Drake told her, "so seriously that I'm wise to you, young lady. You wouldn't marry me on a bet, and you are having fun at my expense."

"There's always the courts," Dolly said gravely.

Dolly was a female practical joker, but Drake didn't relish this joke. It upset him so that he couldn't do any writing for a couple of days. Dolly was a cute little widow, and she was just erratic enough to sue him for breach of promise, he feared.

He wished he knew whether she were serious or getting enjoyment out of worrying him like that.

When he secured a new secretary she gushed over the stuff she retyped for him and made him nervous. If she had been half as skilled at spelling punctuation and typing as she was at cuddling and making eyes at him, she'd have been the world's most valuable secretary. He let her go under pretext of making a trip for material, and she got mad and told him that he was a sap and didn't appreciate her or all she had been willing to mean to him.

Drake's married sister, where he lived, was forever having bridge parties or coming in late from some place with a crowd, so that he couldn't work there.

And his producers wanted that play finished within two more weeks.

Dolly Drops In

Drake got hold of Chubby Thompson, called Chubby because he was built like a flagpole.

"You're going to Canada for the summer, Chubby," Drake said. "Lease that little hide-away place of yours to me for a while."

"Sure, Marvin. What's up now?"

"Want to finish some writing—alone, away from women."

So it was arranged. He went to his office, telephoned his producer his new address and warned him not to mention it to a soul.

It was then that Dolly Ryerson dropped in again. She introduced a tall willowy girl with a high, pale forehead, a Miss Vinton.

"You look so young to be such a successful dramatist," Miss Vinton murmured, holding Drake's hand as she was introduced.

"She is also a writer," she said to him. "She writes plays, too—think of that!"

"Indeed," murmured Drake. He was getting nervous. Miss Vinton was fishing from a handbag some manuscript.

"I'd love to read you one scene, Mr. Drake, and get your valuable advice."

Drake had to listen. He finally got them out. Then it was that he jammed his manuscript into a brief case, growled disgustedly about "girls" and "women" and started for Chubby Thompson's hide-away place, a bungalow tucked behind a small-sized New Jersey mountain, reached by a half-hidden wood road and hedged around about by a high wall, topped with barbed wire.

Drake took Smith with him. Smith had been Drake's man for some years. He could drive the car, serve as a valet and he could also cook, and cook mighty well.

Ideal Place

Drake settled down to work. There was a summer house in the yard, an ideal place. There were beds of flowers, little gravel walks, plenty of trees and plenty of solitude away from women.

"Forward my mail," Drake had said to his publisher, "and don't tell a soul where I am."

"You ought to stay and look over some possible leading ladies——"

"That's out! You've got the first two acts. Go to it."

So Marvin Drake wrote and re-wrote his third act.

One day Drake was determined to work out his climax. He paced the little garden paths, came back and made notes in the summer house, but he couldn't quite dig up the smashing climax that he wanted.

Smith watched him from the kitchen window and felt a great deal of sympathy for him. He went out with a tall cool drink.

"Take it easy, Mr. Drake," Smith said. "It will come to you right out of a clear sky, just the way ideas come to inventors."

Drake nodded, stared at the cloudless blue sky and sipped his drink.

Drake's play was a comedy drama based on the dramatist's first aid, the ancient situation of a general misunderstanding.

The girl his hero wanted had misunderstood him, had believed that he was philandering with a giddy little dame whose activities extended from cradle-snatching to husband-snatching.

To have her suddenly discover that she had wronged the hero didn't supply the necessary thrill for these days of drama when things like steam rollers, elevated trains or dynamited love nests were portrayed on stage to add to the realism.

If he could work it out to have a head-on automobile smash on stage between hero and heroine, so tricked that the pair could seemingly be trapped under one of the cars——

He wrote a little.

And the wreckage take fire while they are pinned down.

There was a swishing noise, a sharp exclamation, a sudden cloud of shadow in the garden.

Drake turned and stared.

Drake Angry

"What the devil," he growled, and hurried down to a corner of the garden wall.

A great parachute was draped over a corner of the wall and some blooming shrubbery and someone was trying to get down from the wall.

"Look here, mister, in all of these United States was this the only spot you could drop?"

Drake was furious. His train of thought had been utterly wrecked.

"It's no time to scold a girl when she's got barbed wire snarled up in her legs," said a voice.

"For Pete's sake, a woman!" Drake yelled the words. This seemed to be the last straw.

"That isn't my fault," said the girl.

"Of course it is." Drake grumbled as he dragged a stepladder over to get up and help her down.

"I mean about being a woman—and I guess barbed wire hurts, regardless of sex—ouch, easy, please."

Drake got her down.

Off came her leather helmet, then she unfastened things and stepped out of the parachute harness, then out of the heavy costume. She sat right down on the grass and examined two very pretty but somewhat bloody knees.

"I'll get you some iodine. Wait."

Drake hurried in. To his dismay, Smith had taken the car down for provisions.

She pat on the back steps while he brought a basin of water and first aid kit and fixed up her badly scratched knees.

"Anyway, I'm a butterfly," she said.

Drake stared at her and she laughed.

"I'm not from any asylum. I am Edith Nichols and we've got a Butterfly Club. Only girls who have made a parachute leap can be members. I jumped too soon. Isn't your wife or mother or—or some woman——"

"All alone, Miss Nichols, but go in and make yourself at home."

The girl went in. Drake loosened the parachute and folded it with deftness. Then he went to his summer house to try and collect his thoughts. Miss Nichols came out a little later.

Her knees were bandaged.

"Still cross?" she asked.

Nerves Still Upset

"Better get some sleep, your nerves are upset——"

"Only because you bawled me out. How do I get away from here, please?"

"When my man comes back he'll get luncheon and then take you to the nearest railroad station in the car, so if you'll just make yourself at home—in the house——"

"Are you afraid of girls? What are you writing?"

Drake turned and stared at her.

"I have been trying to write the climax to a play——"

"That's it—you are Marvin Drake. I knew I had seen your pictures. So sorry I came and shattered your muse. What sort of a climax do you want?"

"If I will tell you, will you go inside and rest a while?"

Edith Nichols nodded.

Drake told her about the play and about his head-on automobile crash, the upturned car, the fire and all that.

"The fire part is out. You can't make it look right on the stage. Why don't you—let's see——"

The girl hesitated.

"So easy isn't it?" Drake said sarcastically. He was sore again. The girl was right, he couldn't get a good fire effect.

"Sure it's easy. Have your heroine come down the way I did! Have her think he's in a love-nest and she only finds him surrounded by her pictures, alone, trying to write a really pleading letter to her—you know—work in the barbed wire and he bathes her knees and they fall into each other's arms—and she has to stay there all night and—and of course, then, because of talk—you get the idea——"

Marvin Drake was jotting down notes feverishly.

"Great—my dear young lady, great—a little far-fetched, but it will do all right."

Smith didn't return. Drake got dinner with the girl's help.

At 11 he made her take his room and he camped in Smith's quarters off the kitchen. At daylight Smith returned in another car and his head tied up. A truck in town had smashed into him and demolished the car; no telephone; he got back as soon as possible. Smith seemed somewhat suspicious when he saw Miss Nichols.

Drake's play went over quite satisfactorily a few months later.

Drake and Mrs. Drake, nee Nichols, were at the opening.

THIS is an appeal to the better instincts of American men and women! All we ask is that you send in the poetry written by your children. We will grade these efforts, and when merit is apparent, we will publish the verses in this column, and thus start the little ones off with a bang, bang, bang on literary careers! There are no strings attached to this offer, other than the ordinary strings that you find attached to any parcel that comes from a reputable firm. Remember that many poets would never have had anything published if it had not been for our liberal policy. Results is what we want. Keep the little hands busy. If the children lag in their efforts, rap then over the knuckles with a stiff switch or ordinary ruler.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

Tomorrow's Election

Important Candidacies Will Be Decided By Primary Contest.

Citizens of Pennsylvania go to the polls tomorrow to choose party nominees for United States senator, governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of internal affairs, judge of the Supreme Court, two judges of the Superior Court, representatives in Congress, state senators, representatives in the Legislature, members of the State committee, county committeemen and county committeewomen.

Since it is a foregone conclusion that most of the Republican nominees will be elected, the contests for that party's nominations have almost monopolized interest.

The campaign has been remarkable in two respects. It has been unusually free from mud-slinging, and unusual for the number of questionnaires sent candidates by organizations and individuals desirous of knowing how the aspirants for office regard various matters. These are healthy signs.

Another healthy sign is the alertness that is being shown to prevent fraud.

In the contest for United States senator, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is the most desirable candidate because of his long record of valuable public service, attested by his appointment to the cabinet by three presidents. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, a professional lobbyist before his appointment to the Senate, offers practically no other claim to consideration but his advocacy of a high protective tariff. Davis favors a protective tariff, too, but has other equally important planks in his platform.

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot deserves support in the gubernatorial race, not only because of the good administration he gave in his previous tenure but also because he has come out squarely for abolition of the coal and iron police, stricter regulation of the public utilities, and other changes that are sorely needed for the protection of the citizens.

Francis Shunk Brown's outstanding bid for support is his proposal for a referendum on prohibition. He has been a rather colorless candidate.

Francis H. Bohlen, candidate for the United States Senate, and Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., candidate for governor, on an anti-dry platform, are likely to receive a handsome vote, but scarcely to be elected.

Allegheny County has a worthwhile candidate for the Superior Court in Judge James B. Drew. Judge Drew has been efficient, fair and energetic in the discharge of his duties in the Common Pleas Court and merits promotion to the higher bench.

It is to be hoped that the overshadowing interest in the senatorial and gubernatorial contests has not been permitted by any considerable number of voters to make them indifferent to the congressional and legislative nominations.

It is in Congress and the Legislature, after all, that the citizens must rely for action on the matters in which they are most interested.

Thoughtful citizens who have not already done so will make inquiries today as to where the candidates stand, and not vote blindly tomorrow for the minor offices.

Two Wonderful Gifts To Benefit Humanity

Two significant incidents indicate the forward march of Pittsburgh in adding to the technical knowledge of the world. One is that a wonderful new building is to be erected for the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, with equipment to expand greatly its usefulness. Another is the announcement that Carnegie Institute of Technology has received contributions amounting to $425,000 to finance a five-year program of coal research.

It is impossible to forecast the far-reaching benefits to accrue from these activities—one to extend general industrial research and one to develop the possibilities that lie in coal—a field that has been cultivated but little compared to its hidden resources, scientists believe.

The new Mellon Institute will be a notable addition to the group of buildings in the Oakland district. Architecturally it will be a rival to the marvelous structures that were the glory of ancient Greece. But its utility will far outshine the esthetic aspect, according to Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of the Institute. There will be an increase in the number of laboratories and provision is made for the expansion of the library of technical books from 11,000 to 250,000 volumes on chemistry, science and technology.

These are real benefactions, and those who make them possible are the greatest of philanthropists. Though they remain unidentified we sing their praises. Their deeds make possible advances in technical methods and the revealing of new substances that will be useful to the whole people. The value of this never can be estimated in dollars.

Medals for Heroism Earned by 30 Pupils

The gospel of safety has been preached to the children of Pittsburgh with such good effect that 30 of them today appear as fittingly decorated heroines and heroes in the eyes of their fellow pupils of the Pittsburgh schools. That number, at a demonstration held in the Nixon Theater, received medals for having saved lives.

The affair, under the direction of the Junior Safety Council of the Pittsburgh public schools, and attended by hundreds of pupils, included addresses encouraging children to promote the safety of themselves and others.

We have always been proud of the educational standard our children maintain. We add to this feeling in contemplating their record in behalf of humanity—a record in which 30 youngsters qualify for distinction.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Plowing Season Is Here

Our golfers are in England to snatch defeat from victory.

"Bugs" Baer

The Prince of Wales saved Bobby Jones by niblicking a sensational brassie on his third putt.

Dave and Bobby were one down and no place to go. The Prince came to bat in a deep-dish bunker and started a sand storm.

The Prince's whack was exactly like a butterfly in a museum.

It was dead on the pin.

Playing golf with kings and princes is not so easy. This is because royalty has the regal perogative of adding up its scores last.

Which is a big help in golf. Golf is a beautiful game when you are enjoying it. Which is on the average of about once every 16 rounds.

We're one of those birds who can't get out to the links very often. And when we get there we can't stay on them.

We generally appear on the links on a busy Saturday afternoon and immediately become east-and-west traffic on a north-bound fairway.

All we know about golf is that a two-ball match has the right-of-way over a foursome. A foursome has the edge on a threesome. A threesome can go through a onesome. And a onesome is outranked in seniority by the nearest caddy.

There is too much etiquette in that racket such as dropping a lost ball over your left shoulder, touching your spoon blade in the hot sand, sneezing on the putting green, and trying to smooth out the grass with feet big enough to stamp out a forest fire.

The reason so few golfers keep their eyes on the ball is that they will do much better keeping their lamps on their opponents.

You're not supposed to watch what the other fellow is doing. But if you don't you must be a man who would try to run a bank without keeping books.

Good golf scores are rather sketchy. Most duffers just pencil them in.

The best way to enjoy the divoting racket is to put your opponent on his honor like a parrot on a perch. Play a good square game with round corners.

There is plenty of room for backwoods embezzling on a links. If a referee can't see what is happening in a 24-foot ring what do you suppose he is going to do on a 60-acre lot?

A golfer is at his best when he is playing his game of last summer with next year's arithmetic.

UNSEEN PLANETS

By Archibald Henderson

In the midst of the excitement and furore over the discovery of the new body, pronounced a planet by the astronomers of the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, little has been said of the predictions of Professor W. H. Pickering. To this subject he has devoted much of his time since 1908.

In 1910 Pickering believed that four trans-Neptunian planets would ultimately be found. Observation did not confirm these predictions. One year later he established himself at Mandeville in Jamaica, and since that time has been making exhaustive studies of the unseen planets which he believes to exist beyond Neptune.

Over a long period of years he has been studying certain comets and also calculating the paths of the three theoretical planets which he now believes to exist. In making these calculations he has proceeded upon the same general principles which guided Le Verrier and Adams in locating Neptune.

There are many deviations in the movements of the known outer planets which yet remain unexplained. There are certain comets slipping quietly through trans-Neptunian space in vast elliptical orbits which cannot be accounted for by the influence of the known bodies.

It is on such evidence, gathered together from many observations, that Prof. Pickering bases his predictions.

For instance, he predicts the existence of a body which he calls Planet O, with a mass of about three-fourths that of the earth, and a diameter of about 7,000 miles. He predicted that in February, 1928, Planet O would be distant about 2,800,000,000 miles from the earth, and should show up as a star of about the twelfth magnitude. Concerning this theoretical planet he said:

"The existence and position of Planet O is evidenced by perturbations or deviations in Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. The maximum deviation of Neptune occurred in 1904, when Neptune was about 60,000 miles out of its computed orbit. It is my judgment that at this time O passed relatively near Neptune.

"An unexplained deviation of Uranus occurred in 1841. It was about 20,000 miles out of course. This perturbation is explained by my computed orbit for Planet O, which places O in conjunction with Uranus in that year. Then there are three perturbations of Saturn which remain after the gravitational influence of all the known planets has been accounted for. These disturbances occurred in 1850, 1885 and 1917. I account for them by the proximity of the unknown O in those years.

"The orbit of O is elliptical and cuts across the orbit of Neptune. For one-half of its revolution around the sun O is traveling between the paths of Uranus and Neptune, and for the other half it swings far beyond Neptune's path.

"Planet O's period of revolution is about 165 years. It appears to be a sort of twin planet with Neptune, though much smaller."

The two other hypothetical planets, which Pickering believes to exist, have been named by him Planet S and Planet P. Planet S has a mass five times that of the earth. It moves in an orbit about 4,459,000,000 miles distant and should show up as of the tenth magnitude.

Planet P is a body which outweighs the earth 19 times. It moves in an orbit 6,300,000,000 miles from the sun. Although this is more than double the distance of O, Planet P on account of its larger size reflects more sunlight and should rate in brightness as of the eleventh magnitude.

None of these planets has yet been observed, so far as is known. None of them agrees in distance and orbit with the recently discovered Planet X. Verification lies, if at all, in the future.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

There was an American millionaire that made a trip to Europe last summer, and some of his friends was talking to him about it the other day. They were asking his advice about where to stop and what to see. Somebody says, "Say, Rocks, ain't it awful in Europe?"

"Yeah, it's awful all right, but how do you mean?"

"Why, they're all so hard up over there, I heard."

"Oh, hard up. Well, they was before I went over. But I caught it from them, just as they was getting over it, when I was ready to sail for home. They can't be hard up any more."

A hot Sunday afternoon. Bees bumbling in and out of the hollyhocks and the smell of Sunday dinner thickening on the air. And you, a little tad of six—or was it eight?—sitting on the back steps, looking drowsily up at the bees and wondering what God was really like. Wondering, for the first time, what God was really like.

Ol' Mis' Amy Steele, your Sunday school teacher, said he was a godda wrath. And told you mean things about him. How he used to go snooping around like an ol' tattletale, trying to catch people up to something, trying to frighten them and punish them. Mis' Steele seemed to think it was all right for a god to act like that, but you didn't. Sitting there so warm and happy, with the bees bumbling and dinner almost ready, you couldn't believe God was such an old meanie. Probably He was more like ol' Gramp Sawyer, that everybody took their troubles to. Easy going and good natured. And always understanding, no matter what you did. Yes, prob'ly God was like that. In fact, you were sure he was. So, comforted, you went in to dinner.

Remember? A long time ago, wasn't it? You smile now at that little tad. And yet many's the time since when you've wondered the same thing. Times when you've been in some desperate pain—times when the whole world seemed filled with cruelty. What was God like, to let things happen like that? What were churches or religions worth if they only made people snoopy and smug? If only there was somebody to turn to—some god strong and understanding and kind—especially kind.

Well, there is a god like that in New York these days—or, at least, the big and gentle semblance of such a god, presiding over Marc Connelly's moving play—"Green Pastures." A black god in a colored heaven. A very family sort of heaven, where little pickaninnies wear their best clothes forever more and big folks loaf ecstatically in golden ease, smoking "10-cent seegars" and attending endless "fish fries." Through it all moves "de Lawd"—good natured, easy going, carrying heaven and earth on his wise, wide shoulders—a kind God, waves away dissension and says, with most amiable and tolerant understanding—"Let de fish fry proceed!"

So it happened that we who sat so elegantly in our disillusioned chairs were suddenly little children once more listening humbly and with a great feeling of belongingness to that compassionate old Creator. Here, at last, was a god-like ol' Gramp Sawyer—a god who didn't snoop and pester and punish—a god of loving kindness, not a godda wrath.

And, in that quiet moment, it seemed to me quite clear what is the matter with all of us . . . why we have left churches . . . why we go so lonely and bewildered on our lonely, defiant way. If only some one would bring back a god like that—a big, friendly, easy-going god, who would smile gently at our foolishness and understand our sinfulness and say, with infinite tolerance—"LET DE FISH FRY PROCEED."

Then, I'm quite sure, we'd be good.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

With a Music Box

May this quaint little box
With its tinkling old tune
Bring you hints of the sun
And the roses in June,
When the meadow-larks sing
And the whole sky is blue,
For it's June in my heart
When I'm thinking of you!

I am sure, could you lift
Up the lid of my soul
And, peering within,
Could discern these the whole,
It would answer your touch
With some tinkling old tune,
Brimming over with love
Like the roses in June!

Text For Today

He that believeth in Christ is not condemned, but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the only begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.—John iii:18, 19.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Whether such a hypothesis is necessary or even harmonious with the facts of the case we shall leave the reader to judge at the end of this Book 4. We give it here as a second theory, which must be treated with respect, the theory of an upward drive in life.

Dr. H. B. Wells

Now while Lamarck was elaborating his transformist ideas, an English clergyman, Dr. Malthus (1766-1834) was developing certain views that did not at first sight seem to have any bearing upon natural history and transformism at all. His preoccupations seem to have been purely social. He was struck by the rapid increase of the human population about him—and he lived in a prolific age.

It was increasing, he thought, much faster than was the food supply. Consequently there was already a harsh struggle for subsistence going on. Mankind was breeding its way toward starvation; the weakest would go to the wall.

Famine and the check of pestilence were the natural counters to this drift toward over-population and an unendurable poverty, and he urged his fellow creatures to avoid such miseries by restraining their increase through late marriage and through continence.

The artificial interference with conception known as birth-control or Neo-Malthusianism we may note had no place in his philosophy.

That was as far as he got; he betrayed no consciousness of the bearing of his observations upon the fact of transformism, of which indeed he may have been quite unaware.

It happened, however, that his writings were read by two scientific travelers and naturalists who were both alive to the fact of evolution, but by no means satisfied with Lamarckism as a complete explanation of it. (Creative Evolution with its elam vital was still to come). There were Charles Darwin (1809-1882) and Alfred Russell Wallace (1823-1913).

It is well to note here that Darwin did not "discover" Evolution as many people suppose. Evolution is not Darwinism and Darwinism is not Evolution. The idea of Evolution is not only at least as old in modern thought as Lamarck, but adumbrations of it are clearly traceable in such ancient writers as Lucretius and Empedocles.

But in the minds of Darwin and Wallace, looking for operating causes for the evolutionary process, the phrase of Malthus, "the struggle for subsistence," found a fruitful soil. Both realized a second great fact, for fact it is, in the general conditions of life—namely, Natural Selection.

Every living species is continually producing a multitude of individuals varying more or less among themselves, some better fitted to live than others and all competing against each other for food and a place in the sun.

On the whole, Nature will let the better fitted ones live more abundantly and she will kill off the less happily constituted. The weaker will go to the wall; they will not breed so much; the stronger and the offspring will prevail.

Assuming that weakness and strength and in general fitness and unfitness are hereditable qualities—and that is the general persuasion—a species must be always on the grindstone having its unsuitable strains eliminated and its suitable strains left in possession.

Now let us be quite clear here; speaking with precision, Natural Selection we say is not a theory but a fact. But does it, in connection with the small differences that occur between every individual and its peers and the distinctive resemblance of parent and child suffice to account for the whole spectacle of evolution?

With or without that element of effort and hereditable acquirement which Lamarckism asserts? There we do come to speculative matter, to theories. Darwin thought it did. He did not contradict the Lamarckian hypotheses, but he added a new factor in the process, which factor he drew from Malthus.

In 1859 he published a book which made an immense stir in the world and he called it The Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection. We have insisted that Natural Selection is not a theory.

But on the other hand, this appeal to the fact of Natural Selection and the fact of hereditable variations as giving between them a full and sufficient explanation of the fact that Evolution is a theory; it is the Darwinian Theory.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 19.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early up to see Gilbert White, the portrait painter, and his wife from Paris and drove with them to Forest Hills and saw many attractive homes, in especial Fred Stone's, and back to the Marguery for a tasty repast including crepes Suzette.

This day starts my seventeenth year of writing a daily column about New York and its people and, while I have but a few dollars of my own, have provided modest competency for my wife, who deserves it. And enduring me, through 22 years of marriage is a study in tolerance.

In the evening with the Ed Nolans, Nellie Russey and Stuart Price, of Shanghai, to Larue for dinner. And to see "Young Sinners," a mildly amusing travesty of the younger generation, and then walking Stuart to his hotel talking of days when we lived in Plattsburg out in Missouri and so to bed.

Chorus men are listed in a musical play program as "Singing and Dancing Boys."

Members of the few remaining theater orchestras, forced to sit night after night in the pit unable to see the show, have a method of relieving tedium with an improvised sign language. In this way they tell a story or crack a joke and when a show has a long run become extremely proficient.

In some theaters the press agent posts on the back stage bulletin board the names of celebrities in the audience. This often inspires players to extraordinarily fine performances.

Personal nomination for the prettiest young girl in a theatrical cast this season—Fifi Lambeer in "Fifty Million Frenchmen."

An auspicious first night is not considered quite complete without including Mayor Walker, Paul Block, Sailing Baruch, Neysa McMein, E. D. Coblenz, Herbert Bayard Swope, Al Smith, Mrs. Julius Walsh, Cholly Knickerbocker, William McBride and the Frank V. Storrs.

One of the most persistent first night patrons is the immaculately attired Aaron Reuben, whose delicatessen salons are among the haunts of theatrical folk after curtains fall.

Perhaps the most representative New York audience ever collected in a theater attended the special invitation performance of "Show Boat" for the guest of honor—Charles Lindbergh. Each was especially invited and everybody watched the lone eagle instead of the show.

Tickets for a premiere are not on sale at agencies or the box office. More than half the house is given away to critics, personal friends of the producer, star, etc. The rest are sold to a favorite list—usually "people of importance"—who send checks to the management.

It is the custom of most producers to hold out from four to six seats among the first rows nightly for sudden emergencies. These are held until 10 minutes of eight and if not used are sold at the box office. That is why a late and casual customer often finds himself holder of the best seats in the house.

A white bow satin tie—instead of linen—is now being worn with full evening dress by bloods who toe fashion's mark.

Electric air travel sign a few steps off Broadway: "Take to the air like birdies and fly places." It sounds positively unmanly to us.

"In one of your harking-back moments," writes W. S. P., "I'd like to join you in a good cry out loud in Times Square for the passing of the old time minstrel with its Lew Dockstaders, Honey Boy Evanses, Neil O'Briens and Billy B. Vans."

Since I hopped on the wagon I don't cry out loud publicly any more. But I'll go into a huddle with you for a few suppressed sniffles in private.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

If you think your expenses are more than they should be and your family are spending more than you can afford, why don't you provide proof?

Don't keep grumbling all the time about it without showing them an itemized account.

Better still, pay by check and show the vouchers to substantiate your claim.

These little slips of paper, seen and studied, can do more than a volume of words in convincing your family of the necessity of curtailing expenses.

Of course, it won't do for you to preach economy if you spend considerable sums yourself that are unnecessary.

You may be economical in small things and extravagant in large matters.

While you are thus inconsistent you can't expect to convince your family that it is necessary to be careful in expenditure.

Don't try to excuse yourself on the plea that you must maintain a position for the family and so must buy the more expensive things.

They would probably reply that if you required it, they do also, for the same reason.

But you must do some slicing of your own spending before you can convince your family that they should do so.
